Excellent Easter Beef

A splendid showing of Easter beef is to be seen at the store of Thos H. Mills, 135 Hillsboro St. Mr. Mills, who has had long experience in the meat business, has received the best procurable cattle from Island feeders.

The front store has been renovated, and everything is sanitariously arranged for your inspection: In the rear is the slaughter house, which is kept at all times in a most sanitary condition, while off this slaughter house is the new and large cooling room, where carcasses are placed after being dressed, away from flies and other sources of contamination. Here too, were hung several exceptionally large prime carcasses, all ready to be cut into the required "cuts."

Among this choice lot are three heifers fed by Austin Hyde, Clyde River. One, a two-year-old weighs 1,290 lbs.; another two-year-old, 1,080 lbs. and the third, baby beef, one year and five months, 960 lbs. These carcasses are neatly dressed, the cuts from which will make an appetizing centre-piece for many Easter dinner tables. Those requiring Easter beef would do well to inspect the display at this store before purchasing.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES

St. Paul's Church Special services were held at St. Paul's Church yesterday morning and evening. At the morning service a sermon appropriate to Good Friday was preached by Rev. H. D. Raymond.

At the evening service, the events of the week preceding and the period immediately following the Crucifixion and Resurrection were told by a number of the children, with lantern pictures thrown upon the screen to illustrate. The scenes covered the period from the Triumphal Entry to the Ascension. Appropriate hymns were sung at intervals by the Choir.

St. Dunstan's Basilica

The regular Good Friday service were held at St. Dunstan's Basilica yesterday, and were very largely attended.

In the morning the customary services were held. In the afternoon, The Way of the Cross was conducted by His Excellency, Bishop O'Sullivan. Rev. Francis P. Lyons preached a sermon appropriate to Good Friday.

Last evening Tenebrae was held. His Excellency, Bishop O'Sullivan was present. The Male Choir and the St. Dunstan's University Choir participated.

Church of Most Holy Redeemer

Good Friday services were held at the Church of the Most Holy Redeemer yesterday. At 7 a. m. the Mass of the Pre-sanctified was celebrated by Father McGree, assisted by Father Murphy and Father Enright.

From 12 o'clock till 3 p. m. the commemoration of the three hours of the Lord's agony on the Cross was held. The preacher was Father McGuire. The Choir sang appropriate hymns. At 7.30 p. m., The Way of the Cross was held.

Trinity United Church

The pre-Easter services which have been held for the past two weeks in Hertz Hall with marked success were brought to a close last evening by a service in the Church, when the large auditorium was filled with members. It was in the nature of a preparatory service for the Holy Communion, which is to be observed tomorrow morning. There was also a reception service when 28 were received by letter and 44 on profession of Faith. Rev. Dr. Ramsay preached the sermon in his usual masterly way, depicting the incidents as they occurred at the Crucifixion of Our Lord. A full choir led the singing and Mr. James Calder contributed an appropriate solo. Altogether, it was the best Good Friday service ever held in this Church and a deep feeling of worship was manifest throughout. The services tomorrow are expected to be largely attended.

Baptist Church

An inspiring Good Friday service was held last evening at the Baptist Church. Rev. Dr. A. C. Vincent preached a sermon from the text Gal. 6-21 'God forbid that I should glory save in the Cross.' He pointed out that Paul gloried not in intellectual or spiritual superiority or in his great accomplishments, but in the Cross. The Cross meant that there was something wrong with the world, and that this should be rectified. The Cross was the highest example of love that the world ever knew. In the Cross Paul saw the triumph of righteousness over sin. The Cross was also a challenge to service, as Christ had given Himself in service to mankind. It should motivate every life. The Choir sang "God So Loved the World."

St. Peter's Cathedral

The services during Holy Week were largely attended at St. Peter's Cathedral. Every evening Canon Malone gave an address on the last words or sayings of Christ on the cross. There were in all five services yesterday, and at Evensong the text was "Father into Thy hands I commend my spirit." During the service the "Story of the Cross" was sung as a Prayer and was followed by the proper antiphones for Good Friday. There will be service today at 10.15 a. m. Tomorrow, Easter Day, there will be Holy Communion at 7 and 8 a. m. Sung Eucharist at 11 a. m. and at 7 p. m., Evensong and sermon, followed by the singing of a solemn Te Deum before the altar. Visitors welcome.

Easter At Sevcik's

"One of the nicest stores in the Maritimes," was the remark made by a visitor about the Queen Meat Market. Mr. J. R. Sevcik, the proprietor, has had much experience in the marketing of good meat and the proof of this is the orders he is receiving from all over the Island from Tignish to Souris. The store has been newly remodelled and a new cooling system installed to properly handle the large quantity of meat which he markets. A Guardian representative was shown over the premises and found that all the meat on sale was cared for in the most sanitary manner. Besides meat, Mr. Sevcik also carries an excellent supply of milk-fed chickens, Hams and Bacon of his own cure, and a line of vegetables. The front of the store is decorated in the evenings with a string of colored lights, which adds to the attractiveness of the Easter display in the windows. If you wish to get an idea of what an up-to-date meat shop looks like, call at Sevcik's today.

(Continued from Page 1) termie who shall be believed." Gregory then strode to the stand. He shook his fist in the face of the pale Seibert and declared: "I went to Dnieprostov to erect the largest switches ever made by our company, and the largest ever installed in Russia. I left Moscow with special orders from my office to give them my personal attention because none of our switches ever have broken down, and we wanted to be sure of these. "Although it meant much work for me, I supervised every part of the work for the sake of my reputation and that of my firm." The switches, he added, each weighed 45 tons. There were three of them and the installation took 48 days. "I leave it to the technical experts here (he pointed to several experts seated near the Judge) as to whether I did that work in proper time or whether a shorter time would have been enough for the quality of the work." Gregory also replied to a charge made by Seibert that he had spread anti-Soviet propaganda at Dnieprostov. "I don't speak Russian," the little Welshman said, "and the only interpreter there spoke English so badly it took enough of my time to make them understand what I wanted without discussing Russian politics, in which I am not interested anyway."

BRIT. PREMIER

(Continued from Page 1) best as a negotiator. Assured of personal popularity in the United States he hopes to find in Mr. Roosevelt a new ally, a new fountain of vigorous inspiration. Mr. MacDonald will not rush Mr. Roosevelt into a discussion of the war debts but it is obvious here that British public opinion demands a discussion of this issue and Mr. MacDonald, as indicated to the Commons yesterday will merge this problem into the broader landscape of world economic problems. Some newspapers here have led sections of the public to believe that as soon as Mr. MacDonald sets foot within the White House, Mr. Roosevelt will present him with a debt moratorium. Mr. MacDonald realizes this is not to be expected. He has talked with Norman H. Davis, the United States special Ambassador, and is fully acquainted with American sentiment concerning the debts and knows its solution is intricately linked with other international problems. On tariffs, Great Britain will Nordwell then referred to mistakes in erection of turbines whereupon M. Nordwell retorted neither had the expert Commission of Enquiry. It was untrue he was "pleased" with the accident, he added.
