IN MEMORIAM

Gone but not forgotten. In loving memory of our dear Father, Neil MacLeod, who died at Orwell, August 25, 1910. When our Father breathed his last farewell The blow was more than tongue can tell. This world seems quite another place Without the smile of our Father's face Four years have passed and still we miss him, Folks may think the wound is healed But little do they know the sorrow That lies within our hearts concealed Inserted by his family. 5189.

MRS. JOHN MUNROE.

The death took place on Saturday, shortly after noon, at her residence, 263 Richmond street, of Mrs. Munroe, wife of Conductor John Munroe, of the P. E. I. Railway. Mrs. Munroe had been suffering for some time, but her death came rather unexpectedly. She leaves to mourn their sad loss her husband and five children, besides three brothers, John, George and T. B., of Summerside, and a sister, Miss Carrie, also of Summerside. Mrs. Munroe, before her marriage, was Miss Annie Grady, a daughter of the late Mr. David Grady, of Summerside. The deceased was of excellent disposition and was well liked by all her friends, who will miss her very much. 5189.

MR. ALEXANDER MACKENZIE.

The very sad death occurred at his home at Garfield on Sunday, 23rd inst., of Alexander C. McKenzie at the early age of thirty-eight. Deceased had been in ill-health for the past several months, having spent a part of that time at Saranac Lake, N. Y. The late Mr. McKenzie was a general favorite and his kind disposition and pleasant manner won for him the love and respect of a great many friends. He bore his illness with great patience and was exceptionally cheerful to the end. The funeral, which was largely attended, took place on Tuesday, the 28th inst., at St. John's cemetery. The service was conducted at the house and grave by Rev. D. McKenzie. The pall-bearers were—Messrs. A. J. McKenzie, Bond Balderson, John A. McKenzie, Murdoch Gilmore, Daniel Faulkner and J. M. McKenzie. Besides a large circle of friends and relatives he leaves to mourn a loving mother, two sisters, Mary and Annie, and one brother, Donald, all at home. For him no more are life's vain hopes and fears are life's vain From all early troubles he has found release; For him no suffering, grief nor tears, But rest, eternal rest and joy and peace. And though we'll often miss his pleasant smile, And miss his cheering voice and helping hand, He's safe, we know, and yet a little while Ere we shall meet him in a happier land.
