BRITISH WARSHIPS SILENCE FIRE OF CHINESE BATTERIES

Mantis, Keppel and Wolsey Unloaded a Heavy Bombardment After They Had Been Fired on in The Yangtse River-Looting of Foreign Property Continues at Nanking.

(Canadian Press) HONG KONG, April 25.—Three British warships, the Mantis, Keppel and Wolsey, engaged in an exchange of shots with Chinese batteries on the south bank of the Yangtse river near Chinkiang yesterday. The warships lost some heavy bombardment after they had been fired on and soon silenced the Chinese attack.

(Special to the Guardian) SHANGHAI, April 25.—Chaos prevails outside the city of Swatow in Kwangtung, following an outbreak by red peasant troops who were aided by remnants of the army of General Chen Ching Min. Chen's soldiers are reported to have turned hands.

(Special to the Guardian) TORONTO, April 25.—Sir Gordon Hewart, Lord Chief Justice of England, will speak before the Canadian Bar Association meeting in Toronto on August 24th next. He was attorney general in the Lloyd George cabinet.

(By British United Press) LONDON, April 25.—One of London's quaintest spots—a fully equipped underground station with a full-sized track 70 feet in length—has been hidden from the public at South Kensington.

(By British United Press) PARIS, April 25.—The Paris courts are about to deal with a divorce case of a most unusual character. Shortly after the customary wedding lunch, it seems, a newly married man told his bride that he had kept an urgent appointment, but that they would have a happy reunion in their new little flat that evening.

Hermit In An Abbey

(By British United Press) LONDON, April 25.—"Be this gate never closed to an honest man" is the translation of the inscription over the gatehouse of Cleve Abbey, the beautiful Cistercian abbey of St. Mary by the Cliff, near Minehead, in Somerset, which was founded by William de Roumare in 1188. The hermit has always been observed, and even today, when the Abbey is but a ruined pile, its walls give shelter to a hermit.

Pearl Ear Rims

(By British United Press) LONDON, April 25.—Ear rims instead of earrings are the latest notion in jewellery. Some people say that these jewelled rims, fixed to outline the ear parts of the ears, are copied from the "frankings" worn by certain foreign tribes. That may be so, but it is certain that the jewelled ear rim is worn by Miss 1927 is not at all barbarous in appearance; it is entirely attractive and not bizarre.

Lamp Is Burning For "Control" Chief

(By British United Press) TORONTO, April 25.—Rev. J. W. E. Lowry, minister of the Bloor Street East Reformed Presbyterian Church, states that he would most cordially welcome D. B. Hanna back to the faith and worship of his Seceder and Covenanting forefathers if he should be excluded from the fellowship of the United Church of Canada. For, although Mr. Lowry himself is a personal prohibitionist, that doctrine is not, he says, a term of ecclesiastical communion within the Presbyterian church or the congregation over which he presides. And he continues, though Mr. Hanna may have wandered from the old paths of his Presbyterian ancestry—"While the lamps holds on to burn, he grieves; sinner may return."

(By British United Press) LONDON, April 25.—A cat and a monkey are living in friendship in a Brighton restaurant, and are inseparable companions. The cat has been there from its kitten days, but the monkey—a Brazilian "squirrel"—arrived only recently.

ROMANTIC OLD ADELPHI MAY BE "RE-DEVELOPED"

Remnant of Old London, With Precious Literary Associations, to be Sold by Auction.

(Canadian Press) LONDON, April 25.—What Sir James Barrie told the Sparrows on the Embankment trees when he read that his beloved Adelphi was for sale "for possible re-development," is not to be revealed. And, for once, words failed George Bernard Shaw. The threat to destroy one of the remnants of Old London, with all its literary associations, is likely to cause grave concern to more than those two famous dwellers in this Upper Bohemia, which was the haunt of such as David Garrick, Joshua Reynolds, Samuel Johnson and Oliver Goldsmith.
