

MONUMENT TO THE HONOUR AND MEMORY OF ISLAND PRIEST

To be unveiled next month in Golden Gate Park by citizens of the land of his adoption. Father W. D. McKinnon was hero of Phillipine campaign.

San Francisco.—The unveiling of the monument to Father William D. McKinnon, Chaplain of the First California Volunteer Infantry in the Spanish-American war, and hero of the battle of Manila, will take place Sunday afternoon, August 21. The statue stands in Golden Gate park. It is the work of John McQuarrie.

Father McKinnon was a native of Prince Edward Island and was educated at St. Dunstan's College and Ottawa University.

In addition to the army and navy contingents, 10,000 Knights of Columbus from the Bay Cities, the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., the Catholic Ladies' Aid, the Native Sons, the Native Daughters, and many civic organizations in the Bay region will send large numbers. The United Labor Council has notified affiliated bodies to send the largest representation possible.

The Very Rev. R. A. Gleason, S. J., will deliver the invocation. Miss Isabel McKinnon, grand-niece of the war hero, will pull the cord unveiling the statue. Music will be furnished by the Spanish War Veterans' Band, Major Charles L. Tilden, being named orator of the day; Captain Harpold will make the presentation address and Mayor James Rolph, Jr., will accept the statue for the city.

Penetration by the Rev. F. S. Felix, veteran of the Indian wars, will conclude the ceremonies. Father McKinnon was born at Melrose, P. E. I. August 1st, 1858. His parents were Alexander McKinnon and Mary Morrison.

His death took place on September 24, 1902, in the Military Hospital at Manila. An issue of the Maple Leaf Oakland, California contained the following:

Rev. Wm. D. McKinnon was born at Melrose, Prince Edward Island, Canada, fifty-one years ago. When a mere boy he turned to the profession of the firm of Preston & McKinnon, was then a successful lumber merchant in San Francisco and invited the young islander to come to the west. When eighteen years of age he set out on his long journey and remained in California till the summer of 1881. He had by that time made up his mind to study for the church, Archbishop Alemany received him as a student for the diocese and sent him east to begin his studies. Young McKinnon went to the Ottawa College, Ottawa, Ontario, where he remained for three years and then removed to St. Mary's Seminary, Baltimore where he began the study of theology. He was ordained priest by Cardinal Gibbons in June, 1887. After a brief visit to his people on the island, Father McKinnon returned to California, and was made assistant pastor of St. Bridget's, San Francisco. He was there but one year when he was selected by the Archbishop as his secretary and removed to the Cathedral. Shortly afterwards, Father McKinnon was appointed director of the Orphan Asylum at San Rafael, a post which was in many ways the most responsible in the gift of the Archbishop. When the Christian Brothers were put in charge of the asylum in 1895, Father McKinnon was sent to Rio Vista and thence to Suisun, of which parish he was pastor when the Spanish-American war broke out in 1898. When the First California Infantry was mustered into service in 1898, General Smith asked Father McKinnon to go with the boys. He then came prominently before the public. Every one remembers his daring entry into Manila in order to request the favor of an interview.

FRENCH GOVT. FROWNS ON OCEAN HOPS

Prohibits All Trans-Atlantic Flights in Army Planes—Sad Fate of Captains Nungesser and Co-li Had Much to Do With Decision.

PARIS, July 29.—The French Government, in a decision taken at the Council of Ministers this morning, has washed its hands of all responsibility in connection with the impending French attempt to fly from Paris to New York by a trans-oceanic voyage. The Government decided formally to prohibit all transatlantic flights in army airplanes, thereby definitely eliminating Dieudonne Coste from the field.

M. Coste has been trying to alter his army plane, "Paris Jack" sufficiently to make it available for a trans-oceanic voyage. An military land planes came under today's ban, but, of course, this edict does not affect the plans of Henry Farman's "Blue Bird," which appear to be going forward slowly but surely, nor of Maurice Drouhin, the French aviator who is scheduled to pilot Charles Levine on his homeward journey with the Columbia.

It does have the effect, however, of centering the immediate Paris-New York flight prospects in Mr. Levine's expedition and that of the Farman Company. The Government after mature deliberation has taken the stand that it is not its province to send courageous young French airmen over the Atlantic in planes which are not equipped for the perilous journey. The Government will neither encourage nor discourage private enterprises, such as Mr. Farman's, but it wants it distinctly understood that it will take no responsibility for such attempts, either financially or morally.

The sad fate of Captains Charles Nungesser and Francois Coli and of M. St. Roman had much to do with the Government's decision. While the Government was not directly concerned for the tragedies, there was, nevertheless, much criticism of certain official bureaus because of the incomplete weather information with which Captains Nungesser and Coli started.

An attempt by the Minister to continue his speech was nullified by the labor members who refused to let the public safety bill, the government's new cooperative measure, had passed the second reading, the vote being 60 to 11. The minority was composed of Nationalists, Labor, and Independent Labor, and Patrick Belton, a De Valeraite, who Tuesday took the oath of allegiance and his seat.
