A GENTLEMAN living in the vicinity of Southport was in the city last night intending to proceed to Picton this morning. He complained that he was compelled to come to the city and go to a hotel because the present time table of the Southport ferry does not enable people living across the river to get over in time to catch the Princess in the morning. He claims that the boat should leave the city at 6.30 and leave on return at 15 minutes to 7, thus enabling the travelling public to make connections with the Picton boats. He further stated that a person who wished to catch the express had only fifteen minutes to cross, walk to the station and board the 7.30 train.
