QUEEN'S COUNTY COURT.—The sittings of the County Court at New Glasgow, to be held on Friday next, will be adjourned owing to the Judge's illness until Thursday 11th May, next, and the sittings at New London will be adjourned on Tuesday next, until Friday, 12th May, next. The business at Eldon, Bonshaw and Dunstaffnage remaining unsettled stands over till next term.

MR. LEWIS H. BEER, formerly of E. H. Beer & Co., Kensington, is now in Montreal securing a complete line of samples of the well and favorably known Dry Goods house of Messrs. S. Greenshields, Son & Co. This progressive firm intend having a permanent agency in Charlottetown, and Mr. Beer will have charge and look after their interests throughout the Province.

LAST year there was printed in this paper, an account of the alleged growth of a plant to the extent of several inches in the throat of a woman in this province, and later an interview with the woman's husband. At the meeting of the Natural History Society next Tuesday, Mr. Watson will fully discuss the likelihood of the growth having taken place. The enquiry promises to be a most interesting one, and there will probably be a large attendance.

MR. W. C. COLLETT, formerly of Crapaud, but now a leading architect of Boston, is exceedingly busy this spring. He has already let a contract for an apartment house of twenty-seven flats, to cost $75,000, and anticipates the letting of two other buildings equally as large as the above. Mr. Collett says that the prospects for this season on large buildings in Boston are better than they have been for the past ten years.

THE March issue of The Endeavor Herald is replete with matter of intense interest to all intelligent readers, and more especially to those identified with the great young people's movement in the churches. Its department of news is particularly strong, being representative of a world-wide activity, and giving the latest information concerning the progress of work in Canada. A beautifully illustrated article on work among the victims of leprosy in Eastern lands engages the attention and sympathy of the reader. Two pages of practical methods, a budget of mission, ary items, a bright short story, with a wealth of editorial and selected matter make up "the best number yet." Every Endeavorer should read Peter Pushem's remarkable deliverance concerning the International Convention at Detroit next July.

OBITUARY.—A deep shade of sorrow rests over Gaspeaux, and surrounding districts over the sudden and unexpected death of Mr. Henry Llewellyn, of that place, on February 20th, probably owing to the effects of la grippe. Apparently in prime health until within a short time of his decease, and engaged in his usual work—blacksmithing—people could scarcely realize that the hand of death had laid hold upon their beloved friend. His noble heart rejoiced in being able to help his fellow-man in either deed or work. The writer has in conversation with many persons, who had life long acquaintance with the departed one, noted the deep seated affection, and generous friendship existing between him, and those with whom he came in contact. His death has indeed made a blank hard to fill. How much we will miss his manly form and cheering voice, now that his generous heart is stilled. To his three daughters, and the relatives whom he leaves to mourn, their many friends will extend sympathy in their sad bereavement. Mr. Llewellyn was a firm supporter of the Presbyterian church, of Murray Harbor North.

TRUE PATRIOTISM.

By the Late Rev. D. Sutherland
Pastor of Zion Church.

Patriotism is a catch word often upon our lips, but few of us pause to realize its full meaning. Addison has defined it as that love to our country which is a fixed disposition of mind to promote the safety, welfare and reputation of the community in which we were born, and of the constitution under which we are protected. The sentimental aspects of patriotism figure often in public speeches, but the moral aspects which have to do with the safe-guarding of the highest interest and the promotion of the noblest ideals of the country do not receive the emphasis they deserve.

True patriotism expresses itself in the service which gives to the sympathies and obligations of Fatherland their due place and influence. Christians look to Jesus Christ for an example they should imitate in this as in all other respects. The patriotism of Jesus Christ was the patriotism of reform. He denounced the evils and strove to remedy the abuses of his country because he loved his country with a patriotic passion not yet fully interpreted by the exponents of his life and teaching. A careful study of his sayings will reveal the fact that many of them were devoted to the preaching of a gospel of reform; with his own hands he drove the money-grabbers out of the Temple courts. His divine anger blazed against the wrongs and injustices heaped upon his brethren by the ecclesiastical government of the day. Pharisees, Sadducees, and scribes alike came under the lash of his indignation and rebuke. By denouncing the false aims that dominated rational activity, by raising a loftier ideal and by moulding social life into the attainment of righteousness he left for his followers an example of true patriotism, they would do well to follow. The patriotism of Jesus Christ would speedily smite to the dust not a few of the evils which threaten national prosperity in our day.

True patriots are ever brave knights who battle for

The cause that lacks assistance.
The wrong that needs resistance,
The future in the distance.

Their ruling idea is that the state is for the people, that no nation is in a satisfactory condition when large portions of its population are discontented and miserable. They realize that it is their duty to advocate such social reforms as would tend to raise men intellectually, morally and substantially. Hard and thankless work is involved in this conception of patriotism, but it kindles in the heart an enthusiasm capable of high and holy endeavor. It will revive memories of the days when men believed that this England of ours was like the heritage of God and labour to make the commonwealth a theocracy. Puritanism in its palmy days was patriotic to the core, never hesitating to spend time, energy, money, and even blood in making the country pure within and glorious without. When Cromwell commanded the Ironsides and Blake commanded the fleet the land of our forefathers enjoyed a liberty and righteousness never surpassed before or since because the ideal of these patriotic reformers was that righteousness which exalteth a nation.

The times call loudly for true patriots, men whose devotion to government and goodness of national life led them to place principle before party and men before measures. Every lover of his or her country should be a patriot by adding a distinct contribution to the forces that make for right in the country. Mothers are true patriots when they teach their children the necessity and nobility of goodness. Fathers are true patriots when they train their boys in manliness, in self-reliance and in fidelity to the duty of the hour. Schoolmasters and preachers are true patriots when they impress the fundamental truth "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness and all other things shall be added unto you."
