KING ACKNOWLEDGES INDIA'S LOYALTY

LONDON, Sept. 12.—King George in a message to the Indian people says: "Paramount regard for treaty faith and the pledged word of rulers are people is the common heritage of England and India."

TORONTO HOME GUARD.

TORONTO, September 11.—Upwards of 1,000 members of many of them ex-members of military corps, and a number of them veterans of past campaigns, attended the meeting at the armoured night, at which the Toronto Home Guard Sharpshooters Association was formed.

HOW THE NEW ZEALANDERS CAPTURED SAMOA.

HONOLULU, September 11.—The Oceanic Steamship company's liner Ventura, which arrived here today, gave new particulars of the capture of the South Sea island of Upolu, on August 29, by 1,500 Zealand troops.

All government and private funds previously had been carried in safety to Pago Pago, Samoa. Frederick Heintz, operator of the newly installed wireless station, refused an offer of $10,000 to tell where he had hidden the apparatus.

The New Zealanders were transported by the Union Steamship company line. The battleship, the cruiser Champion and two torpedo boats.

The Ventura also brought word that a Japanese cruiser is hovering about Pago Pago, probably on the lookout for the Japanese cruiser Nurnberg. At the last census, the island of Upolu, had a population of 19,842, of whom 310 are whites.

OUTMANOEURED AND ENDANGERED THE ENEMY

PARIS, September 12.—The editorials of the newspapers still published in Paris are largely taken up with discussion of the significance of the German retreat.

"The repulse of the German attack against our forces on the right bank of the Ourcq cuts off their retreat to the Aisne. Northward the way is barred by detached forts and the entrenched camp of Rheims, so that there remains only a retirement across the Aisne and uninhabited plain of Campagne Poulleuse, thirty miles wide, between Rheims and St. Monant, to reach which, via the Marne valley, they will be compelled to traverse between Epernay and Chalons, the roughest country, full of ravines, forests and ponds."

Further light is thrown upon the position by the latest resume of the Echo de Paris. "On the left wing the allies repulsed the army of Von Kluck and resisted stubbornly."

"The conclusion may be drawn that the Germans effected a union of their Eastern armies with that which invaded France via Belgium. Despite their efforts, the combined mass is being forced eastward into the difficult narrow region, only forty miles wide, between Rheims and Verdun. For the first time since the war began the Germans seem to have been outmanoeured and even seriously endangered."

WHAT THE NEWSPAPERS SAY ON THE MARKET.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Journal of Commerce: This partial resumption of business in bonds encourages a belief that it might pave the way from trading in stocks.

"The markets always are on their knees at last without relief they will be on their backs."

MANY NOBLEMEN IN LATEST LIST OF CASUALTIES

Viscount Castleross, Lord Alastair, and Heirs to Two Dukedoms Killed or Missing

REPRESENT OLD FAMILIES

Scions of Houses Dating Back to the Crusades Took Lead in Fighting.

LONDON, September 12.—Many distinguished names appear on the roll of casualties issued at midnight. Among the officers of the Irish Guards reported wounded or missing are Vincent Castleross, Lord Alastair, Hon. Robert Edward Innes-Kerr, brother of the Duke of Roxburgh and the Hon. A. Herbert.

Captain Lord Desmond Fitzgerald reported wounded is the heir apparent of the Duke of Leinster. Lieut. C. N. Champlons de Crespiigny of the Queens Bays, killed in action, is a member of a family descended from the Crusaders.

It was Sir Arthur Forbes, an ancestor of Lord Granard, who more than two centuries ago raised the Royal Irish Regiment and served with it under Montrose. Lord Granard was formerly in the Scots Guards and is one of five brothers who are all army officers.

When he married Miss Beatrice Mills of New York, but has just been appointed to command one of the Royal Irish regiments which is called the Fifth Service Battalion of the Royal and is stationed at Dublin.

IS STILL EFFECTIVE JUST BECAUSE OF THE WHITE ON BRITAIN'S FLAG, AND THE HONOR THAT CHARACTERIZES HER IN THE MATTER OF THE KEEPING OF GOOD FAITH AT ANY COST.

In the Blue we have the symbol of National Fidelity. Britain must to herself be true and history is again called in to prove her case. We have our own domestic brawls. Among ourselves we strongly say our say and we strike hard, but we resent any interference by our neighbors.

At any hint of invasion, we are ready to be the first of the world of the Armada all that fell into the background and, Howard of Effingham, himself a Catholic, led the English fleet to victory. Could anything have seemed more hopeless than the condition of affairs in Ireland a week before the declaration of war? Yet what a front the enemy found where only he had expected internal strife and dissension.

The blue of our flag stands for our fidelity to one another as Britons.

as a piece of paper without any value? Could England thus deal with treaties? The reality of Christianity is shown by the honour of England in this crisis. The should be a national conscience as well as an individual one.

England has a conscience which is honourable. The appeal of little Belgium did not fall on deaf ears. Could England stand by with folded hands and see her friends France beaten and battered by Germany?

There was no moral obligation for her? Would it be Christian for England to play the traitor to her friend in her extremity simply because there was no exact written agreement that she should help fight her battles?

But the statesmen of England saw further than this. The very life of the British Empire was threatened. Germany would not be long in attacking Britain if she conquered France and Belgium.

It is right to defend your life against the attack of an assassin? Britain is to-day fighting for the life of the Empire.

But the issue is deeper than this. England is fighting the battle for the freedom of the world. Kipling in his latest poem tells us "The Hun is at the gate."

Who dies if England lives? England did not want to use war to preserve liberty. She was compelled to. As Dr Dale said, England was willing to pay the cost of peace even at the cost of war.

The German Emperor was bound to "hack his way through." His policy is that of blood and iron. Germany is fighting for aggrandisement. England is fighting for peace and liberty.

England's war is to make an end of war. She wants to end the war by the same way that Abraham Lincoln did, "that she may invoke the considerate judgment of mankind and the gracious favour of Almighty God."

This is no ordinary war. The materialistic views of Germany make her to-day practically a pagan people. They have on the veneer of a Christian civilisation, but that has peeled off now.

We see how they treated the beautiful city of Louvain. We read of the brutalities of their soldiers in the abuse of helpless women the same way. The denying of God and the rationalism of Germany is now finding its results.

This war is a false form of Protestantism attacking a true form. It is a struggle for the supremacy of a system. It is a military despotism endeavouring to conquer the world.

Mr Edison very truly says this war is a necessary surgical operation. The liberties of the world are endangered by the pride and haughtiness of Germany. The operation is severe and it will help Germany if she survives the shock.

It will rid the world of a menace to the higher form of civilisation. This war will get Christian civilisation rid of an incubus which threatened its life for many years.

Christianship is not the cause of this war. The world has gradually grown better under the sway of Jesus Christ. These wars that have occurred are only eruptions. They have purified the blood of the body.

It is not Christianity that has caused the war, but the lack of it in the German Empire. When this war is over the work of the Prince of Peace will be more fully recognised than ever.

It is because we believe that British ideals are nearest to gospel ideals that we pray for the success of British arms.

These armies appear to have passed Verdun. Berlin reports say they bombarded fortified positions south of that fortress. A comprehensive report from Paris indicates that General Von Kluck got farther south of Paris than has been heretofore disclosed.

MONTREAL, September 12.—Final arrangements were made yesterday by the board of control for a loan of $3,500,000 from the Bank of Montreal.

SOME WAR ADVERTISEMENTS

LONDON, Sept. 12.—"Wanted: Pettecoats for strong, able-bodied young men not in the army"—is a sample of personal advertisements in the columns of London papers.

Another reads: "Doctor's wife, middle-aged, will undertake the work of any tramway conductor, coachman, shop assistant or other married worker with children provided that worker will undertake to enlist and fight for his country in our hour of need."

All wages earned will be turned over to the wife and family. Apply MRS. LOWRY, 1 Priory Terrace, Kew Gardens, S. W.

Correspondents deplore the fact that men of military age remain to "serve out lace and ribbons from behind counters" when millions of women stand ready to assume such duties and release the men for army service.

Sandwich board women who formerly advertised "Votes for Women" now bear the message, "Your King and Country Need You. Enlist Today."

ISLAND LADY DIES IN ST. JOHN.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Sept. 12.—Mrs. Alice Rose Cox, wife of Louis G. Cox, photographer, died yesterday, leaving husband, mother, step-father, baby boy, three brothers and five sisters. She was 21 years old and was a daughter of the late Roderick McIntyre, of Kildare, P. E. I.

PARTICULARS OF THE BATTLE OF MARNE

LONDON, Sept. 12.—The battle of Marne as General French christened the great struggle now going on for weeks in the territory between Paris and Verdun between the allied armies and the Germans has not yet reached a decisive result. The Germans' fight, however, in face of superior forces, and threatened with an out-flanking movement continues to retreat north along the road over which General Von Kluck made his lightning dash. The German retreat has been reported by the strong allied force and also threatened by another French force advancing from Paris. Von Kluck was forced to withdraw northward. In the fighting, according to British and French reports, numbers of German guns, hundreds of prisoners and part of the German transports were taken. The Germans deny this report and explain to the people of Berlin that there was a mistake in the telegram. British papers refuse to accept this statement and insist that the report is true. The French attacked smartly forcing the German retreat but severe fighting took place on the road between Vitry Le Francois and Sezanne. Here the Germans delivered vicious attacks and finally were stopped by General Poin's Artillery on the Hills. The French now command the Hills and the Germans have not yet advanced on the way to Chalons. It was for possession of these hills that the French fought so hard early in the battle. Here a brilliant fight occurred with varying results. Although some of the best German fighting men were sent east to Prussia to fight the Russians it was not till tonight that they stopped their attack on the allies. There is no change in the situation at Nancy. The British public are well satisfied with the results of the battle so far but military experts warn them it is not over yet. The distress on the German right wing has given a chance to the little Belgian Army to do something by taking advantage of and harassing the German reinforcements hurrying south for Von Kluck. Only a few German Line Regiments are left to the Belgians who alone can cope with the German Militiamen.
