W. C. T. U. NOTES

THIS EMPIRE How calm amid world-changing scenes The Empire proudly holds its place. Great through the ages that have been. Yet greater now in recent days. Our Canada, our own fair land, Is of this Empire's happy fate: Two races sharing command, Two cultures but a single state.

How much does history disclose - Of sacrifice for common good; Of valiant men, when need arose, Who shed, for all, their common blood.

Let tyranny attempt to raise Tumultuous shout for power, through might. Unflinching then the Empire pays Life-tribute to sustain the Right. Richard F. Callan St. Lambert, Que.

THE LIFE OF THE CHURCH AT STAKE

Message from President Bishop Cushman, President Anti-Saloon League of America. "The liquor problem is supremely the job of the church. The church of God remains the agency that is most concerned because this is fundamentally a moral and spiritual problem. Any group of Christians concerned with the building of the Kingdom of God on earth comes within my definition of the church of God. I believe that the churches in America is at stake on the solution of the liquor problem. Just as the vitality of any church will always be effected by the way it faces the moral and social evils of the day, so there is no doubt that the spiritual vitality of the churches is enervated because of our indifference to the liquor problem. We are not going to have a revival of religion in America until the churches face social evils like the liquor traffic making an appeal to the churches of America. The solving of the liquor problem is primarily our job; but more than this I would like to say: "Churches of God awake! for your life is at stake!"

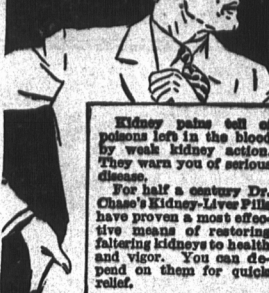

PRESIDENT OF FINLAND APPROVES TEMPERANCE MOVEMENT.

This is how the president of the Finnish republic, Esko Keski-Koivumaki, speaks for the welfare of our youth, the hope of our nation. "This work," he continued, "is a blessing for those who accomplish it and for future generations. We have inherited much from our forefathers, it is our duty also to carry out a work of self-sacrifice for the welfare of generations to come."

FRANCES E. WILLARD

Frances E. Willard was born on September 28, 1839, almost one hundred years ago in Churchville, N. Y. Her father was devotedly religious, gifted with a fine mind, an indefatigable worker, a possessor of thought and speech. Miss Willard's mother came of a singularly gifted family and one greatly blessed by God. Born of such parents, endowed with gifts of nature and nurture, Frances Willard was destined for a great task; and under God's guidance was able to help the pilgrim hosts with their sorrow and suffering. When Frances was seven years of age the family moved to Wisconsin. There in the country, at Janesville, a simple dwelling, now called Home, was erected; and for twelve years Frances Willard, her brother Oliver and sister Mary lived an ideal rural life of love and labor, play and study. The children early signed the total abstinence pledge. Before the time when a schoolhouse was built in the woods, the father arranged a study in the house. Frances was fourteen years of age when the schoolhouse was built. After attending this school Frances and her sister spent one term at College in Milwaukee. The following year, 1858, finds them students at Northwestern University, Illinois. Taking Miss Willard's student life in all, we find her of an earnest, modest, merry and wise, gentle and good; gracious in her dignity, remarkable in her scholarship—and Valiant for her cause. For a number of years Miss Willard engaged in the teaching profession, first in the country, then in Pittsburg College. In 1863 Miss Willard, a devoted friend of Miss Jackson, proposed a tour of Europe, Miss Jackson's father to bear expenses of both. Frances Willard returned from that wonderful trip abroad with a human picture gallery in her heart. It was this: "What can be done to make the world a wider place for women? This was the question that surged through her soul. In 1871 Miss Willard was elected President of Evanston College, the first woman to whom such a title was ever accorded. The lives of 2000 pupils received the impress of this gentle yet commanding spirit. In 1874 Miss Willard resigned her position and went to New York City in order to better study the temperance movement in America. Years after Miss Willard declared that the severance of her University relations was the greatest sacrifice her life had known and ever could know. We next find Frances Willard in the New England States, where she visited the slums of the large cities and there the fire of pity that never left her was kindled in her soul for the physical and mental misery that temperance causes. One day a tempting offer to be lady principal of a college came to Miss Willard, in salary to be $2,400 and such duties as she might choose. By the same mail came a letter from Chicago, urging her to take the presidency of the Chicago branch of the W. C. T. U., no salary promised in this case. What will Frances Willard do? It is recorded that she believed the latter proposition came from the Lord and she accepted; the high-salaried position, therefore, had to be declined. This was the real election of Frances Willard's life,—this was her choice of a career. Our next picture of Miss Willard shows her in Chicago, holding prayer meetings outside saloons, or if permitted to enter them. We see her with other earnest temperance women kneeling in prayer, while filling every corner of the saloon with a crowd of hard-looking drunken men. From the outset of the Chicago work it was apparent that a wider sphere was awaiting Frances Willard, so it is not at all surprising to know that in 1878 she was elected President of the National Union. It is hard to chronicle Miss Willard's life in its years of White Ribbon leadership, the pioneer work in the far West, the visits to every province of Canada, various campaigns, the writing of eight books, the editorship of the Union Signal, and the erection of the National Temperance Hospital. Yet these are not a tenth of the interests, and activities in continuous public speaking and incessant correspondence, pressed their claims upon her. In 1883 she travelled 30,000 miles, visiting every state and territory in the United States. During twelve years she averaged one meeting a day. In 1892 Miss Willard's mother, the last one left to her of "The Four," as she was wont to call the members of her family, was called to the Heavenly home. The going from this life of such a mother made earth empty and the heart of the daughter forever bereaved. In the spring of 1898 Miss Willard's health began to fail, and it was hoped that a stay in Atlantic City would refresh the weary worker. With deep concern it was seen that ocean breeze and varied seaside life failed to bring the wished-for strength; but later her health seemed much improved, and in October, Miss Willard at the Toronto convention delivered an address—presented the crowning message of her life. She spent New Year's Day at Janesville, Wis., where her childhood days had been passed, and here her last public address was given to the Congregational Church. Before she left the pulpit, with hand lifted in blessing she said: "Good-bye, dear friends of my loved childhood home—good-bye—perhaps forever; and if forever, may we meet in our home in Heaven." Not long after, on February 17, 1909, the full glory of another life broke over Frances E. Willard's horizon, her last words being, "How beautiful it is to be with God."

The WEEK at S. D. U.

St. Dunstan's has entered full into the mourning occasioned by the death of our late Holy Father, Pope Pius XI. The student body was present at the Pontifical Requiem Mass celebrated by His Excellency the Bishop in the Basilica on Wednesday morning. Rev. Dr. Gavin P. Monaghan offered a Requiem High Mass in the College chapel on Thursday. The four weeks' Extension Course for the Fishermen will close today. Twenty nine young men attended the course. For the past week the St. Thomas Debating Society has been holding try-outs for the forthcoming Intercollegiate Debate. Although all candidates have been heard, a final choice of speakers has not yet been made. It was proposed that St. Mary's team debate here on March 8th, but the arrangement was not found to be satisfactory to the visitors. As a result the two teams will probably meet in Charlottetown on Monday, March 20th. The Saint's hockey team returned from a successful road trip on Thursday night, with a win and a tie tucked under their belts. The U.N.B. game in Fredericton was a heartbreaker, with victory slipping from their hands almost as the time-keeper reached for the final bell. The win in Chatham from St. Thomas' put the Saints definitely in the running for the I.E.P.E. intercollegiate title. The Mount A. team, as ever, are the dark horses in the league. Local hockey fans will be given an opportunity to look them over when the Garnet and Gold cross sticks with the Island collegians on Thursday night in the Forum. Intramural Hockey: Owing to the absence of certain of their players, the Second Dalton Flyer and the Third Dalton Crushers did not compete in the scheduled games this week. The Snipe Pirates, and Wreckers continue their schedule and have almost completed it. During the week the Snipers obtained two points, giving them a total of eleven. The Pirates and the Wreckers battled to a 1-1 tie on Monday. This game was featured by the outstanding performance of Geo. McKenna, the stalwart right-winger of the Wreckers. On Wednesday the Wreckers defeated the Snipers 2-0, giving the Wreckers a total of 5 points, but leaving them still in the cellar. The games of the week were featured by fast clean hockey, hard checking, and clever goal-tending. On Tuesday night the St. Dunstan's second team defeated the "Heart Breakers" of Charlottetown by a score of 7-6. From the opening whistle the game assumed a fast pace. It was featured by fast play-making and hard checking. "Oink" Beach, starred for the Red and White while "Bucko" Trainor was outstanding for the "Heart Breakers". Saints' line-up: Goal, Bouchard; defence, Murnaghan, MacDonald, Rossiter; forwards, J. Trainor, McAdam, Laundry, Roach, Smith, G. Trainor.

It was moved and seconded that $10.00 be sent to the Sanatorium. The Questionnaire on Education was discussed and filled in by the convener, Miss MacIvor. The questionnaire on Legislation is to be filled in at the next meeting which is to be held at the home of Mrs. H. S. MacEwen, roll call to be answered with a "Irish Joke". The program committee then took charge. Two contests were put on. A apple contest prepared by Grace MacKay was won by Mrs. Lorne Bowness and Geneva MacKay.
