GINGER ROGERS PLAYS POIGNANT ROLE IN "TENDER COMRADE"

—An American girl's war time romance is the structure upon which RKO Radio has built the plot of "Tender Comrade," Ginger Rogers' latest starring picture.

With Robert Ryan as her leading man, the Academy Award-winning star is said to have her most sympathetic role to date as the resolute and vital Jo, heroine of the drama.

The story opens with Chris sent away and with Jo working in a defense plant. Her recollections of their life together are adroitly interwoven with her current problem of finding a place to live, a problem of finding a place to live, a problem she solves by joining some service-wife friends in renting an old house and engaging a housekeeper. What happens to Jo and her friends there, and how she re-lives her romance to its poignant climax forms the absorbing action of the drama.

Ruth Hussey, Patricia Collinge and Kim Hunter are featured as Jo's fellow workers, while Mady Christians plays the housekeeper.
