ed waters. He had at one time entertained the same opinion but after having done some investigation into the matter had decided the polluted water had nothing to do with the outbreak.

Dr. Keeping pointed out that water may be polluted without endangering the health of persons who are drinking it. It is the nature of the bacteria infesting the water. However, he believed a stricter surveillance should be maintained over those areas which have been forbidden by law to be used for oyster-fishing purposes.

He was frequently at hand at his Yorkville base in the days of his frequent visits to the base, and many hours later would sit in at the interrogations when they had returned from their missions.

Air Vice Marshal McEwen served with No. 6 Group from February, 1942, until the cessation of hostilities in June, 1945.

His subsequent posting was to be to the Pacific theatre, as head of the Canadian bombing group, but that never went into effect.

While Black Mills occupied such an important position in the recent war, in the First Great War he achieved wide renown as a fighter pilot, shooting down several enemy aircraft, and serving under the famous V.C. Barker, V.O.

Reports of committees were heard and approved and four new members were introduced.

Mr. King said the meetings of the Committee had been devoted to clarifying the positions of the Dominion and the Provinces so that "everyone knows where everyone else stands."

Mr. King said he did not know whether the Premier would go beyond Monday. One Premier, however, said it was possible the Premier would revert to in-camera discussions after all parties had publicly placed their cards on the table.

It was learned that most of the Premier's plan to spend the week-end preparing statements for a public meeting and that these statements would indicate just how far the Provinces are ready to go to meet the Federal proposals.

It was reported that the Prairie Provinces and the Maritime were more inclined to accept the Federal proposals as a bargaining basis than were Ontario and Quebec.

The Provinces were understood to be insistent in demands that they have exclusive use of the inheritance tax field. At the same time, the Federal Government gave its readiness for not wanting to leave that field.

Another matter Ontario and Quebec protested against in their briefs was the fact that the Federal Government planned to impose a five per cent tax on all profits to support the Federal cost of a national health insurance plan, expected to amount to $260,000,000.

It is expected a number of Premier's favor shelving of the national health insurance program until what it was before the war, many more fishermen are employed in this type of fishery alone and the average number of pots per fishermen has greatly increased as well. This has resulted in a demand for rope in the industry, but of all proportion to that before the war.

To meet this demand Canadian rope manufacturers are taking all possible steps by operating their equipment at full capacity, and in some cases, making shipments of fishing rope from points outside the Maritime Provinces.

SOLDIER-FARMERS NEW DELHI.—(CP)—To assist in the "Grow More Food" campaign now being launched by the Indian Army, the Commander-in-Chief in India, General Sir Claude Auchinleck, has issued instructions that troops may be employed for this purpose up to three days every week. Allied to this drive for more food is also a vigorous campaign against waste.

Conference Ends In Camera Settings

(By D'Arcy O'Donnell) Ottawa, April 26.—(CP)—Outcome of the Dominion-Provincial Conference on financial relations appeared tonight to hinge to a great extent on what is said and done after discussions are brought into the open on Monday.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King told newspapermen he would not like to state whether the conference was closer to agreement. He said the Premier would go beyond Monday.

Mr. King said the meetings of the Committee had been devoted to clarifying the positions of the Dominion and the Provinces so that "everyone knows where everyone else stands."

The interests of equity and efficiency of taxation there are few fields in which there is a stronger case for exclusive Federal jurisdiction and uniform rates and practices across the country.
