Ellen's Diary

By An Island Farmer's Wife

But like so many things that do not work out according to our plans or wishes, this did not prove to be a very busy day, at least not in the way I had hoped.

This morning when James mapped out the work ahead, he decided that I had better remain indoors to cook for "the crowd." He is really the best one for putting each one in the place where he can get the greatest amount of work from our combined efforts. I may say I'm never very choosy about my particular niche in his plan so long as it furthers the work at hand. But James has the vaguest idea of the "great gulf fixed" between "in" and "out" and is apt to confuse the two, where women-helpers are concerned.

I was cook, Carolyn and Jennie were posted at the barn or in the field, while Jamie was my care-taker and the cooking. He was really no trouble for he keeps himself amused. Today on the back porch he busied himself hosing a butchered-pig toward the roof. The pig was a stick of firewood in a basket, hoisted by means of a long rope through a convenient ring in the porch-roof. I have no idea where he gets this curious, cruel habit. I think he's only showing a bent for farming. For his part, he embraces many callings. Looking at this art, how would there be the dinner credit well under way. When James came to the door to get a drink of water and ask me if I could "reach" and the back's for just one load. Jamie left his play to come with me to the kitchen. I think now perhaps it would have been better if I had "reached" indoors. The load was almost threshed when the engine (Continued on page 3)

MARITAL JEALOUSY AT PEAK

Wives See Potential Husband-Stealers In Girls Working With Men At Factories

Just now, when so many married men are working for the first time side by side with women, wifely jealousy is at its all time high. Green eyes are practically epidemic, and thousands of wives are more afraid of their Joe's being captured by their cute little helpers than they are of them being nabbed by the Japs and the Nazis. Formerly the common, or garden, variety of wife, whose husband was not exposed to danger from glamor girls, felt that her wedding ring was reasonably safe, but the war has changed all that. Friend Husband doesn't work now in the safe company of men only. He is surrounded by platoons and battalions of women of every known variety of the species, and the Little Woman sees in every one of them a potential enemy who is about to snatch him from her. Undoubtedly there are many she-wolves on the prowl, seeking whom they may devour, and many love thieves and home-wreckers. Also, it is true that no other man is so vulnerable to women's wiles as the married man who has reached the age of in-discretion. He has settled down into being just Pop who pays the bills and practically any woman who will tell him how young and handsome and fascinating he is can have him for the taking (Continued on page 3)

THE LOVE SHE HAD at first has faded away now. Gradually her husband has become more and more distant. She doesn't dream that the reason is her own "one neglect"—carelessness about feminine hygiene. Today, so many modern wives use Lysol disinfectant. It cleanses quickly, thoroughly, and deodorizes, too. Yet it's so gentle for douching, doesn't harm sensitive tissues—just follow easy directions. Use economical Lysol. Write to Lysol & Pink (Canada) Ltd., Dept. N. H., 9 Davies Ave., Toronto 8, Ontario, for FREE Feminine Hygiene Booklet (in plain wrapper).

WITHIN THE GATE

Beauty is a clean carved pine, tapered to the sky. The dear bright face of friendship when grief's cup is high. Beauty is the poignant joy that everyone has known. When a trusting baby's hand was started against his own. Beauty is humility in a quiet old face. And dreams, entranced with ambers in the fireplace. Beauty is the common scene with in our swinging gate; Just the usual simple things we always understate. — Frances Flood.

They are a danger that they may be skipped now that garden-fresh fruits and vegetables are so tempting, say the nutrition experts. Make sure that the protein side of the daily diet is not neglected. IRONING WRINKLES

Ironing begins on the clothesline. Be sure you shake clothes thoroughly to remove creases and use coat hangers for dresses and blouses (two wooden ones, hooked together so they stay put on the line). Best, if not always practical, to iron dresses before they are quite dry. We're talking about clothes neatly in the end so fold articles neatly the minute you unpin them from the clothesline. A jumbled up clothes basket means more ironing time, and when you're springing don't overdo it, that means more ironing time too!
