HIGHFIELD SERVICES-Rev. W. H. Spencer will conduct service at Highfield on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 10th at 3 o'clock.

MONCTON RACES.-Moncton will hold a two days race meet Aug. 30th and Sept. 1st. They are advertising six classes of races.

ELECTRICAL STORM-A severe electrical storm accompanied by heavy rain swept over the city yesterday evening, continuing for a duration of several hours. The only damage so far reported occurred in the Victoria Park Restaurant of Mr. B. G. L. Garnum where the telephone was totally wrecked when struck by a flash of lightning.

SAD DEATH YESTERDAY.-The sympathy of the entire community will go out to Capt. Finlayson and family in the loss they have sustained by the death of the Captain's ten year old grandchild, Evelyn Lucas, who passed away at noon yesterday. The little girl was in bathing a day or two ago, contracting a slight cold. When it was noticed she was not improving the family doctor was called and despite every possible care and tender nursing she failed to rally. The little Evelyn, who was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Lucas of Halifax, has been living in this city for some time and was a companionable and loving child, of a bright and cheerful disposition, she was always a favorite with her playmates.

ENJOYING A WELL EARNED VACATION.-Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Trainor of Morell, P. E. I., have arrived in Attleboro, Mass. to spend a six months vacation with their sons and daughters. On their arrival they were met in Boston by the different members of their family, they then motored from Boston to the home of their son Alphonus Trainor, Attleboro, Mass. where a sumptuous repast awaited them, prepared by Mrs. Alphonus Trainor and Miss Rose Gillian, at which three generations of the Trainor family were present which totaled a number of 26 members. After justice had been done to the inner man of the good things provided they proceeded to the parlor where the rest of the evening was pleasantly spent in singing and dancing. Ice cream was served by the little Misses Olive and Agnes Trainor. The people of Morell are anxiously awaiting Tom's arrival home again, for he is a jolly good fellow.

For Sore Feet-Minard's Liniment.

W. P. FISHERMEN'S MEETING AT TIGNISH

A meeting of those interested in the fishing industry of Tignish, Minishash and other points in the west of the province was held at Tignish the night of the 30th of July. Mr. C. P. McCarthy was elected to the chair and Mr. Clytus Calvin secretary. The chairman explained the object of the meeting, namely to ascertain the sentiment of the people of the districts affected, in regard to securing for the fishermen some certain relief from the present dire need, due to the failure of the lobster fishing season of 1924. There was a unanimous expression of the hard times existing among the fishermen due to the failure of the lobster fishing season and after the plain, depressing picture drawn by all of the speakers, it was unanimously resolved that a delegation be appointed to await upon Hon. Dr. King, at Summerside on the 31st July and endeavor to secure his good will towards the relief sought, by petition and other wise, from the government. Senator Murphy, Charles Dalton, A. E. McLean, M. P., who were with the chairman on the platform addressed the meeting. The two former strongly advocated the need of relief. Mr. McLean dealt with the question in a sympathetic manner, explained the difficulties besetting the application, clearly stated that he was in full sympathy with them in the request for relief and now that he had come into close touch and knowledge of the actual needs of the districts affected, he would do his utmost towards securing such measures as would assist the fishermen. They must remember, however, that he was not all power full and that the utmost that he could do would be to recommend that the government grant the request of the petition and he would do this with all his power and influence. He would require the assistance of others and the

GERMAN STATES SETTLE WITH ROYALTY FOR LANDS TAKEN

(United Press) BERLIN, Aug. 7.-Saxony and Brunswick are the first German States to finally conclude settlements with the royal houses. Brunswick paid off the Kaiser's daughter a few weeks ago, and now Saxony has followed with a cash payment of 300,000 goldmarks plus a yearly pension of 39,000 marks for the next four years for the Wettin House.

Under the Saxon settlement, the State receives as a foundation wonderful art treasures and castles hitherto held by the popular King Friedrich August.

On the other hand August retains his castle Sybillehorn in Silesia where he leads the life of a gentleman farmer and neighbor of the Hohenzollern crownprince Wilhelm.

Five years of wrangling were required to reach a compromise satisfactory to the royal house, to the nationalists and to the communists and socialists. August retains some property, chiefly farmland, and has a lifetime right to hunt on his former domains, though the State stipulates that he shall be careful about the trees where he goes hunting.

When the settlement resolution was finally passed in the Saxon Landtag, the communists endeavored vainly to get the royal castle in Dresden converted into a home for ailing children. The house voted down this proposal and passed over the heads of the Reds a vote of thanks to the royal family.

The "Kultur" collection which Saxony receives by the settlement includes the famous Green Vault with royal jewels which the communist Premier Zeligner last fall wanted to auction off as to help starving Saxon children. Besides the magnificent array, the Saxon State receives wonderful paintings, copper engravings, sculptures, Austria's historic museum, his rifle collection, his porcelain, his coins and his natural history museum, as well as prehistoric collections, mathematical-physical works, statuary and pictures including originals of Michel-Angelo, Botticelli and other old masters.

Royal Property The royal property includes a group of wonderful castles, forests and meadow land and some racing stables.

August is quite happy not to be compelled any longer to bear the royal crown. He was always extremely democratic and mingled with his subjects as a comrade and friend. The fact that he spoke Saxon dialect, and the further fact that he had the reputation of being a good two fisted drinking man, made him with many of his subjects a sort of royal "regular fellow."

Mrs. Morrison, wife of Rev. D. J. Morrison, Whycocomagh, N. S., arrived last night by the S. S. Hochelaga for a visit to relatives in the city and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Boyce, Bonshaw.

The Hon. G. N. Gordon, M. P. for West Peterborough, Ont., and Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons, accompanied by Mrs. Gordon and family, is spending a three weeks vacation at Shaw's Hotel, Brackley.

At the conclusion of a scene which necessitated her presence on the stage for only a very few minutes, Mrs. Jeanie Seel, one of the actresses in the troupe which has just finished an engagement at the Prince Edward Theatre, discovered on Wednesday night that her dressing room had been entered in her absence and the sum of fifty dollars stolen from a purse contained in a hand bag hanging from a nail on the wall. She at once reported her loss to Mr. Gallagher, who then informed Police Officer Trainor and Higgins who were on duty at the Theatre at the time. Suspicion pointed to a man who had been noticed lounging in the adjacent alleyway. Smart work on the part of both officers resulted in this man's arrest on Great Boston Street in the early hours of morning. A number of bills, similar in amount and denomination were found on his person and these were identified as the missing notes by Mrs. Seel when the case came up in the Police Court yesterday morning. The case was adjourned till the afternoon when an investigation was held and which will be continued at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The prisoner is being defended by Mr. J. J. Johnston, K. C. The three witnesses examined yesterday were Mrs. Seel, Mr. W. E. Gilmore, Quincey, R. S. Cass, Halifax.

Second Day

In dealing with efforts that can or should be made to prepare boys and girls in Great Britain for careers in the Dominions and Colonies, the Report says, in part: "In recent years the congested state of the various professions and industrial occupations in Great Britain has contributed a serious problem alike to parents and educational authorities. Boys are leaving our secondary schools in finding it more and more difficult to obtain suitable openings in offices or works, and though a number enter banks or insurance offices, they represent only a tithe of those competing for a place. On the other hand, the overseas Dominions possess vast resources awaiting a population to develop them. They need workers for the land, and offer ample opportunities to boys of spirit and enterprise. In spite of tempting offers by the overseas Governments in the form of free land and loans, few boys from our public schools, or from other large secondary schools, are found to be taking to colonial life. Various reasons may be advanced to account for this reluctance, or absence of desire on the part of English boys to go overseas, but whatever they are the effect is the same, a distinct loss to the Empire generally and a source of weakness to the home country particularly.

Chemistry and the State.

That the whole existence of the State might depend on the maintenance of a flourishing and efficient chemical industry was the state of mind of Sir Robert Robertson in his Presidential Address to the Chemistry Section of the British Association.

Sir Robert, who is Chemist to His Majesty's Government and an eminent authority on the chemistry of explosives described the more or less direct assistance given by chemistry to the various governmental departments in Great Britain in recent years; he said, "and as a result of the war, has there been a direct recognition of a corresponding obligation on the part of the State to assist Chemistry."

It is to the Universities and to private workers that the great advances due to Government departments have reaped the important contributions to chemical knowledge have also emanated from the departments themselves.

Rainmaking a Fake.

Rainmaking on a commercial scale is an unadorned fake. This is the opinion of W. J. Humphreys, Professor of Meteorology, Physics at the United States weather bureau. Dr. Humphreys, who reported his researches to physicists at the British Association here, has investigated the more persistently urged schemes for producing rain from the point of view of the underlying scientific principles they involve, and they have also been subjected to quantitative experiments in order to try them out practically. The outcome of the study is the conclusion that artificial rain is a magazine cover myth.

Says Trial is Result of Plot By Hearst

(Canadian Press.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.-William J. Fallon on trial before Federal Judge McHugh testified that his trial was the outgrowth of a plot by William Randolph Hearst, and Victor Watson, assistant publisher of the New York American, a Hearst paper to ruin him. The indicted attorney quoting an alleged confession of Ernest Eidlitz a former employee, told the jury his destruction had been planned because Eidlitz had revealed to Watson, Fallon's possession of birth certificates of the children of a certain motion picture actress.

U. S. Relations

All the most important links of the chain would be complete with recognition by Japan of Soviet Russia. This argument continues, as relations already have been re-established between Russia and China, and in a manner alarmingly friendly to some of the Powers refusing still to deal with Moscow. Russia now has an Ambassador in Peking, who thus automatically becomes dean of the foreign diplomatic corps there, since the corps otherwise is composed of ministers. Despite the fact that as a result of the policy of the United States in championing the interests of China in the Far East, China always has been very close to America, the celestial nation may not resist in order to remain a sort of ward of this country some here believe.

Blunt Note

Following the consummation of the recognition agreement recently between China and Russia, China dispatched to Washington a rather blunt note replying to a communication from this Government to the effect that China was held responsible for the interests of the Powers in the Chinese Eastern Railway, which declared that questions concerning this railway were matters to be disposed of entirely by Russia and China. The hand of Soviet Russia was seen behind this move.

The possibility of the future moving along the lines indicated in this article would give at least as much concern to the United States as any other nation in the world, it is believed. For long the American Government has interested itself closely in the affairs of the Far East, largely in the interest of China. The United States has expounded many important policies dealing with the Far East, and short of taking up arms the one way of accomplishing these policies has been through the co-operation of the nations of the east, principally of course, Japan. But the mood of the island empire in the future will be more and more inclined to checkmate American policies in the East, as the result of the immigration law here barring her subjects, many students of the situation hold.

The years to come will surely bring a severe test to the Four Pacific Treaty and the other agreements worked out at the Washington Conference to keep the peace of the Pacific.

Parliamentary Body Will Hold Sessions At Berne And Geneva

(United Press)

GENEVA, Aug. 7.-A strong American group is expected to attend the twenty-second annual conference of the Inter-Parliamentary Union which will be held this year at Berne and Geneva, beginning August 22. As many European members of parliaments call the union "The popular chamber of the League of Nations" the meeting this summer is viewed with special interest because the final sessions will be held at Geneva just before the opening of the September assembly of the League. It is thought that many parliamentarians will stay on to follow the deliberations of the assembly, especially in view of the expected presence of Premiers MacDonald, Herriot and Mussolini.
