PORCH PICNICS.

By Mary I. Barber, Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Mich.

The other day our attention was attracted by enthusiastic voices coming from the porch of one of the pretty little houses on our street. It was the end of a sunny day, and a wise young mother was giving her family—composed of three boys, aged four, six and eight—a porch picnic. What fun they were having!—and each boy had his share in the preparation and in the cleaning up. The latter process was the cause of much merriment. The boy selected to sweep the floor wanted to do it before the other two had cleared the table, and the result was a general tie-up in the traffic of feet and broom.

"On hot days when the children are restless, I let them help and we have a picnic," the mother explained. "Each boy does his share and we have a good time without the effort of collecting bathing suits and packing baskets to go to the lake. We use paper cups, plates, spoons, and napkins, so the cleaning up is easy. Have you ever noticed how good everything tastes at a picnic—even foods that we are not fond of when they are served in the dining room? Our picnic suppers are simple and nutritious. Tonight we had peanut butter sandwiches, lemonade, fruit salad, and corn flake macaroons. At our last picnic we had stuffed oysters served on a bed of marinated spinach instead of lettuce, bran muffins, iced coconuts and cookies.

"Sometimes on hot Sundays we serve bowls of ready-to-eat cereal with milk and berries, if they are in season, or we have a pop-corn supper."

Adults enjoy porch picnics as much as children—and it's a relief to the housekeeper not to have piles of dinner dishes to wash in a hot kitchen. There are several things that a woman can have ready for these informal suppers. Keep a jar of sugar syrup in the refrigerator for use in sweetening cold drinks. You know how difficult it is to make sugar dissolves in iced tea or lemonade! In syrup it is already dissolved. Put one part sugar to one and one-half parts water in a saucepan and cook stirring until the sugar is dissolved. Keep in a covered glass jar until needed. Coconuts and sugar, mixed in equal amounts, will mean that only one can, instead of two, need be opened when coconuts is to be made. Russian chocolate is delicious. Make extra coffee at breakfast time and pour it off the grounds to cool. Make a rich cocoa and combine with the coffee in equal parts. Four into iced tea glasses filled with crushed ice and garnish with whipped cream.

Corn Flake Macaroons.
 2 egg whites 1 cup coconut
 1 cup sugar 2 cups corn flakes
 1/2 teaspoon vanilla 1/2 cup nut meats (chopped)

Beat the egg whites until stiff, add the sugar gradually, then add the vanilla, coconut, corn flakes, and nut meats.

Drop by spoonfuls on a buttered pan, and bake in a moderate oven (400 degrees F.) until the macaroons are a delicate brown.

THERE'LL BE A HOT TIME.
