

BABY'S COLDS
Children's delicate digestions are easily affected by too much "dosing." Still, the little ones' cold troubles cannot be neglected.
At the very first sign of croup, sore throat, or any other cold trouble, apply Vicks VapoRub over the throat and chest. There is nothing to swallow—you just rub it on. Colds go over night, croup usually relieved in 15 minutes.

—HIPPODROME SKATERS.—There was an unusual and excellent attraction at the Crystal Rink, Summerside last night when the famous Hippodrome skaters entertained a good sized audience. There were five of them in all and they put on a programme which not only showed the exceptional ability of these artists as skaters but also appeared in costume comic and pantomime. The management of the Crystal Rink are to be congratulated upon bringing such splendid entertainment to Summerside. There was a skate afterwards to splendid music by St. Pauls Band.

I must thank the various committees who acted so cheerfully during the year and performed their duties so splendidly, and in this regard I want to particularly mention the track committee who did such good work in clearing the ice last winter.
The financial report will show you that the year's activities have not resulted in any loss and that our balance is on the right side, although not nearly as large as we would like. This is due to the very heavy expenses incurred in clearing the ice last winter.
I wish we could close in the same happy vein in which I have been speaking, but unfortunately this club lost by death during the year two members who were tried and true and who were among the most active of our organization. I refer to the death of Mr. Hammond Kelly, widely known and loved by all, and also to the death of my dear father, Pictou S. Brown, whom you all knew, and who appreciated the members to whom he was related in the press to these gentlemen showed that the public regarded them as highly as we did. We hope that in the future their example of good sportsmanship and the happy faculty of being friends to all and enemies to none will not be lost on us, the remaining members of this club.
Just on the eve of this meeting we learn that the hand of the grim reaper, death has fallen on another of our members. I refer to Francis MacIntosh, a past President and starter for several years at our meetings. In common with all citizens of our community we mourn his loss and extend to his family our deepest sympathy.
Yours respectfully,
BYRON BROWN,
President,
Charlottetown Driving Club.

Needless to say Mr. and Mrs. Westmoreland greatly appreciate these acts of kindness by the members and friends of both congregations, not only in these instances, but ever since the Pastor's illness some months ago. Previous to his departure for Montreal, the Vernon Ladies Aid presented him with a purse of fifty dollars. This, besides a great many personal gifts and acts of thoughtfulness, helps to cheer and brighten the hearts of the Pastor and his wife at this time.

THE DRAMA AT OTTAWA SEEN THROUGH ISLAND EYES
(By R. L. COTTON)
(Special to The Guardian)
Ottawa, Tuesday
The House of Commons was in session yesterday for practically six hours. After the tabling of a few reports the whole of the time was taken up by six speakers in discussing the want of confidence motion—two Progressives, two Liberals and two Conservatives.
The first speaker was a Progressive and the last was a Progressive. Both, before sitting down, stated definitely that they had not yet made up their minds how they would vote when the division was reached. So the outcome still matter of conjecture. If six Progressives or Independents vote against the Government it goes down to defeat.

Some Literary

Continent, a d to some extent throughout the British Empire and the world at large.
The first of the Institutions to which he wished to direct attention was the Mechanics Institute, formed in 1838, and of which the leading spirits were the Hon. Charles Youatt. Lectures under the auspices of the Institute were delivered throughout successive winter seasons and a lending library of four hundred good books, circulated. Interest in the Institute, with the passing of years, gradually lessened and in 1849, after eleven years of useful existence, it gave way to the Charlottetown Debating Society.

This organization did not hold public meetings until the early sixties. Among its most prominent members were David Laird, Louis Davies, Donald Currie, Henry Lawson, Robert Shaw, Seth D. Shaw, and other young lawyers and politicians. Lectures were delivered before the Club and discussed after delivery, and these were all attended by large and appreciative audiences. Yet the interest of the young men in the debates waned and gradually died out, though not before the Charlottetown Shakespeare Club had begun to operate. This organization met at the house of the different members, of whom some of the more prominent were Donald Montgomery, Mr. W. C. Harris, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Baird, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Leitch, and Miss Emma Barr. The Club's meetings first read one of Shakespeare's plays and they reviewed it, dwelling upon the beauties of its every part and on the wisdom and imagination of the poet.
Mr. Cotton here paid eloquent tribute to this playwright's supremacy over all other English writers and stated that his searching of the human heart in the dramatic exhibition of character was a gift peculiarly his own.
The speaker went on with an account of the several tennis clubs that were formed in this town in the seventies, and which in the winters became nucleus for reading clubs, which afterwards united into a single body, under the leadership of Miss Sladdon. It disbanded in 1913.
Owing to the records being unavailable at present, Mr. Cotton said that he could not give a very extended account of the doings of the Natural History and Antiquarian Society of P. E. I., of which some of the leading members were Francis Bain, John Newson, John MacSwain, Lawrence W. Watson, and J. D. Seaman.
Many other societies influenced for good the people who have lived and are living here, he went on. The most influential of these of course was the Church, and the various religious bodies connected with it. The Y. M. C. A., the Epworth League and the Knights of Columbus, the National Societies and the Temperance and Benevolent Societies, together with the Oddfellows, the Free Masons, and other secret societies, influenced and moulded the character of the members. The Native Benevolent Society established in 1840 and the Ladies Benevolent Society in 1844 did splendid works of charity.
But the most numerous, widespread, and active of all the societies, and probably the most necessary and useful, were the temperance societies. In the early years of the last century, said the speaker, the liquor evil was widespread throughout the Island, causing much distress and poverty, together with sins and crimes of many kinds, and early deaths. In January of 1841 a grand temperance convention was held in Charlottetown, and as a result a branch of the British and Foreign Temperance Society was formed in the city. On the same day a number of prominent Roman Catholics met in the parochial house and decided to organize and establish a "pious benevolent institution for the pecuniary relief of such individuals of temperance as they might be deemed worthy thereof. Both sects united in their efforts to down the liquor traffic and were finally instrumental in having passed the Canada Temperance Act, and later the Prohibitory Liquor Law.

At the conclusion of the lecture a hearty vote of thanks to the lecturer was moved by Mr. R. H. Rogers, seconded by Mr. Percy Pope, and supported by Mr. K. J. Martin. The speaker, Mr. J. E. B. MacCreedy, Mr. John Anderson, and Chief Justice Matheson.
It was announced that the lecturer for next Thursday would be Mr. K. J. Martin, who will speak on the subject, "Eighteenth Century Development in Municipal Government."

Fate of King Government
that the government will not consider a favorable vote on this motion as an approval of its past policies. "We only want to know if we did wrong in summoning parliament," he said.
Mr. Meighen wanted to know if the Liberals would accept his amendment as a want of confidence. As the Minister of Customs did not reply directly he was accused by the questioner of evading the question. Interruptions became so frequent and numerous that the Speaker had to call the House to order.
Mr. Bovin went on to say that those who vote against the amendment will probably be to their constituency and the country at large that the Premier did the right thing in refraining from advising His Excellency to call upon the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen to form a Ministry. If the Progressives vote against the amendment, they will bind themselves forever. "Who should rule in the present parliament? This is the only question at issue. If we had not carried on and had not summoned parliament what should we have done?"
"Conservative voices:—Resign," Mr. Bovin:—"In favor of whom Surely not in favor of Mr. Meighen."

On several occasions the Progressives have declared that they are more liberal than the Liberals themselves. We can only rule to help them, if they are willing to help us, they will find out that we can give them practically everything they want."
The Minister of Customs then cited the Winnipeg Free Press which advised the Progressives and the Liberals, in a recent editorial, "to speak together or get out." Mr. Bovin then assured the Progressives that there will be another general election if the amendment carries. As Canada does not want another election this year, the only solution is for the Progressives to vote against the amendment.
Speaking in the absence of the Premier from the House, Mr. Bovin declared that there were sessions when the Premier was away. "It is true that Mr. King was defeated in North York, but he will be elected in the next general election. The Minister favored the idea that a party leader should be elected by acclamation and paid tribute to the sense of honor and propriety of Mr. King.
"Mr. C. H. Cahan, Conservative, for St. Lawrence—St. George adjourned the debate at six o'clock.
"An all night sitting is expected and the division may only take place in the morning. The Conservatives are confident that they will have enough support from the Progressives to carry their amendment and defeat the government. Ottawa is waiting anxiously the result of the decisive vote.

THE MARKETS
MONTREAL, Jan. 14.—The feature of the export trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market today was the improved demand from the United Kingdom and the continent for Manitoba spring wheat and a fair volume of business was worked. The trade in oats and barley continued dull owing to the fact that most of the firm bids coming forward are below a working basis. The trade in course grains was reported very quiet the demand being only for odd cars but the feeling was steady and prices showed no change. Car lots of Ontario and Quebec No. 2 white oats sold at $3 1-2, No. 3 white at $2 and No. 4 white at 51¢ per bushel, ex-cellar. A firmer feeling prevailed in the spring wheat flour market under improved foreign demand but prices were unchanged.
The winter wheat situation was quiet but firm. The volume of business transacted in millfeed was fair and the undertone was steady. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats and prices were well maintained. An easier feeling developed in the market for storage eggs and prices scored another decline of one to three cents per dozen. Strictly fresh grades were unchanged. Prices were well maintained for butter and cheese but the trade in both cases was quiet.
OTTAWA, Jan. 14.—The egg markets are generally unchanged today remaining steady at recent declines. Toronto fresh unchanged, storage lower extras 42, firsts 39, seconds 31. Montreal fresh unchanged, storage extras 32, firsts 30, seconds 25. Winnipeg unchanged. Edmonton eggs unchanged, easy dealers quoting country shippers extras 28, firsts 26, seconds 20. Vancouver lobbing fresh extras 32, firsts 30, seconds and sullets 27. St. John's N.B. lobbing fresh extras 50, firsts 45, storage firsts 43, seconds 38.

(Canadian Press)
NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—The New York Herald Tribune says under a Washington date line: Robert Hughes, author, playwright and soldier, aroused a storm here last night at a dinner commemorating the 17th birthday anniversary of Edmund Burke, when in an address he pictured George Washington as a "profane, irreligious and pleasure loving" man.

Shareholders Must Pay Up
(Canadian Press)
TORONTO, Jan. 14.—Shareholders of the Home Bank of Canada, which collapsed August 17, 1923, with liabilities approximating $10,000,000 must pay double liabilities on their shares if fully paid up and also contribute the balance unpaid as well as double liability if not fully paid up, according to the judgment today of Charles Garrow, K. C., Master of the Supreme Court of Ontario acting as official referee under the Winding Up Act.
