POPULAR ISLAND COUPLE MARRIED IN CAMBRIDGE, MASS.

St. John the Evangelists Church, Cambridge, Mass., was the scene Monday morning, June 23rd of one of the most impressive, yet colorful weddings of the social season, when Miss Miriam Kelly, daughter of Mrs. Patrick J. Kelly of Fort Augustus, became the bride of Mr. Chester McGuigan son of Mr. Bernard McGuigan of Charlottetown. Both of the principals are very popular and active among the younger set in social activities in Cambridge. Just as the bridal party approached the wide flung doors of the church a brilliant shaft of sunshine, omen of good fortune so much desired by every bride, fell athwart the group. Awaiting the arrival of the bridal party in the church was the Rev. J. Edwin Kelly, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, Wichita, Kansas and cousin of the bride who celebrated the nuptial Mass. As the wedding party entered the church music of Mendelssohn's wedding march was heard to resound from the monster pipe organ. During the celebration of the nuptial mass, following the solemnization of the marriage vows, choice and appropriate musical selections were rendered by the organist.

The bride was attended by Miss Elizabeth McGuigan, sister of the groom while Mr. Joseph Bradley supported the groom. The bride was attired in a flowing gown of ivory duchess satin made with the new high waist line. The formal court train was inserted with a broad panel of rare old lace. The waist also had a yoke of the same lace and long satin sleeves. The bridal veil was caught at the head with a bandetta of silk and extended in flowing lines to the floor. The bride carried a bouquet of white carnations interspersed with green bridal-wreath. In contrast to the ivory whiteness of the bride's gown was the costume of the brides-maid which was of pink satin and she wore a large pink hat. The brides-maid carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Following the wedding ceremony a sumptuous breakfast of delectable viands was served in the well arranged and spacious apartment of the groom. Among the invited guests present were Father J. Edwin Kelly, Eugene and Lucious Kelly, Miss Irene Scott and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kelly cousins of the bride, Mr. Bernard McGuigan and Miss Elizabeth, father and sister of the groom, the Misses Libby McQuaid, May McNally, Josephine McNally, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Murnaghan, Mrs. Leo McGuirk, Joe Bradley and Matt Martin all of whom are former Islanders. The bridal couple were the recipients of numerous and valuable gifts of silver and linens.

IN MEMORIAM

MR. PATRICK HAGAN

By the death of Mr. Patrick Hagan, on Friday, June 13th, 1930, the parish of St. Joseph's, Kelly's Cross, has suffered the loss of one of its most popular, progressive and outstanding members.

Some fifteen months ago the deceased suffered a bad attack of pneumonia, and immediately after he was attacked by a virulent type of cancer, which during the past year was sapping his strength, and finally, on the above date, in spite of the best medical skill, and the ever solicitous care and tender nursing of his loving wife, his life of usefulness and tenderness to his family, and of progress and industry in the community, came to a close.

The deceased, who was the eldest son of the late Thomas Hagan, one of the pioneers of Kelly's Cross parish, from whom he learned the lessons of honesty, sobriety, industry and progress when only a boy went to work with some of the best farmers of the adjacent districts, and being of an active, bright, and ambitious type of young man, he acquired the best ideas then put in practice by the best farmers. When a young man, he married, took a farm in Westmoreland, and in the course of a few years he possessed one of the neatest and best equipped homesteads in the district.

The late Mr. Hagan was a parishioner who always took a deep interest in every movement which was for advancement, financial, moral or material, and we, with whom he has been associated for the past nearly half a century miss his active and willing co-operation, and ready initiative, when almost insuperable difficulties loomed up. It is an old maxim that naught but good be said of the dead, but, in this case, there is no cause trying to overestimate his worth for his life both from the material and the spiritual point of view, was one of which any community might be imitative and grateful. His late residence in Inkerman, where he died, he acquired a few years ago, besides two others, after he disposed of his first farm in Westmoreland. What cannot be said of many farmers, the dwelling and all the other buildings on this farm are the product of his own workmanship, including inside finish. From a worldly standpoint, he surely pointed the way to the present generation in thrift and industry.

In religion, as in everything else, he was in earnest, and always thorough. By his practical adherence and loyal support of the Catholic parish of Kelly's Cross, his unfailing attendance at Holy Mass and practical performance of his religious duties, and his open profession of the teachings of the Catholic Church, of which he was proud to be an adherent, merited not only the respect but the approval of his non-Catholic friends of whom he had many.

The deceased was born just at the birth of the New Year, 1856, (midnight) and was therefore in his 74th year. His first wife was Miss Mary A. Johnston, of Kinkora, who died almost 14 years ago, by whom he had three sons and seven daughters. Several of whom predeceased him. His second wife, who survives him, was Miss Margaret McGuigan, who with two sons (by first wife) Emma, of Charlottetown, and Amos, of Emerald, and one daughter, Mrs. John T. Kelly, Stanchell, mourn the loss of a kind, indulgent, and God-fearing husband and father, and will cherish a dear memory and pray for his eternal rest.

The acting pastor of Kelly's Cross Parish, Rev. M. J. Smith, was a frequent visitor at the bedside of the late Mr. Hagan, and consoled and fortified his soul for the terrible moment of death.

The funeral to Kelly's Cross Church on Monday morning, June 16th attended by a large concourse of all denominations, was a fitting tribute to the worth of a great man, who has left an indelible stamp on this community.

A Requiem High Mass was celebrated by Rev. M. J. Smith, who also performed the cemetery services, assisted by Rev. Thomas Curran. The pall bearers, who were select-

Solloway and Mills Are Sentenced

(Canadian Press Despatch.) CALGARY, Alta., June 23—Isaac W. C. Solloway, President of Solloway Mills Co., Limited, and Harvey Mills, Vice-President of the Dominion-wide brokerage firm, who were today convicted on four charges of conspiracy, tonight paid fines totalling $250,000, and were released on bail, aggregating $90,000, pending hearing of an appeal against a sentence of four months and one month imprisonment, respectively.

CALGARY, June 23.—Convicted on four counts of conspiracy, Isaac W. C. Solloway and Harvey Mills, his partner in the brokerage firm bringing their names, were fined an aggregate of $250,000, and sentenced to jail terms by Mr. Justice William C. Ives, at the conclusion of a three weeks' trial late today.

Solloway received the heaviest penalty, being fined $225,000 and sentenced to four months in jail, or additional imprisonment of 23 months in default of fine payment. Mills was fined $25,000 and imprisonment of one month imposed, or if he defaults payment of fine, 23 months in jail.

Defense counsel announced that an appeal would be entered. The accused were held in custody by the Sheriff until bail is arranged, pending the appeal.

The first count on which the brokers were convicted was made under the common law, while the remaining three came under Section 444 of the Criminal Code, covering conspiracy to defraud the public.

Penalties for Solloway

Penalties on Solloway were as follows: Count No. 1—Four months hard labor in Lethbridge Jail, a fine of $100,000, or in default of payment an additional 23 months in Jail, if the fine is not sooner paid. Count No. 2—Four months' hard labor in Lethbridge Jail, a fine of $125,000, or in default of payment, an additional 23 months. Count No. 3—Two months' hard labor. Count No. 4—One month hard labor.

MR. J. A. CLARK

Superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Station at Charlottetown on whom the Degree of Doctor of Science was conferred this week by Acadia University Penalties imposed on Mills were: Count No. 1—One month in Lethbridge Jail, with hard labor, a fine of $10,000 or 23 months additional. Count No. 2—One month hard labor, $15,000 fine, or additional 23 months in jail. Count No. 3—One month hard labor. Count No. 4—One month hard labor.

All terms, exclusive of those imposed in lieu of payment of fine, will run concurrently and all time imposed in default of payment of fine will run concurrently.

The Judgment. After A. L. Smith, K.C., leading Crown counsel, had concluded his address to his Lordship and A. A. McGillivray, K.C., leading defense counsel, had concluded his rebuttal, his Lordship handed down his judgment.
