MOTOR CARS ON THE FARM

Big Machines For Crop Work—Run abouts For Going To Market

G.L. MURPHY & Co. Ltd.
 SYDNEY N.S.
 General Commission Merchants and Produce handled on communication. Prompt returns made.

ST. LOUIS, MO., May 7.—The farmers' wives and daughters have learned to operate the automobile, and it is not unusual to see them peddling farm produce in many of the Western towns and cities. Some of them run in from ten to twenty miles and sell their produce before noon and get back in the early afternoon. By the aid of the automobile one farmer says that he realized three hundred dollars more in one season for his articles than if he had sold them in the old way, taking the market prices as they varied from day to day. Another farmer having a lot of fancy poultry made in one trip seventy-five dollars more than the regular profits through rushing a load to market during a day of high prices. The modern touring cars and runabouts sold to farmers are for utility first and pleasure afterward. The saving effected by the modern powerful gasoline engine on the farm is estimated to be from 25 to 50 per cent over horse, man or steam power. When not running the engine is not using fuel, and its keep through the winter when in storage is nothing. It does not head off and it takes very little storage space. Manufacturers have made special lines of farm engines in various sizes ranging from five to one hundred horse-power, both for stationary work and portable use. Upward of 50,000 such engines have been sold to American farmers in the last two years and the demand for the present year will exceed any past record. There is a gasoline farm engine adapted for drawing heavy gangs of ploughs across long fields, followed by harrows, cultivators, seeders and harvesters. In fact the land can be tilled, planted and the crops harvested with a machine of this sort without the aid of a single horse and with very little hired help. In the great Northwest the portable gasoline threshing outfits are conspicuous features at the harvest season. They are much lighter than the old steam threshing plants, are self-propelling and on rubber tires, so that they can be run easily and quickly from farm to farm. The farm help problem is thus being partly solved in the great Northwest. Even in the new Northwest of Canada scores of these machines have been put in operation in the last year. The great wheat crop could not be harvested and threshed without such appliances.

with the present conditions of intercollegiate sport in the university, was late to-day presented to the Harvard faculty of arts and sciences. The definite aim of the petition was to persuade the faculty to withdraw from the position it has taken in the matter of reducing intercollegiate contests in all sports to a minimum, which, in general, called for the abolishment of all intercollegiate contests between the close of the football season and the spring recess in April. This would have done away with hockey, and basketball practice. The faculty accepted the petition and referred it to the Harvard athletic committee.

Seven pictures to adorn your walls. Seven pictures will be awarded to seven people who enter the Limerick Competition which closes Saturday.
