At Rotary

'The life of a hockey referee, like that of a policeman, is not a happy one.' This was quite evident from the remarks made by Cooper Smeaton of Montreal, the guest speaker at the Rotary luncheon yesterday. Mr. Smeaton who retired about four years ago, was referee for twenty-two years and Manager of the Pittsburgh Quakers for one year. Mr. and Mrs. Smeaton are guests at Dalvay Hotel and they, as well as all the others who are there at present, have signified their intention of returning next year. The speaker, after commending to the kindness and hospitality of the Island people, proceeded to discuss hockey in general. He said the game is not as rough as it was in the 'knock-em-down and drag-'em-out days' when a referee needed to have a hide as tough as a rhinoceros, when all sorts of things thrown at him and had to cultivate the gentle art of controlling his temper. He told of a fellow referee surrounded by a hostile crowd of gamblers who had lost money at the game and who had attempted to raid the room of this referee who had to be protected by members of the New York police force with drawn guns as he made his way to his hotel. Mr. Smeaton said that professional hockey is absolutely on the level otherwise he would never have been connected with it. He had followed with interest hockey on Prince Edward Island, and was glad to note the attention that was being paid to the development of junior hockey. The boys here of course had to compete with conditions in other parts of Canada where industrial concerns gave strong financial support to their play. The need of a coach who would have some experience of the systems followed in other places was also stressed. In answer to a question he said that the so-called amateur teams are not really amateur today with the exception of the McGill teams where none of the players receive any remuneration for their services. In answer to another question he said that good descriptions are given at hockey broadcasts but sometimes they are better than the game itself. In the present system of play-offs it must be remembered that these are money makers and that it is all the difference between certain clubs being in the black or in the red. He then gave a short sketch of certain outstanding players such as Lionel Conacher, Hod Stewart, and others, and spoke very highly of Jimmy Gardiner who had at one time coached in Charlottetown. Rotarian Fred Colwill was in the chair and as he had to leave early his place was taken by Rotarian Bishop. Secretary Roy Cudmore announced the resignation of Don J. Archibald, and Dr. G.H. Houston who were joining the C.A.S.F. and stated that Past-President A. R. Cooper was also returning to military duty. There were made honorary members of the club. A letter was read from the Treasurer of the Red Cross thanking the Rotarians for the donation of $1513.30 proceeds of the Rotary Auction in aid of Crippled Children's work and other activities. The following guests were present:—Rotarians Fred Burke, Swamscott, Mass., Rotarian Ken K. Lowry, Montreal, Norman Avar, Sackville, Montague A. Clark of Meriden, Conn., non-Rotarians, Roy J. A. Glen, and Dr. L. H. Newman, Ottawa, E. Saur, Toronto; Joseph MacDonald, North Sydney; Robert F. Large, Sackville; Ivan Nicholson, J. L. Douglas, M. F., Charlottetown, Trevor Taylor of Montreal and C. S. Ching, New York.

MAKING PASTRY

The pies that mother used to make which had such an appeal were probably made with pastry in which butter and lard were the shortenings used. A combination of these two fats gives excellent results, the butter providing both flavour and colour, while the lard assures a tender crust. The Consumer Section, Marketing Service, Dominion Department of Agriculture suggests three recipes for pastry. For those not expert in pastry making the first and second methods may be satisfactory, although the third method gives a more flaky pastry. Pastry No. 1 3 cups pastry flour 1-2 teaspoon salt 1-2 cup butter 1-2 cup lard About 1-2 cup cold water. Sift flour and salt. Cut in shortening with two knives or pastry blender. Moisten with cold water, adding just enough water to complete ingredients. Pat into shape. Chill thoroughly before rolling. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) Makes 3 single crusts. Pastry No. 2 3-4 cup lard 1-2 cup boiling water 1-2 teaspoon salt 1 cup pastry flour

KEEPING SCORE

Watching from the ground a 'sparks' as a telegraphist is known, festooned with a machine-gun belt, counts as British R.A.F. fighters shot down at least 60 enemy planes in a 14-hour aerial battle over the English Channel. EVEN HENS HELP LITTLE WALTHAM, England — (CP) — Residents of this little Essex village are convinced hens have joined the war effort. One hen hatched 25 chicks out of a sitting of 27 eggs, 14 more than the normal number.

R.A.F. Sets Goering's Raiders Back on Their Heels in War's Biggest Air Battle

Most of the enemy aircraft shot down by British fighters during the terrific air battle of Aug. 8, crashed into the Channel, but any that fell on the south coast beach were quickly guarded by troops stationed on shore. This Messerschmitt 109 was bagged in a previous raid, but dozens of planes just like it fell under R.A.F. machine-gun fire during the struggle. One was brought down by a young Polish pilot in action with a British fighter command for the first time.

ACTION IN THE CLOUDS

The sky was 'literally black' with German fighters and bombers as the war's greatest aerial battle raged over the English Channel on Aug. 8 for 14 hours. Spitfire and Hurricane squadrons fought off wave after wave of German attackers, downing Junkers dive bombers and Messerschmitt fighters, one after another.
