came to this country he was heralded as a man of international fame as a railway manager, and we were told that our railway problems would be solved in three years. We know now how badly he and his high-priced staff have fallen down on the job, because our railway problems are far from being solved. But worse than that, Sir Henry and the officials by whom he is surrounded are unable to prepare proper estimates of their requirements, a few months in advance of the most elementary thing in railway work. When the estimates prepared by the officials were submitted to Mr. McKinnon during the last session of Parliament, he saw at a glance how crudely and imperfectly the work had been done. Mr. McKinnon whipped these estimates into shape and slashed some ten million dollars from them. We know this statement is correct because Mr. McKinnon told us so himself through the columns of the Patriot, and he is not a man to boast of what he knows or does. The preparation of the freight rate case for the Maritime Provinces is no small job, and if an inexperienced man is appointed, he will be almost sure to botch the work. Mr. McKinnon has the experience and the ability and, surely, he will not be passed over. Why do not the Patriot and the Guardian boost Mr. McKinnon for this position? And where is Dr. Leo Frank at this critical and important time? Is he asleep at his switch? And does he know that he is missing the chance of his life to do something real, worth while for the Dominion and gain notoriety for himself? The preparation of the railway freight rates case, which is a big thing in itself, would be a small matter in Mr. McKinnon's hands. What should be done is this:—When Sir Henry Thornton's time is up in October next, he should be allowed to retire and Mr. McKinnon should be given the position Thornton now holds. Mr. McKinnon has to do Thornton's work anyhow, and what sense is there in keeping Thornton at a high salary when he is only a figure-head. If Mr. McKinnon were made President of the C.N.R., I feel sure he would cut down the salaries of his staff by 20 to 30 percent, and in three years would have the National Railway on a paying basis. I hope the people will get behind the movement and press it upon the Government. We have reached a crisis in the railway affairs of the Country and the best men in the Dominion should be asked to take hold of these big undertakings. No false modesty should deter P. E. Islanders from boosting one of their own men when he is the right man for the job. I am, Sir, etc., An Anxious Citizen.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Maritime Provinces convenes in Malpeque, about the twentieth of Sept. It is one hundred years since the first society was organized in Princeport and the meeting is looked forward to as one of great historic interest and also one that will lead to increase wide spread interest in our great missionary activities. It is the first undertaking of this kind ever held in a country church and calls for special effort on the part of all who are interested in the greatest of all religious movements—Missionary work.

Haymaking is about completed and notwithstanding frequent interruptions caused by heavy rains the crop has been harvested in good condition and is reported as a good average one. Farm life is a continuous round of duties from sunrise to sunset and the monotony of it is unmistakable. The preparation of the soil, the planting of the different crops, the caring for them in their different stages of growth and the reaping and in gathering of all calls for much thought and care and the outlay required for machinery, and the maintenance of the whole leaves small reward for labor and toil expended. Everything must be done in order and the carrying of it all to a successful issue means sacrifice on the part of the farmer and leaves but little time for recreation. Notwithstanding these difficulties the tillers of the soil are regarded among the happiest class of people in the world. They are recognized, too as the backbone of our Province and our well kept farms add very materially to the beauty of our Island home and call forth the admiration of all who view them. It is surely well merited praise and the time will doubtless come when real appreciation of their efforts will be more in evidence.

Funeral of Late Myles McDonald

It was under the direction of Mr. D. M. MacLeod, and the burial service which was held at his late home was conducted by Rev. R. H. Staver and Rev. C. W. McKeever. Interment was in Brookfield cemetery. The pall bearers were Messrs Gordon MacLeod, John A. MacLeod, Dan Arch. McLean, George McKinnon, Joseph McPherson and Louis McPherson.

Woman's Greatest Asset

Health is woman's greatest asset. Upon it depends charm, beauty, power to attract others, happiness and success, and it is what really makes life worth living. Thousands of women suffer from headaches, backaches, nervousness, mental depression and mysterious pains, who could find immediate relief by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which is made from roots and herbs. For nearly half a century this medicine has been recognized as the standard remedy for woman's ills.
