Insistant Demands For Immigration

OTTAWA, Jan. 13—(CP)—Pressure on the Government to open the doors for immigrants grows daily. It is learned. Argument is being advanced sufficient prosperity has returned to warrant allowing more settlers to enter the Dominion.

Before the war Canada was most aggressive country in endeavoring to settle its vacant lands with families from United States and Europe. In the top year, 1912-13, immigration tallied 382,840. The biggest year since the war was 1928-29 when 167,723 migrants came in. This flow has been reduced to a trickle. Last year it was 11,103. Recently influential newspapers have called upon the Liberal Ministry to consider a change in policy. In his New Year message Sir Edward, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway said "the time has come when renewed attention should be given to the all-important matter of immigration."

In a speech broadcast from London to the Empire last week Conservative Leader Bennett suggested moving people from the congested British Isles to sparsely settled Dominions. The coming session of parliament likely will provide an opportunity for a full debate of the question.

Recalls Youth Of New Quee.

TORONTO, Jan. 13—(CP)—In her store of vivid recollection of life in England, Mrs. John Gamble Boyd of Toronto, possibly treasures most highly those of the present Queen's grandmother and aunt, says Saturday Night.

Mrs. Boyd and her children lived beside the Thames at Teddington, Surrey, with her brother, Rev. F. L. Boyd. There, in memory of a family of quiet dignity and pleasant simplicity that little knew one of its daughters, then unborn, was destined to become one of England's Queens.

The Queen's grandmother had a lovely summer home, Forbes House, Ham, Surrey, near Teddington, where she and her twin daughters, Violet and Hyacinth Cavendish-Bentink used to come after the fatigue of the 'season' in London before going to their winter home in Italy. There was an organ in the large hall of Forbes House, and one of the daughters played it, and seated there she reminded me of the picture of St. Cecilia—she had such a lovely face, large dark eyes and hair," she said. "The other sister had a hospital for children with hip disease—not in Ham, which they maintained themselves. "A third daughter had married Lord Glamis (afterward he became the present Earl Strathmore). Lady Glamis and her children often came to visit her mother and sister at Forbes House. Soon after their arrival a note would come to me from Violet Cavendish-Bentink, saying, "My sister is here with the children. Do come over and bring your children and we will have great fun." The house being old, with three steps up to some rooms and two down to others and they give carte blanche to tear about the house as well as the lovely grounds, you can imagine "the fun."

On coming to live in Canada, Mr. Boyd kept up a correspondence with Miss Violet Cavendish-Bentink until the latter's death in 1928 and, in a letter received by Mrs. Boyd at the time of the announcement of the engagement of the then Duke of York and Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, she says: "Elizabeth came long after the others. She has been pure sunshine to us all. The gentlest, most loving and unselfish child... and so lovely to look at. She is very happy and content, and the more the family see of him the more they love him—both he and his eldest brother are so honest, so good."

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

GIVE YOURSELF A CHANCE

Digestive disturbances, the so-called attacks of indigestion, upset stomach or biliousness, come second in the list of causes of sickness. They can, to a very large extent, be prevented, and they would not occur as frequently if more attention were given to the proper use of food.

Meals should be regular, but not with a regularity that makes for monotony. The changed dinner hour on Sunday or on a holiday often gives extra zest to the meal. Generally speaking, meals should be taken at regular hours.

Any meal taken with one eye dressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.
