Hon. Donalds Twa But Oxford Kens Them Baith Weel

(By The Canadian Press) WOODSTOCK, Ont., April 23.—There may be confusion in other parts of the Dominion over the plurality of Hon. Donald Sutherland but in pastoral Oxford County they know their Donalds. They are both familiar figures in every corner of the shire.

In the recent Dominion by-election in Oxford South, Hon. Donald Sutherland, the farmer, was the unsuccessful Conservative candidate. Hon. Donald Matheson Sutherland, the doctor, Minister of National Defence and M. P. for Oxford North, supported his fellow clansman on the hustings. They are not otherwise related.

WEDDING BELLS—The Convent Chapel, Summerside, was the scene of a pretty wedding at 5.30 Monday morning when Miss Edna Wedge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mansfield Wedge was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Julian Gallant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Gallant. A large number of friends of the contracting parties were present. Rev. G. J. MacLellan, D.D., V.G., celebrated the Nuptial Mass. The bride looked very winsome in a wedding dress of shell pink crepe with picture hat and shoes to match. She carried a lovely bouquet of pink carnations and fern. Her sister, Miss Anna, attended her and wore a blue crepe dress with white to match. Mr. George Gallant, was best man. After the ceremony the bridal party motored to the home of the bride where a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served, the dining room being artistically decorated for the occasion with Spring flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Gallant left on the morning train for Moncton, N. B. where they will spend their honeymoon. The bride travelled in a beige swag suit with hat and accessories to match. The groom is a popular young clerk at Sinclair and Stewart Ltd. and Miss Wedge was an employee of F. W. Strong and Co. They were the recipients of many lovely gifts previous to their marriage. DEATH OF MR. DWIGHT BEARSTO OF KENSINGTON—Many friends will regret to learn of the death of Mr. Dwight Bearsto, of Kensington. The deceased had served in the Great War and had been in poor health ever since his return. He was a patient in the Provincial Sanatorium and only returned home two weeks ago. It was thought that he had improved but just a week before he died he became suddenly ill and did not recover. He was the son of Mr. Charles Bearsto of Pictou and was very highly esteemed for his many fine traits of character. He will be sorely missed in the home circle and by his many friends. He leaves to mourn his widow, formerly Miss Bernard, and two children, Boyd, and a little daughter, who died a few years ago. Mrs. Charles Bearsto is of the late Mrs. Charles and Mrs. Gilbert of Alberta. One brother, William, was killed in action. Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved relatives. The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon. The Kensington branch of the Canadian Legion marched from the home to the Presbyterian Church, where the main service was held. There was a short service at the house. Rev. Mr. Rhoad conducted the service and Rev. Mr. Osbourne of Long River preached the funeral address. Mr. Genet pronounced the Benediction. The pallbearers were Messrs. Elmer and Allison Bernard, J. B. Lewis and C. Lewis. Interment was in the family plot in the Peoples Cemetery at Pictou.—S

GLIDED FROM GERMANY TO ENGLAND
(By The Canadian Press) LYMFINE, England, April 23.—Declaring "you can't get killed in gliding," Miss Joan Meakin, who landed here after making the first channel crossing by a woman glider, declared she would do her best to make gliding popular in England.

Towed from Germany through the clouds by an aeroplane manned by two German pilots, Miss Meakin said the trip was marvellous. She was in the air 7 1/4 hours on landing here she was hatless, and was wearing a black flying suit and gay carpet slippers. Her mother, stepfather, and brother and sisters were among those who watched the glider looping before coming to earth.

Miss Meakin's brother, Peter, a Royal Air Force cadet, was killed when he crashed seven years ago. Nothing daunted the ambitious sister insisted on taking up flying. In three years' gliding she has had one crash—a fall of 50 feet, but was not seriously hurt.

KILLED IN COLLISION

Government Cannot Control Birthrate
(By The Canadian Press) LONDON, April 23.—In the ultimate resort the regulation of the flow of births cannot be done by government, said Major-General Sir John Wallace Megaw, former director-general of the Indian Medical Services. It must be done by the expression of public opinion, not in the education of the people, to throw stones at the government.

Sir John was replying to some pointed question of Miss Eleanor Rathbone, M. P., who recently published a striking book on "Child Marriage: the Indian Minotaur." The director-general had stated

India was so rapidly increasing in population that her production of necessities could not keep pace with it.

Miss Rathbone asked whether a doctor working in the government service was at liberty to tell a woman whose health necessitated it how she could prevent having another child. If not, did not Sir John think it should be made plain it was not only the right of a doctor to give such advice, but also his duty?

Was there any way of solving the economic difficulty unless the Government was willing to grasp the nettle in both hands and permit and encourage their accredited representatives in India—doctors, nurses, midwives, teachers—to give the information to the people which was requisite for their health? was another question.

Miss Rathbone argued the real obstacle was that the moment the government found that information on any of these social subjects was likely to cause offence in any quarter, or to arouse agitation, the subsidized and a policy of hush-hush prevailed.
