SAD NEWS RECEIVED—Mrs. J. Austin, Trainer of Grand prizes, received word of the death of her brother-in-law, Mr. Frederick P. Campbell, of 44 Ocean Street, Atlantic, Mass., who passed away last Sunday after a brief illness. Mr. Campbell's wife (née Margaret MacLellan) passed away only a few weeks ago. Funeral services were held at Sacred Heart Church, Quincy, Mass. Burial in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

QUICK ACTION SAVES LIFE—A box of laundry detergent and the quick action of Dr. Heath MacIntyre, Charlottetown dentist, were believed to have saved the life of a 14-year-old Michael Foster. The child, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Foster were vacationing near Langley drank a bottle of iodine. Dr. MacIntyre, also vacationing nearby, administered a dose of laundry starch. The only emetic on hand, this neutralized the action of the poison long enough to enable the child to be taken to Prince Edward Island Hospital where he was discharged after treatment.

PARTY AT DALVAY—Mr. R. E. Dalvay entertained a party at Dalvay yesterday evening to meet Captain J. A. Heenan, O.B.E., Director of Trade Routes and Steamship Subsidies, Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa, and Major Leslie A. Mutch, M.P. for Winnipeg South, and Mr. Rand Matheson, of the Transportation Commission. Covers were laid for twelve and a roaché repeat was served by the host Mr. Wendel Worth. Captain Heenan is visiting the Maritimes studying several shipping problems, and interviewing the authorities in connection therewith. He had inspected the "Charles A. Dunning" of the Wood Islands-Caribou service since its renovation and was thoroughly satisfied with the improved facilities provided. He considered the Northumberland Ferries have been doing great work, and foresaw that it would not be long before an increased service would be necessary. This was Major Leslie Mutch's first visit to the Province, and he is charmed with it. Like Captain Heenan he has travelled considerably, and says the Island province compares most favorably with any place he has seen. Mr. Rand Matheson is recruiting his health after a strenuous time assisting Hon. Mr. Ralston in presenting the case for the Maritimes before the Transportation Commission. All three are delighted with Dalvay, and consider it an ideal tourist and health resort.

Doings At K. of C. Boys' Camp

Sunday was a rather disappointing day. It wasn't wet—but it was a dirty day for camp. There were few visitors, although the boys went to Mass, thence to the shore for a two-hour swim in the morning, and played ball in the afternoon, there was something just not right. However, the smiles Sunday night helped out quite a bit. At bedtime the boys had decided it was to be a good ten days.

On Monday we had swimming, as usual, for two two-hour periods; and you talk for warm water! Monday night saw two teams in action on the softball diamond, two more on the volleyball court, and a handful of willing fisticuffs dancing about an outdoor ring. Probably the best show of the week was the "arena" was put on by Walter "Bunny" Burns and Charlie Dunn. After 8-hour (as the mosquitoes would have it) orders for the recreation hall for another movie. This one was followed by a treat of chocolate bars. Ah—ho-hum—so to bed.

Tuesday—we "swum" nearly all day—as one of the boys put it. These lads really like the water. Each boy desires to show off his natural skills, and the boys' natural desire for land sports. Hardly a day goes by before bathing suits are on. But there are two or three who are consistently afflicted with a "stomach ache" or "stomach aches" or "painful sunburns," just about the time to go swimming. But these are very few. Tuesday evening looking and softball held the spotlight until dark. Two of the camp leaders, Melvin McPhee and William Gaudet put on an exhibition of boxing that developed into quite a slug-fest. Attempts had been made to rematch them—but Tuesday night—Camp fire and sing-song at the shore.

Wednesday was an ordinary camp day. Sports all day—sing-song from 9:00 until about 11:00. The boys felt quite grown-up over the late hour for retiring that night.

Thursday—talk for cold water! But only one of the boys was affected all day. In the afternoon, a number of boys went out a-picking berries. After all had eaten their fill, we almost had enough left for almost enough jam for supper. Father Butler put the boys to shame at the berry-picking.

After an hour or so at the berry-picking, the boys went to hike. Leaders John Mullally, "Moon" Mullins, and "Stu" Grady showed the way.

Thursday night Corporal King of the R.C.M.P. Detachment of Charlottetown came out and showed a couple of interesting educational films.

We neglected to mention, in our last set of notes, that a new name has been added to the camp leaders' roll call. Stewart Grady, who was one of the campers in the first session, so displayed leadership qualities that he was held over. He is living up to all that was expected of him.

On Monday afternoon the very popular wife of our very popular chief received news of an unfortunate accident to her brother, Elmer Smith, who was critically injured. Both she and Mr. Carragher rushed to town to be with him, so we had to shift our ourselves in the kitchen for a couple of days. Both arrived back to camp Thursday bringing word that Elmer is much improved. We know Elmer better by the nickname "Barkis," as did all his fellow students at St. Dunstan's College, and we feel sure that "Barkis" will pull through this test with flying colors. Barkis is a very popular student and a very rest assured of the prayers of the boys at camp are pulling for you, Barkis, and are in there pitching with their prayers both at Mass and at evening rosary.

Wednesday night Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gallant of Sourville, N.S., and their two children, a boy and a girl, our thanks to you kind people.

That seems to be (we guess what it seems to be). We hope these notes are giving you a clear picture of camp life. We know they are giving you a true picture. Being you.

At one minute past midnight, congressional librarian Luther H. Evans opens the historic collection that contains an estimated 15,000 to 20,000 papers.

The library will make a report of findings concerning the more important documents at noon tomorrow, and Dr. Evans will privately present the papers to the American people at an afternoon ceremony in the library.

Most Lincoln authorities have said they do not believe the collection will reveal any startling new events in the political career or the private life of the Civil War President.

Highway Improvement Activities Reviewed

The following information regarding the work done on the roads in the three Counties during the past six weeks was released yesterday by the Hon. G.H. Brien, Minister of Public Works and Highways.

The main road between Charlottetown and Summerside has had two miles of sub-grading and grading done and calcium chloride has been placed on four miles of the Breadalbane Road.

The Provincial Government was unable to have its orders for calcium chloride completely filled so that the Public Works Department has now almost exhausted its supply. However the calcium chloride was placed on roads leading into the communities of Tignish, Malpeque, Wellington, Tyne Valley, Tryon, Kinkora, Murray Bay, Murray Harbour, Carleton Place, Zepchoh Road, Bunbury Road, the road to the North River Road, and Corran Bay Road and the National Park. The remainder of the present supply will be used at Stanley Bridge, Clinton, Clifton, and Margate.

The firms of Morrison and MacRae and Curran and Briggs have each a contract on the Bonshaw Road and the work is up to schedule. The work is being done on what is the only 80-foot road in the Province.

York and Union Roads

Three miles of sub-grading and five miles of graveling have been done on the York Road. Because of the scarcity of calcium chloride, the Department had a car of salt placed at the York Station and the spread it over the gravelled surface.

Widening and sub-grading of the Union Road is going on and two miles of graveling has been nearly completed with part of the graveling done. Bulldozers are at work stumping on Gravel Road preparatory to sub-grading. The sub-grading at Seal View has been completed as well as some at Long River. Both of those sub-grading projects will be gravelled at once.

The Island Construction Company is seal-coating the pavement from Charlottetown to beyond Hunter River. The Department expects to have this work completed by the end of the month and ascribe the delay to having been held up by the shortage of cars with which to haul the gravel from Nova Scotia. The Department has had a sign placed at the junction of the Borden and Bonshaw roads advising tourists to drive by way of Red's Corner. Anyone wanting a shorter road can turn off after crossing the Dunk River Bridge and take the first turn to the right. They can then go to Western Preetown and strike the Catholic Church. That route will save tourists and others travelling from Borden to Charlottetown, a distance of seven miles.

Sharp Clashes At Freight Hearing

OTTAWA, July 25—(CP)—Railway and provincial spokesmen clashed repeatedly at the national freight-rate inquiry today over a Manitoba expert's forecast that the railways will pick up $60,000,000 in new revenues this year without rate increases.

The figure, which compares with $87,000,000 sought by the railways through a 30-per-cent freight-rate increase applied for by the railroads, was the subject of a long cross-examination of Robert E. Moffat, Manitoba Government economic adviser, who made the prediction. He stuck to his estimate through his fourth day on the witness stand.

Lewis Visits Scene Of Mine Explosion

(By The Associated Press)

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill., July 25—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers (A.F.L.), made an unheralded visit today to this Southern Illinois town where 27 coal diggers perished in a deadly disaster officially ascribed to a gas explosion.

Lewis conferred for an hour with officials of the Old Ben Coal Corporation, in whose No. 8 mine the tragedy occurred yesterday, and with local union officials including his brother, Howard, underground superintendent at the mine.

Heroic Mother Defies Flames To Rescue Child

(By The Canadian Press)

TORONTO, July 25—Mrs. Ted Davy, the heroic mother who defied flames aboard the power boat Lellani, to rescue her youngest son, endured the pain of severe burns in hospital tonight, unaware that her 44-year-old husband Jimmy died eight hours after the 36-foot craft exploded at Keswick-on-Lake Simcoe, 40 miles north of here.

Also in hospital is the younger boy she carried to safety when the Lellani burst into flames yesterday—Douglas, three, whose condition today changes from "reasonably well" to only "fair."

Resembling a human torch with her hair and clothing ablaze, Mrs. Davy, wife of Ted Davy, Toronto automobile dealer, emerged from the craft's cabin, an inferno after the sudden and inexplicable blast, to snatch up her son and leap into the water.

Mrs. Davy, who purchased the boat only a week ago, suffered minor burns in rescuing from further fiery punishment his son Jimmy who died during the night.

ed unimpeded in the treacherous rap tides around Beacon Island. Her bow touched on another part of the same reef. To avoid it, she was driven full speed ahead and it was then that she drove hard aground with her propeller half out of the water.

The Nascope took a 30-degree list to starboard, developed serious leak and orders were given to abandon ship. Captain Walters and the remainder of his crew left in the lifeboats at 4 A.M.

On July 23 Chief Officer Auddy and a group of volunteers rowed out to the wreck to obtain badly-needed food supplies and recover the remainder of the mail being carried to the outpost. When they saw the Nascope they realized both she and the cargo would be a total loss.

The statement added that should the Board find such action to be desirable it is authorized to form advisory sub-committees representing specialized branches of the fishing industry in the production and distribution fields.

Members of the Board and the committees will serve, as such, without salary but they will receive daily allowances and travelling and living expenses when engaged on Board business.

Long-Secret Lincoln Papers Are Opened

(By Alexander R. George)

WASHINGTON, July 25—(AP)—Historians and scholars gathered at the Library of Congress tonight for the long-awaited opening of the Robert Todd Lincoln collection of the papers of Abraham Lincoln.

Robert Lincoln's ban of secrecy on the documents he collected at the White House after his father's assassination was to expire at midnight EDT (1 a.m. ADT).

At one minute past midnight, congressional librarian Luther H. Evans opens the historic collection that contains an estimated 15,000 to 20,000 papers.

The library will make a report of findings concerning the more important documents at noon tomorrow, and Dr. Evans will privately present the papers to the American people at an afternoon ceremony in the library.

Most Lincoln authorities have said they do not believe the collection will reveal any startling new events in the political career or the private life of the Civil War President.

In Memoriam

REV. HARRY O. WOODS

Bernard Paynter, Kensington, has received a message concerning the recent death of her mother-in-law Rev. Harry C. Woods of Medicine Hat, Alberta, after a week's illness following a shock at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harold Shepard. He was for many years a faithful worker for his Lord and Master and preached the gospel to his many congregations both in United States and Canada, that they may earnestly unite and see the light and be faithful followers of the Heavenly Master.

Rev. Mr. Woods resigned the Ministry less than two years ago, as his health was failing and he was well advanced in years. He will be greatly missed especially by his wife. She has been an invalid for a number of years and he so loving and tenderly cared for her during her years of illness. Mrs. Woods was formerly Miss Fannie Wickert, the youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wickert of North Granville, P. E. I. Together with the two daughters left to mourn whom sincere sympathy is extended.
