There were no further particulars. A later despatch stated that two men at the pumps were able to keep the water out of her. They were discharging the cargo and expected to be off, today, Tuesday. MR. G. H. HAZARD is certainly to be congratulated upon his success in exhibiting cut flowers at the Halifax exhibition. In order to comply with the regulations of the exhibition it was necessary to ship the exhibit from Charlottetown on Friday morning to be entered on Monday. Exhibitors who reside in Halifax were able to cut their flowers on Monday morning and thus place them on exhibition in a far better condition. Notwithstanding these conditions Mr. Hazard secured five prizes out of six entries. A private letter received by Mr. Hazard states that competition was very strong.

MR. L. W. HARRIS who has conducted a tinware business on Queen Street for the past 25 years has removed to Great George street, next door to E. McDougall's auction rooms. The change was made in order that Mr. Harris' large number of patrons would have a better opportunity to select. All are asked to call and talk over the price of elbows, stove pipe, coal hods, fire shovels, furnace pipe, lanterns or any lines of sheet metal goods that may be needed. Every piece is carefully made by skilled workmen from heavy stock, strong and tight. By the continuance of the manufacture of an article of merit Mr. Harris, under his improved conditions, will doubtless enjoy a largely increased patronage.
