Recall Last Words Of Hong Kong Commander

(By The Canadian Press)

WITH THE R.C.A.F. IN INDIA, Sept. 4.—The last words of Brig. John S. (Jack) Lawson of Toronto and Ottawa, who commanded the last stand of the Canadians at Hong Kong, were: "It's getting pretty hot here now—I'm smashing the phone and going outside to fight it out."

They were recalled here by Maj.-Gen. C. M. Malby, British commander who surrendered Hong Kong and has just been released after three and a half years as a prisoner of Japan.

He told Sqnd.-Ldr. Joseph Crumpton, an R.C.A.F. public relations officer of Montreal: "I want the world to know that those boys, inexperienced as they were, fought gallantly and those who died, died with their faces in the right direction."

Gen. Malby served out his imprisonment as a coolie gardener in Formosa. He related he paid high tribute to the Quebec Royal Rifles and the Winnipeg Grenadiers and "at that time, I had the honor of commanding such a gallant body of men."

"The Canadians," said Gen. Malby, "had no time to learn the ground they had to fight over. Their primary task was seaward defence. The Japanese on the shores but they were actually required to carry out local counter attacks against the enemy advancing from the landward side. The Japs' first landing on the mainland was at ten o'clock at night. By daylight the Japanese had gained the heights. The defenders of the south shore, the 22nd Brigade among them, had to turn and fight their way up the steep slopes in an effort to refuse the enemy. The odds were six to one against them but the battle lasted 17 days.

A company of Winnipeg Grenadiers fought so magnificently the Japs believed the sector was held by two battalions.

The Royal Rifles of Canada had fought gallantly in heavy gear up the steep hillsides. They fought to exhaustion after suffering heavy casualties.

The Canadians were "a fine husky looking group" when they arrived in Hong Kong. For the past three years and more many of them have been working in factories and as laborers or coolies, to use the eastern term. It may be many weeks before all the survivors are found and evacuated.

Except through smuggled information filtering in from underground sources, he knew little of the fate of the men he had commanded. From these sources, he learned they were able to bring some information on Canadian casualties. But he stressed that the figures could only be regarded as approximate. In the summer of 1943, he said, a diphtheria outbreak occurred in the prison camps and "seems to hit the younger element rather badly."

feel involuntarily began to tap. It's time when cares are forgotten. You enjoy it if only to watch others move through the intricate set of lancers. A mistake? Who notices or cares on a night like this? A gay air of merriment adjusting of partners and away they go again feet tapping lightly, eyes bright, bodies fluid. Friends of families took their places lightly and happily on the floor, opposite their children and if hearts palpitated over much from the exertion the fact was well concealed. Youngsters had their first dance and the vacant spot in the home—his chair empty, his bed smooth and white-covered, and his old dog behind the door. You chat with the village school teacher and you wonder if she realizes the inspiration she is in the community and she is in the community. You wish visitors to the Island away from our shores. We really enjoy if there will be a day to greet them again. You hope they have loved it all so that they may have only pleasant holiday memories to take with them when they go, perhaps in the morning, away from our shores. We really stayed there too long. With bright lights, music and congenial company, time passes unnoticed. James regarded the day as we walked slowly up from lane's end. Stars were twinkling and the moon was casting its shadow before it above the house across the lane. Pard barked his welcome. "Mr. and Mrs. returning" bark. As we returned the drive way James said "I wouldn't be one bit surprised, for all it rained, there may be harvest out in the morning. Until tomorrow — Diary—Good-night."

ON MAIDEN VOYAGE

MONTREAL, Sept. 4 — (CP) — The recently launched cargo ship Westdale Park sailed from Montreal late today on her maiden voyage. Built in Lewis, the 4,600-ton freighter made a trial run a week ago and was then turned over to Canadian National Steamships for use in the West Indian trade.

Leaving Montreal, she carried a mixed general cargo which included such items as flour, whiskey and beer. She will call first at Bermuda and then, proceed to Nassau and Jamaica, returning to Halifax in about two months with a cargo which will consist largely of rum.

REPRESENTATIVES OF BRITISH FRIESIAN CATTLE SOCIETY TO VISIT CANADA SHORTLY

Representatives of the British Friesian Cattle Society are shortly to arrive in Canada. They are coming at the invitation of the Holstein Friesian Cattle Association of Canada with the object of inspecting Holstein Friesian cattle here. They will also visit the United States. The three representatives are Mr. G. J. Curtis of Rainham, Essex, England, Mr. Alistair Munro of Inverness, Scotland, and Mr. G. B. Radcliffe of Tarvin, Cheshire, England. Mr. Curtis is the President of the British Friesian Cattle Society and all the representatives are among the leading breeders of Friesian cattle in Great Britain. During their stay in this country the Delegation will be given full opportunity to form a judgement of the quality of Canadian Holsteins and on their return home they will report on their findings to the Council of their own Society. There is no suggestion that the Delegation will select or purchase cattle for shipment to Great Britain, but if the British Friesian Society is satisfied that the best Canadian Holstein blood would benefit their herds, the future shipment of a limited number of good sires would be considered. Two officers of the United Kingdom Ministry of Agriculture will accompany the Delegation during part of its tour. They are Mr. Twinch, Chief Livestock Officer and Mr. Austin Jenkins, a Senior Livestock Officer of the Ministry.

When any plans is contemplated a large scale varicella and insect pests appear.

THAT JACK WROTE...

this is the Branch Bank where Jack keeps his money—so he does not have to keep his savings at home with the danger of loss, fire, or theft, and can pay bills safely and conveniently by cheque.

this is the Teller in a branch of a different bank in another city, who made sure that the man who presented the cheque was really the man Jack intended to pay. Then the amount of the cheque was added to that man's deposit account.

this is the Clearing House maintained by the banks so that customers' cheques can be exchanged and the banks can settle their accounts with one another every day. From here, Jack's cheque was sent to the clearing department of his own bank, and from there to the branch where Jack keeps his account.

this is the Ledger-Keeper who made sure that the signature was really Jack's. Then he debited Jack's account. The amount is entered in Jack's passbook next time he comes in, so he always knows exactly where he stands.

This is a sketchy outline of what happens when you pay an out-of-town bill by cheque. Many people pay their large local bills that way too. To be able to pay by cheque is a tremendous convenience which costs you little or nothing. Banks are the bookkeepers for millions of your fellow-Canadians.
