Unprecedented Advance Noted In Surgery

(By Howard W. Blakeslee, Associated Press Science Editor) (A. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3.—Advance in a new type of surgery which he said "probably will be as startling as those that have already been made" was forecast tonight in the annual address of the incoming president of the American College of Surgeons, Donald Balfour, M.D., of the Mayo Clinic. "This surgery alters the control centres in the body, particularly nerves and ductless glands, which regulate many health functions. Faulty nerve supplies are severed and glands are altered in size or in rate of output," he said. Dr. Balfour said that surgery in general would probably not ever again make the unprecedented advance it has in the last 50 years. But specific future achievements were to be expected.

"The surgery of the sympathetic nervous system," he said, "is an entirely new approach to the treatment of those diseases which are characterized chiefly by vasomotor spasm, and the future development in this field of surgery probably will be as startling as those that have already been made." The vasomotor system is the automatic nerve control of the muscles in the walls of all blood vessels. Its "spasm" is rigidity of the muscles. Sympathetic nerves control these muscles and cutting the nerves may permanently free the muscles. High blood pressure is the worst of present known "vasomotor spasm" diseases. Two other common ones are Renault's disease in which the skin turns white and there is pain in the extremities, and Buerger's disease. The latter

Make Platform Of Labor Party

(By The Canadian Press) LONDON, Nov. 3.—The Labor party hopes for victory in the general election Nov. 14 and promises Britain, if it wins, a sweeping new deal that will put the plans of the present government and the proposals of David Lloyd George in the shade, a party spokesman said. He added that party leaders feel that Labor's stock has been booming and that of the government declining. "Things are too uncertain to chance a guess, he pointed out. He said the Italo-Abyssinian situation and Lloyd George's re-entry into active politics were two factors which might help to swing the tide toward Labor in a far more pronounced fashion than could have been expected a few months ago. Labor regards itself as the original new deal party of Britain, claiming it began proposing modern methods of attacking economic ills immediately after the War and that the government, Lloyd George and others are more "copyists."

The Laborites, however, the spokesman asserted, had no intention of doing anything unconstitutional. Labor's plans would involve great state employment schemes, including public works, housing and industrial expansion and socialization of the state's services. "What Labor wants to give the country, party spokesmen say, is a thorough socialistic regime within existing constitutional limits and traditions. They say state control of the Bank of England falls in that category. Although the party, as an organization, voted to support League of Nations sanctions against Italy, it is attacking the government's record on foreign and defence policies. George Lansbury, veteran party leader in the House of Commons, resigned that post rather than give his personal commendation to "sanctions and Major Clement Attlee was elected to succeed him. But Lansbury's orthodox Laborite disarmament and peace ideas still prevail as a general party doctrine.

Adult Education Is Imperative

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) MONCTON, Nov. 3.—The great object of life is the realization of human possibilities, and the great problem before us is motivation—but can we fit the Canadian people into high gear," declared Dr. M. M. Coady, Director of the extension Department of St. Francis Xavier, in a stirring address here which featured the closing session of the United Teachers' Institute of Westmorland, Kent and Albert counties. "We believe," continued Dr. Coady, "that the British way is the best way—that the best results will be obtained by individual liberty and education. That philosophy of life is on trial as it never was before." We have come to the place in history where adult education must be carried on and nothing else will solve the problem of democracy.

"Adult education stands squarely on its own feet. As the new movement of our age without which democracy cannot survive. We are living in dangerous times," he continued and predicted the day when wars, fascism, as we know them today, will be only "small stuff." The real crisis of the world will come when communism will be able to put the people on a higher plane than the people in the western world," the speaker declared, and even though communism will be able to do that he asked his audience, if they as Britishers would be willing to accept it. He believed they would not. To combat the threat of communism Dr. Coady advocated the extension of adult education and group action, and in this connection explained what had been accomplished in Nova Scotia in the formation of study clubs, credit unions, marketing boards and the resultant lifting of the peoples' moral and their cultural improvement. As an indication of what can be accomplished by group action Dr. Coady referred to Sweden, England,

Denmark, and parts of the United States. Sweden has arrived, he declared, and added that "there will never be communism in Sweden because there is no one to kick out." The people own the country, he said.

Year Old Child Succumbs To Scalding

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) MONCTON, Nov. 3.—Badly scalded about the head and right side of her body, Marie McWilliams, one-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rankine McWilliams, passed away in the City Hospital last evening seven hours after she received the scalding when another child of the family upset a pot of boiling water on her. She was playing on the floor in the kitchen of her home when the boiling water was accidentally upset from the stove. The little child received the full contents of the kettle and was scalded about the head, face, neck, chest and right side of her body. She was rushed to the hospital but there was little hope for her recovery.

Dies From Injuries In Car-Train Crash

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) HALIFAX, Nov. 3.—William Oile of Spryfield, N. S., died in hospital here today from injuries suffered Saturday when the automobile in which he was a passenger crashed head-on into a street car. Flung 20 feet through the air by the terrific impact which derailed the tram and tore part of its steel body from the frame, he struck a curb stone head first. A native of the Netherlands, Oile was 65 years of age. Peter Decker, also of Spryfield and driver of the car, had to be pried from the tangled mass of wreckage that was once his car. He was bent over the back of the front seat so that his head almost touched the floor in the rear. Although severely injured, he was expected to recover.

Final Phase Of Political Fight In Britain

(C. P. Cable by Guardian's Special Wire) LIVERPOOL, England, Nov. 3.—The issues in the general election narrow down. The leaders have spoken. The manifestoes have been issued. Glorious posters plaster hoardings. Millions of leaflets bewilder the electors. Tomorrow candidates will be nominated for the next House of Commons. And at Liverpool tomorrow Prime Minister Baldwin sounds the government call to the final phase of the battle. The government appeals both on its record and its program. It claims it restored Britain from the brink of disaster to prosperity. It points to 1,000,000 more employed, to 1,000,000 more houses built.

Some time ago a young Irish farmer in the County Kilkenny was very much in love. He wanted to marry the girl, but being a shy lad he couldn't for the life of him ask her outright to marry him. He felt he would choke if he tried to mention the words marry or marriage to her. So, after taking much earnest, shrewd thought on the problem he asked her in a whisper one evening: "Julia, how would you like to be buried with my people?"

Braved Lock-Up To Rejoin Army

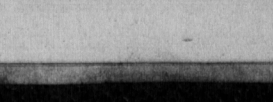

(By The Canadian Press) FOLKESTONE, England, Nov. 3.—Kipling's "Back to the Army Again" is recalled by the story here of a man who liked army service so much that after being repeatedly discharged on health grounds, he tried to rejoin by taking the place of a deserter. David Kelly, aged 27, a Londoner, presented himself at the barracks at Kingston-on-Thames and said he was Private Brown, who had deserted from the regiment. He was not the man. Kelly, when charged with false representation told the magistrates he had been in and out of the army five times since 1927, and had been discharged each time through being unfit. He was unemployed and he liked the army, he said. The court bound him over for 12 months and told him not to do that sort of thing again.

There is a delightful excuse for these sweetmeats, in their undeniable wholesomeness — quite as attractive a feature as the case with which we make them. Put equal measures of dates, nut-meats and shredded coconut through food chopp. Moisten with orange or lemon juice, to molding consistency and add a bit of encephalated candied orange peel. Knead the fruit paste until well mixed and shape into little balls. May be rolled in toasted coconut or cinnamon and icing sugar.
