STOLEN BY GYPSIES AND MADE A SLAVE.

Stranger than fiction and almost unbelievable is the remarkable deathbed statement of Miss Jessie Habersham, daughter of H. G. Habersham, a prominent broker of Baltimore, Maryland, who died at Seton Hospital in Cincinnati recently a few hours after giving birth to a baby girl. According to the girl's statement she was stolen from her home in Baltimore five years ago by a band of gypsies, sold to one of the tribe for $900, and then, under hypnotic influence, compelled to be the slave and wife of the King of the gypsies. The long search for and past five years in every niche and corner of the United States, it is said, had ruined the girl's father's health, so that the sister superior, who notified him of his daughter's death by telegram, received a telegram stating that he was too sick

Could Not Walk Ten Yards Without Resting. WEAK HEART WAS THE CAUSE.

Mrs. Robinson Collette, Rogersville, N.B., writes: "I am now enjoying the best of health after having used your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I was troubled with a weak heart and was afraid to draw a long breath for the pain night, and it was impossible for me to walk ten yards without resting myself. I cannot speak too highly of your Heart and Nerve Pills, for they are the greatest pill I have ever used and I can recommend them to all sufferers."

Thousands of people go about their daily work on the verge of death and yet do not know it. Little attention is paid to the slight weakness of the heart for the simple reason that one thinks it will right itself, but there is where the mistake is made. It is only when a violent shock comes that the weakness of the heart becomes apparent. On the first sign of any weakness of the heart or nerves, flagging energy or physical breakdown, the use of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will soon produce a quick and permanent cure. her with the gypsies, and although she made several attempts to escape all were fruitless. It was two years before she even had a chance to write to her father, and then the tribe heard of her doing so and quickly moved away before the police authorities could reach her. The father spent a small fortune in hiring detectives and in newspaper advertisements.

About five weeks before the young woman was carried to a rooming house on Fourth street by a gypsy, who gave the name of J. H. Mitchell, and said the woman was his wife. He asked if she might be allowed to stay there until the child was born. No objection was made to this, and Dr. Meade was summoned. He, with the help of a district nurse, cared for the woman until she became so low that they were compelled to remove her to the Seton Hospital. The child, however, is well and healthy, and is being held at the hospital.

The man who claims to be the husband of the dead woman called at the hospital. Another version of the case is that Miss Habersham voluntarily ran away from a social career for the free life of a gypsy, became the wife of John Michelle, a gypsy king, and herself became queen of the band. Miss Habersham was the great grand daughter of Francis Scott Key, the composer of the "Star Spangled Banner." She made her debut, but after one year in the social life she felt the call of Romany freedom and quietly disappeared. It was not until five years later that her family learned that she had joined the gypsy band and became its queen.

to come to Cincinnati at the present time to prosecute the abductors. The shock of the girl's abduction, it was further said, was too great for her mother, who died several months afterwards.

Miss Habersham was 25 years old. She said that she had been enticed away from home by an old crazy gypsy woman, who belonged to a tribe that was staying near the Habersham home. She was then sold by this woman to her nephew for $900, and compelled by him to work hard and to endure more than the hardships of the ordinary gypsies. According to the story told by the young woman shortly before her death, some strange influence held
