A party from Kensington charged with a violation of the excise act was fined 25 dollars and costs. S.

Leaders Unchanged On N. Y. Market

BY FREDERICK GARDNER
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 —(AP)— Stocks had considerable trouble with profit taking in today's market and, while selected issues managed to emerge with modest advances, many recent leaders were unchanged to a shade under water at the close.

Transfers totalled 1,715,370 against 1,616,190 the day before. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up .1 of a point at 52.6.

Canadian issues were fractionally irregular. Gainers included Distillers, Dominion Stores, International Nickel, McIntyre, Industrial Alcohol and Imperial Tobacco. Marconi, Walkers and Dome declined.

Aircrafts again were in demand on rearmament hopes. After the close, the recent prosperity of the airplane manufacturers was exemplified by Douglas Aircraft directors in voting a dividend of $3 a share on the capital stock, first payment since September 1935. The issue held a net advance of 5-8 of a point at 58 1-8. United and Sperry were a shade higher.

Demonstration Week Dates Announced

The Summerside Board of Trade, who last year so commendably organized the above educational movement, has this year appointed a new committee to take care of this year's arrangements. This committee consists of Messrs. W. J. Lidstone, chairman, J. S. Wright and T. D. Carruthers with Mr. G. R. MacQuarrie manager. The general Information Bureau is again at Mr. MacQuarrie's office.

The Educational Demonstration will take place in the Curling Rink and adjoining Labor Union Hall. A programme is being mapped out which will include a great many new features, and the new committee are working hard to make this year's activities during this week, of greatest benefit to the greatest number of people. The examination of foxes will be made by Mr. W. Fred Burke, fieldman for Provincial Department of Agriculture and Mr. George Mayers of Lampson Fraser and Huth Inc., New York. It is the aim of the Educational committee to have everyone who is engaged in the fox industry, share in the benefits this organization affords.

It is not without great effort that any industry is kept at its highest level and silver fox farming means so much to the people of this Province, it is inconcivable that any opportunities will go unheeded which would make for the improvement of the Fox Industry here. S.

croachment on Hankow. Chinese military capital some 500 miles to the north.

Foreign observers always have maintained that Japan must take both Canton and Hankow to achieve real victory.

Chinese Prepare New Route

The full import of the choking of this artery of supplies was not yet apparent, for against the possibility of losing Canton the Chinese several months ago started a highway from Burma to Yunnan in extreme southwestern China This highway must be nearly if not yet complete.

The Japanese found that high government officials had fled to Yungyun, 92 miles north of Canton, in the wake of nearly all the 1,000,000 civilian population.

Application of the "scorched earth and broken tile" policy ahead of the Japanese entrance gave Canton the aspect of a bombarded city last night although Canton proper had been spared in aerial warfare that engulfed many other parts of Kwangtung Province in the 10-day invasion.

Mines were exploded under the $8,000,000 Pearl River bridge as the first signal of the Japanese approach and heavy explosives turned utilities plants and factories into piles of smoking ruins.

The mechanized column which first entered Canton had driven 125 miles inland from Bias Bay, to the southeast, circling to assault the city from the north. So easy was the movement, officers said, that the column lost not more than 200 killed and wounded.

Plunges To Death From 16th Floor

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 —(AP)— Dorothy Hale, attractive actress and art dilettante, died early today in a 16-storey plunge from her hotel room. Clad in a black evening dress on which was pinned a corsage of roses, the actress' body was found on the sidewalk in front of the exclusive Hampshire House.

Detectives recorded the case as "fell or jumped—probably suicide."

Mrs. Hale, 33, was the widow of Gardner Hale, Chicago artist who was killed in 1931 when his automobile went over a 500-foot cliff in California. Previously she had been divorced from T. Gaillard Thomas, 2nd., millionaire clubman.

After her marriage to Thomas, she maintained homes in Paris and Southampton, Long Island, and later shared a studio with Estelle Manville, now Princess Bernadotte of Sweden, and dabbled in sculpture.

She was the daughter of James P. Donovan, Pittsburgh real estate operator. She left home at 16 to seek a theatrical career. Her first appearance was in the Police said the window from which Mrs. Hale plunged had a low sill and she may have fallen when she attempted to open it.

Continue Investigation

ALBANY, N. S., Oct. 21—(AP)— Investigation into the penitentiary escape of three convicted O'Connell kidnappers was continued after three upstate republican leaders appeared before a Grand Jury today for questioning regarding two mysterious letters.

They were Mayor Rolland B. Marvin of Syracuse, who also is chairman of the Onondaga County Republican committee; Clarence M. Chamberlain of Binghamton, Broome County chairman, and Charles C. Wing, who holds a similar position in Albany County. Lawrence Vieau, an attache of Mayor Marvin's office, also appeared.

The WEEK at S.D.U.

The first provincial intercollegiate football match was held last Saturday afternoon between Prince of Wales and the second Saints. The Blue and Red squad are to be congratulated on their victory, for they showed definite superiority in their play. A second match, however, is scheduled for the near future. With that in mind, the College Hill boys are drilling hard under the direction of their coach, Father McGuigan, and promise that a much improved team will take the field when next the two meet.

Considerable interest was aroused by the arrival of the exchange paper "Argosy", the Mount A. weekly. We scarcely feel that their account of the game played here recently was entirely unbiased, nor their strong condemnation of the referee well-founded. The primary purpose of intercollegiate athletics is to foster goodwill among the institutions concerned, and good sportsmanship in the players. But that a winning team should complain so strongly is inexplicable. The result of the Mount A.-S. D. U. game of the 22nd. will be interesting, for on it may depend the fate of the Maritime intercollegiate championship.

St. Thomas' Literary and Debating Society held its first meeting on Wednesday night. The subject under discussion was: "Resolved that the study of the sciences has contributed more to the world than has that of letters." The negative side composed of L. Landrigan, R. McNeill and L. Connolly, was successful in overcoming the combined arguments of F. Howatt, C. McQuaid and J. Maher, the affirmative supporters. W. Shea and J. Sullivan acted as critics. Rev. Dr. R. G. Ellsworth, the moderator, gave some words of advice at the conclusion of the debate, and brought up the subject of Mock Trials and Mock Parliaments. It is to be hoped that one of the latter will be carried out in the near future.

A debate was held also by St. Augustine's Society, on the subject: "Resolved that education should be compulsory to the age of seventeen." The negative leader E. McCarey and his supporters, J. O'Donnell and J. P. Beaupre, were awarded the judges' decision over L. Burke, H. McCallum and L. Beaupre, who constituted the affirmative. The critic of the evening was M. Kelly.

The student body extends its heartfelt sympathy to Father Cass and his sisters and brothers on the death of their mother which occurred this yeak.

The Saints leave on Saturday morning for the mainland, where they will play games in Sackville and Fredericton. Two victories will give them the N. B.-P. E. I. title and make them heavy favorites for the Maritime crown. Should they be fortunate enough to return from their trip undefeated a sudden-death game will probably be played at Truro against the winners of the Nova Scotia section, some time early in November.

The delayed Thanksgiving holidays will take place the coming week-end. The students will be permitted to leave on Saturday noon, and their recess will continue till Tuesday evening.

W. W. Rogers Named 'O. C.' Of New Unit

(St. John Telegraph Journal)

Announcement of the appointment of William Wendell Rogers, M. C., formerly captain of the Royal Flying Corps, as commander of No. 117 (Fighter) Squadron, Royal Canadian Air Force (Non-Permanent), is contained in this week's district military orders. He is given the rank of squadron leader, effective Oct. 1, according to the orders issued at headquarters of Military District No. 7.

Organization particulars will be made available before long, Squadron Leader Rogers told The Telegraph Journal last night. He said there had been numerous applications already to join the new non-permanent R. C. A. F. unit to be established in Saint John.

Since official word was received earlier this year of intention to organize one of the new squadrons here, there has been increased interest in the plan. Many former officers who served in the R. F. C. during the Great War as well as younger flyers who have participated in aviation activities in the post-war years have been eagerly awaiting further details of the scheme. Already similar units are now in operation across Canada and it is expected the organization effected at those stations will be put in force by No. 117 at Saint John.

Military records show Squadron Leader Rogers won the Military Cross as a reward for being the first British pilot to shoot down a German Gotha bomber. The day this happened he led two other machines from his flight in a daring attack on 17 of the big Gothas, planes with a wingspread of nearly 80 feet and 40 feet long. Two days earlier Captain Rogers had outlined a theory he believed would enable the faster fighting ships of the allied forces to locate the vulnerable "blind spot" of the formidable larger opponents. He put this to the test that day and how well he succeeded is written in military history.

Finds "Blind Spot"

Thirty-four machine guns poured lead at the three tiny Nieuports as they met the Germans 10,000 feet above Messines Ridge but Rogers pulled his companions away in a steep climb, got the altitude on which he based his plan and dived towards the rear of the German formation. Despite the heavy bursts of the enemy guns his dive carried him safely behind the tail of the rear Gotha until below the line of German flight. Then he zoomed, to level off right behind the isolated bomber and blaze away with his Lewis gun.

Frenzied efforts to blast him out of the sky failed the Germans and the big machine, three times the size of Rogers' plane, veered sharply to the left and fell in flames into "No Man's Land". The other Gothas fled, pursued by the three British ships, but escaped further mishap.

with the Balkan States have flourished, he said, because producers of Balkan raw materials have obtained a fixed and practically unvarying price year after year from Germany.

This has been possible, he explained, because Germany's exchange has not been affected by world currency fluctuations for the reason that its currency was not dependent on gold but had labor power behind it.

CANADIAN EXPERTS DOUBTFUL

OTTAWA, Oct. 21—Trade experts here were doubtful tonight whether the Canada-Germany trade agreement or the proposed Cana-United States treaty would be affected if Germany became a third partner in the British-U. S. treaty now being negotiated in Washington.

In Berlin, German economists indicated that Germany would favor such a trade alliance with Britain and the U. S.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King has always welcomed any effort for freer trade but before government officials make any definite comment, details of any German trade proposal will have to be known.

The trade agreement and payments agreement between Canada and Germany was negotiated by Trade Minister Euler and signed Oct. 22, 1936. The agreement was to remain in force until Nov. 14, 1937, or "thereafter until either of the two governments shall have given two months' notice of termination." No notice of termination has been given and the treaty is still in force.

When it was signed, German authorities indicated it was considered a model trade treaty which the Reich would like to conclude with U. S., also.

The agreement provides for mutual most-favored nation treatment and also for bi-lateral exchange of goods in equal amounts, which has been the basis of Germany's foreign trade policy.

CANADIAN MARKET DATA IN BOOK FORM

A year ago the research department of the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association published a volume of statistics under the title of "The Canadian Market," in which the treatment of fundamentals was so simplified and symbolized by graph and "pictograph" that the book was acclaimed as one of unusual interest and distinction. It went all over the world to our own Canadian trade commissioners, to the libraries of Congress, of the House of Commons and of the House of Lords in London, and to advertisers and trade corporations on several continents. The "top line" financial houses found it exceptionally adapted for conveying to United States and foreign investors the potentialities of Candaa in the world of money.

This research work has been continued for twelve months and the first—the 1938—supplement is now off the press and selling so rapidly in advance that its complete absorption is assured.

Those who own the parent work will require no recommendation for its first child. The supplement for 1938 carries on the original story with necessary additions and projections into the future. Its specialty is graph summaries of retail sales by provinces in the major groups of business: Foods, general merchandise, automotive, clothing, building material, furniture, etc. The charts should enable any merchant to apply practicaly a slide rule to his affairs and allow him to check his progress against that of his industry, as well as to plan his future campaign against definite potential goals.

Advance sales of the supplement have been heavy and the limited edition will probably be exhausted soon after it appears. It is being distributed at a price of one dollar postpaid by the central office of the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association, 903 Excelsior Life Building, Toronto.

Any financial house which does not have the original volume in its library may obtain it from the same source at the original price of three dollars postpaid. The pace of recovery is accelerating and the text of these books outlines how every phase in the national economy has contributed and will continue to be a factor in the forward movement.

GUN CONTRACT IS DEFENDED AT PROBE

Ownership Of Armament Factories Desirable But Not Financially Possible Says Defence Minister Mackenzie.

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire)

OTTAWA, Oct. 21—Complete Government ownership of armament factories is the ideal system but is not financially possible in Canada at present, Defence Minister Mackenzie said today at the Royal Commission inquiry into the Bren gun contract.

He had the utmost faith that the contract under investigation, by which the John Inglis Company of Toronto is to supply the defence department with 7,000 light machine guns, was for the good of the people of Canada. His confidence was based on the judgment of the British War Office which awarded a complementary contract for 5,000 guns to the same company and the integrity of his own officers in the department.

The minister was on the stand all day and was examined in chief by Hon. J. L. Ralston, Government counsel and a former defence minister, and cross-examined by I. F. Hellmuth of Toronto, counsel for the Maclean Publishing Company which printed a critical article by Lieut.-Col George Drew of Toronto in Maclean's Magazine and thereby prompted the inquiry.

"Government manufacture of armaments as a policy has never been abandoned, just postponed," said the minister. "There has never been any change in policy. There was a temporary policy (for private manufacture) because of financial stringency."

At the end of his evidence-in-chief the minister obtained permission to refer to statements he made in the House of Commons regarding the contract, some of which had been questioned. He asserted they were correct in every particular and could be examined by the Privileges Committee of the House.

He had been asked by J. S. Woodsworth, C. C. F. leader, whether Major James E. Hahn, president of the John Inglis Company, had gone to England in 1937 and 1938 as the representative of the Canadian Government and had answered no. Highest authorities had advised him this answer was proper as according to the rules questions must be answered as they are asked.

(Earlier evidence was to the effect the war office in London in November, 1936, had been asked to treat Hahn as the representative of the Canadian Government in relation to information on the Bren gun.)

Mr. Mackenzie said the question referred only to 1937 and 1938. Competitive tenders were not possible on the Bren gun contract because special information was required to enable an industrialist to tender and because a complementary British order was essential to permit of production in Canada on an economic basis. Had the department been in control of the Bren gun manufacturing processes and been dealing with the matter independently of a British order it would have invited tenders from a selected list of firms.

On the last day of the parliamentary session, also, Mr. Mackenzie said, he had stated Major Hahn had been given access to secret specifications for the Bren gun which, perhaps, would not be available to a competitor and which were not within the control of the Canadian Government.

"That statement," he declared, "is absolutely and definitely correct."

His reasons for acquiescing in the selection of Major Hahn as the man to deal with on the Bren gun matters were Hahn's military record and the fact that departmental officers considered Hahn very capable.

On the strength of these considerations and at the request of a member of Parliament (Hugh Plaxton) he had given Hahn a letter of introduction to Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner in London.

Later he had approved of a cable authorizing the war office to treat Hahn as the representative of the Canadian Government. That was in November and December, 1936. When Hahn made his report in December, he ceased to be a representatives of the Government and became a potential contractor.

Advisable Not To Allow Quintuplets Play With Pups

SUDBURY, Ont. Oct. 21 —(CP)— Dr. T. C. Young, Sudbury veterinary, announced today he was preparing a letter to Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, physician to the Dionne Quintuplets, advising against alowing the quints to play with five Cocker Spaniel puppies, recent gift of Jean Hersholt, motion picture star.

Dr. Young said distemper in the north country is more prevalent at present than it has been for a number of years. "About 99 per cent of the distemper in the district is among dogs brought from the southern part of the province," he said. "Dogs born and raised here are not susceptible to the colds which lead to distemper."

ect L, driven by O'Brien, came in the winner but Sheldon gave it to Crescent Singal. The crowd of 2,000 people made a tremendous demonstration, hense the action of the Commissioner in calling off bets on the pari-mutuals. Sheldon got another razzing when he awarded the third race to Peter's Ideal over Rosindale, which the crowd thought the winner.

Dusty Hanover 2.03, that twice lowered the track record for the 84 year old Topsham, Maine, fair grounds, is by Peter and Brewer 2.02 1-2, sire of Calumet Budlong 2.02 3-4, owned by Frank McKay. At Topsham Harry Clukey drove Renown, a pacer by Protector 1.59 1-4, to a new record of 2.05 3-4. $20,508 was taken in on the mutuals in three days racing at Topsham.

A program of seven events compiled and run by Dr. F. W. Christopher and George MacDonald at the Metropolitan Driving Club, Boston, Mass., a week ago last Monday drew an attendance of over 7,000 people. The racing was bangup in every one of the Matinee classes. The fastest mile was 2.10 by Glecarron, a bay trotter owned by the speedway king, W. J. MacDonald of Boston. Fred Bellows, tailor to horsemen, won the Class A with Rowdy Boy in 2.10 1-2, which was the fastest mile paced during the afternoon.

Danbury Fair, Connecticut, always the last of the New England fairs and one of the best, was a great success this year. There were plenty of horses or high calibre to take part in the fifteen events on the program for five days racing. One of the bright particular stars was the four-year-old trotting mare Molly Burke, that won her event and took a record of 2.07 3-4 in the third heat. She is the first 2.10 trotter for her sire, Calumet Budlong 2.02 3-4, owned by Frank McKay. East Royalty. Incidentally her mile in 2.07 3-4 was the fastest mile trotted during the meeting and equalled the fastest pacing mile made by Royal Napoleon 2.02 3-4 in winning the third heat of the 2.07 pace. Predictions are made that Molly Burke will be a stake trotter of class for 1939.

At Fryburg, Maine, October 4th, Direct L. owned by Well McNeill and driven by Joey O'Brien, won the classified race, purse $300. Losing the first heat to Killarney he won the next two in 2.13 and 2.15. The next afternoon Walter Brown 2.05 1-4, winner of the 2.14 pace at the Provincial Exhibition, Charlottetown, won the classified pace in striaght heats, best time 2.07 1-4. The fastest mile of the meeting was paced by Dusty Hanover 2.03, driven by Harry Clukey —2.06 1-4. On the last day one of the winners was Killarney, who beat a large field. Killarney was unplaced at the Provincial Exhibition Charlottetown.

William P. Engleman, for quarter of a century a leading figure in harness horse circle in the United States, died recently at Kalamazoo, Michigan, aged eighty two. Engleman made Kalamazoo—named the "Furniture City" — famous among the race tracks of America by organizing large stakes for pacers and trotters. One of his associates was Frank H. Millham who was connected with the largest paper mills in Michigan. The first $10,000 stake for trotters at Kalamazoo was made possible by Mr. Millham's contribution and was known as the Paper Mills Stakes.

As Kalamazoo came more and more into the limelight and attracted increasing numbers of fast trotters and pacers, Engleman kept raising the stakes and finally in 1924 featured the $25,000 Kalamazoo pacing derby. It was contested on July 24th of that year and had fourteen starters and was won on points by Margaret Spangler 2.02 1-4, driven by Fred Hyde. Miss Belwin 2.03 1-4 won the first heat in 2.02 1-4, Margaret Spangler the second in 2.02 1-4 and Baron Worthy, the favorite, the third heat in the same time. Margaret Spangler winner of the first derby is now famous as the dam of Chief Counsel (3) 1.57 3-4, holder of the world's record for three-year-old pacers, made at Lexington a few weeks ago, and the two-year-old pacer Blackstone (2) 2.03 3-4, winner of almost all his engagements this season.

The final Grand Circuit meet at Kalamazoo was held in 1931. Ill health, business conditions and his advanced age prevented Mr. Engleman from continuing the meetings. As a promoter of races he had few superiors. He solicited entries by personal contact, wrote letters to horsemen in all part of Canada and the United States and let no obstacle interfere with the success of the Kalamazoo meetings.

The combination of Kelly, bay gelding by Peter Mac, and Pat O'Connell his driver, a gentleman with long doormat whiskers, has proved irrestible at every race meeting as well as Grand Circuit events. In almost every race Kelly started in he was a winner —In fact the writer has not located any events in which he has not been a winner. He finally wound up the season at Coshocton Ohio. October 7th where he won the Free for All from a high-class field in straight heats, tramping the first and third heats in 2.06.

A letter received from Oren Jardine, Chatham, N. B., states that the Chatham race track has been practically made over this fall and next spring work will be finished that will put it back in its former splendid racing shape. A new fence 50 race horse stalls and a grandstand will be built so that Chathan can once more take its place on the racing map where it figured so prominently for over fifty years At one time both the Canadian trotting and pacing records were held by Chatham track which was regarded as one of the safest and fastest in the Dominion. Mr. Jardine has a speed prospect, Lily Direct, by Minor Heir Boy out of a mare by Empire Direct that is showing a lot of speed, and will be pointed for the slow classes next season.

Princ Edward Island will be well represented by horses in the showring at the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto, this November. Frank McKay's stallion, Abbe Worthy 2.05, is being fitted for the championship standard bred stallion class and will be worthy opposition to the best Ontario will show.

The greatest preparations of course are going on at Swissvale Farm, Raoul Reymond's splendid property at Southport, where eleven entries are being groomed for the Royal by James Llewellyn who has been with Mr. Reymond since 1930, and has not only been in charge of his magnificent stallion St. Sylvestre and the other horses and foals but has also been showing very successfully at Charlottetown, Halifax, Maritime and Royal Winter Fairs. Mr. Llewellyn and another man will go up with the horses and Mr. Llewellyn will do the showing and needless to say they will be in the hands of an expert, as the test of success is winning and that has been the habit of Reymond entries the past several seasons.

The first two minute pacer ever t find a home in the Maritimes will arrive here tonight or at latest Monday evening. It is Jane Azoff 1.59 3-4 probably the fastest pacing mare in the world over mile or half mile tracks. She was right to her record three weeks ago in Lexington, Ky., where she was shipped from ten days ago. Jane Azoff was formerly owned by Hedley Fulton, Upper Stewiac, N. S., and is now the property of C. H. Horton, Murray Harbor, but will be wintered by Willard Kelly Southport.

Newsy Notes

ors of the Hudson's Bay Company, finally achieving the goal of all apprentices and becoming the manager of their warehouse and auction sales in London, England.

In 1926 in company with W. Chester S. McLure the writer had the privilege of interesting Mr. Forbes and the Company in ranch bred silver fox and seeing their sales grow through the judicious handling of Mr. Forbes, until pelts were counted by the thousands. Believing that a greater opportunity existed in the establishment of a new organization Mr. Forbes founded the London Fur Sales Limited, a company which enjoyed a splendid reputation with shippers for several years. Last spring it was taken over by Eastwood and Holt of London, and Mr. Forbes as a free agent was available, and it is great credit to discerning minds here and in Ottawa that he was at once employed as Canadian representative. For years the Norwegians have put it over the Canadians by having an expert on the spot, but that will not be so now with Mr. Forbes to look after our interests.

The first silver fox exhibition of the season will be held at Sussex, N. B., on Tuesday and Wednesday. Over 100 foxes are entered, and George A. Calbeck of Summerside will judge them. Seven trophies will be competed for and a banquet will be held on Wednesday evening at which exhibitors, officials and others will be present and the trophies presented to the winners.

A letter received by Dr. Leo Frank last evening states that Frank G. Ashbrook in charge of Fur Resources for the United States government will arrive in Charlottetown for the Provincial Fox Show Oct. 31st to Nov. 4th. He will have with him Charles E. Kellogg of the Bureau of Biological Survey, Dr. John I. Hardy of the Bureau of Animal Industry and Dr. Walter Wisnicky of the University of Wisconsin. The above gentlemen are the leading authorities on fox farming problems in the United States.

H. J. Kennedy, Southport, representative for Purina Feeds, has a very fine line of fox pups this fall. They are the product of prize winning strains purchased the past few years. Exper's who have seen them give great credit to Mr. Kennedy for his breeding selections and to his son, Leigh, the caretaker, for the color, quality, and size of the pups.

Man Found Dead At Park Entrance

TRURO, N. S., Oct. 21—(CP)— Daniel McVarish, 41, was found dead at the entrance to Victoria Park here today. Cause of death was not determined tonight, and Coroner Dr. F. D. Charman ordered an inquest. A Great War veteran McVarish is survived by Mary McVarish of London, Ont., and Hilda McVarish of Moncton N. B., sisters.
