Ellen's Diary

By An Island Farmer's Wife

The rivers were colder-looking and troubled now perhaps heeding the new-moon's insistent whisper, to take them from their quiet way.

• • •

I was successful in my shopping and was able to buy things, not on my list; heavier stockings for the winter; warm work-shirts for James. Karolyn too followed this line of shopping for she said coming home: "Isn't it pleasant to be prepared when colder days return?" I bought things for pickling, and spices and another basket of peaches for the potato-pickers" caught my eye. We returned in time for Karolyn to prepare dinner for her workmen. This evening when I asked the foremen if he found the morning too long he said when they got hungry they "rested on the couch!"

• • •

Jeanie and I were those left at home this evening. The others went away with Rob on business bent. James accompanied them part way to spend an hour or two with relatives. In his absence I prepared the vegetables for pickling tomorrow. One recipe I followed, a new one to me, named for a rose, requires the ingredients finely chopped. Apples, cucumber, celery and onions. As I chopped these carefully, Pard at the porch-door felt duty bound to bark at the strange noise. Nothing would persuade him to desist except my silence. Added to his noise of barking was the incessant - drone of planes. I put the work away. Of what use are taut nerves?

• • •

James has returned to tell me he had a pleasant evening and when I ask: "And what's the news?" he looks perplexed. I have a suspicion, when I'm not there, James talks, well perhaps, not too much but I think, too long. He looks at the clock, inspecting it closely to be certain of the time, then asks suggestively: "When did the Stewart's stop giving meals?" And the milk is across the darkness in the separator house! Dear, dear!

Until tomorrow — Diary—Goodnight.

MRS. JANIE STORDY

The death of Mrs. Janie Stordy widow of the late Thomas Stordy occurred at the home of her daughter Mrs. A. R. Toombs, Tryon, in the early morning of August 21st, 1944, after a lingering illness of several months.

Mrs. Stordy was born in Alberton in the year 1860 and when comparatively young she moved to Tryon andthere resided for over sixty years. Her husband predeceased her fifteen years ago.

She by her faithful industrious work helped to build up a comfortable home where many found help and inspiration.

She was a member of the Tryon United Church and seldom was her place vacant as long as she was able to attend, but during her latter years she was severely afflicted, which she bore with true christian patience, and was always interested in the various activities of the church, community and home, and rested securely in the promise of a risen Lord, who said, "Low I am with you always even unto the end."

During her illness she was tenderly cared for by her daughter with whom she lived the last few years.

There are left to mourn one son Lloyd, living on the homestead, and one daughter (Carrie), Mrs. A. R. Toombs, Tryon; also two grandchildren, and one great grand child.

The funeral service was conducted by her pastor Rev. J. A. Jardine, who gave a helpful and comforting message. The Hymns sung were: "Forever With the Lord" and "Abide With Me". A solo "Shadows" was very feelingly rendered by Mrs. Dr. L. M. Callbeck.

She was laid to rest by the side of her husband in the family plot in Hampton cemetery.

The pallbearers were Leonard Caseley, Frank Robblee, Albro Howatt, Ambrose Sentner, Roy Stordy and Hamilton Leard.

Call not back the dear departed
Anchored safe where storms are o'er
On the borderland we left her
Soon to meet and part no more.

Invested by Earl of Athlone

Flying Officer Cowan, who won his D.F.C. in 1942 while based at Malta and while serving with No. 69 Squadron of the R.A.F., was decorated by the Earl of Athlone at a recent Investiture held at Calgary.

Following is the citation on which the award was made:

"One night in December, 1942, the aircraft in which Flying Officers Cowan, Sutton, and Cline were flying, was employed in conjunction with naval forces in an operation against an enemy convoy. Great difficulty was experienced in communicating with these forces, but Flying Officer Cowan finally succeeded in conveying the necessary information. In this task he was ably assisted by the Pilot and by the Navigator. As a result, the naval forces were enabled to make contact with the convoy, which was almost totally destroyed. On many other occasions these officers have displayed outstanding ability and courage in the face of the enemy."

Flying Officer Cowan is a son of Mrs. H. C. Cowan of Montague, and the late Leith Cowan of Lower Montague. He is now completing his Pilot's course at Medicine Hat, Alberta.

RALLY DAY AT BAPTIST CHURCH

A large attendance featured the Annual Rally Day and Promotion exercises at the Baptist Church School Sunday afternoon.

The Superintendent, R. J. Rupert, conducted the service, assisted by the Pastor, Rev. I. Judson Levy, and Hon. Supt. M. R. Bethune.

The story of Samuel was impressively portrayed by four young people of the school, Barbara Pound, Marguerite Brehaut, Mae Robinson and Maurice Brehaut.

The Supt. outlined some of the plans for the coming season which indicated much expected progress in Religious Education in the activities of the School and Church.

The Pastor, Mr. Levy, delivered a very inspiring address, urging the scholars to full co-operation in all the plans being made by those in charge.

Interesting Promotion exercises were carried out, which included the graduation of fifteen members of the Beginners and Primary Dept. to the Main School.

Everything points to an unusual and successful year in the Church School, as interesting plans have been made including the re-organization of the Beginners and Primary Dept., organization of new classes and the introduction of new methods in the Beginners, Primary and Junior Depts.
