More Than Manual Training

This, gentlemen, Mr. Mercer went on, is more than manual training, it is mental training and most training too. Here the boys will be taught to co-ordinate the eye, hand and mind into usefulness. This is the only class in school where the boys beg to stay after six p.m. Teachers no longer stop work at 3:30, at least Mr. Leuty doesn't. "We were fortunate in securing the services of a teacher trained in the United Kingdom for such work as this. I hope he can see his way clear to stay with us." On behalf of the Summerside Y's Men's Club, Mr. Ross MacKenzie officially donated the equipment by the club to the school. Mr. Donald Stewart, chairman of the school board, thanked all the various organizations for the many donations and pointed out that the department has been equipped with no cost to the taxpayers. He expressed the hope that if sufficient interest were made that later on it might be possible to obtain Federal aid for the project. His Worship Mayor Arnett extended heartiest congratulations to the members of the Y's Men's Club for the splendid work they had done in furnishing such equipment to the new department. He stated that education is going to cost more as time goes on, and that local taxpayers must be prepared to come along if such educational projects such as this are to be carried on. At the conclusion of the Mayor's remarks the visitors were conducted through the department and various activities fully explained.
