

Don't Be Short Of Hot Water Bottles

Formerly hot water bottles were considered a luxury and there were apt to be but one in a family. Now they are a recognized necessity and in many homes there are several, so that in case of sudden illness or severe cold there may be an abundance of warmth for every need.

We have a very fine line of GUARANTEED hot water bottles at present. Prices of pure rubber bottles range 1.00 to 3.00.

In useless experiments with ordinary and out-of-date ointments. If you have any skin trouble whatever, use Zam-Buk in the first place, and save yourself needless suffering and unnecessary expense.

For two years Mr. E. E. Gardiner, of Marquis, Sask., suffered with salt rheum. Then he used Zam-Buk and was cured. He writes:

"I had salt rheum on my feet for two years, and the pain I suffered at times was indescribable. I tried all kinds of so-called remedies, but nothing brought me relief until I used Zam-Buk. After the first few applications I noticed a distinct improvement, and after persevering use, Zam-Buk completely cured me."

Zam-Buk is also unequalled for ringworm, scalp sores, old wounds, abscesses, boils, pimples, blood-poisoning, piles, scalds, burns, cuts, and all skin injuries. All druggists and stores, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, 50c. box, 3 for $1.25.

ISLANDER MISSES HORSE RACING

Mr. Walter Found formerly of New London in writing to his friend, Mr. James Pendergast says:

Haigler, Nebraska
January 24th, 1917

Dear James— There is a bit of a lull this morning and I am going to grasp the chance to write you, for I realize that I have been very remiss, and human like feel that I have good excuses. You see things so often do not turn out the way one expects, and instead of having a chance to catch on to the business here by degrees, by a turn of the wheel, I had to step into a breach about sixty days after my arrival, and as it was all new to me had some considerable trouble in getting my stride, but I now feel quite at home in the harness and hope in due time to at least equal my old record.

This is a typical Western town bare of beauty save for the river which winds through the valley skirting the town, and a kind of wild scenery, which the hills (foothills you know) present, but we are plump progressive and have all modern conveniences, such as city water, electric light and power plant which we own, likewise a first-class garage. In addition, we operate a grain elevator and big lumber and coal business, and the volume of business is very surprising for the size of the town, the reason being that we are a big shipment centre, drawing from a territory of about 15 miles in every direction. Yesterday afternoon for instance I weighed and wrote checks for nearly $3000.00 worth of wheat, and it is not uncommon to see from ten to twenty four horse wagons waiting in line.

But one thing looks dead here, viz. horse interest, and unless it comes in some degree next summer I think I will have to be on my way. It never was a harness-horse section though a few miles east and west there are some lovers and of course I have had no chance to even talk it up, being a stranger and with a couple of my own but my old friend Chris who owns a big ranch near town, one that ought to step near, as his sire has a record of 2:07 and his dam was a fast pacer but had headed. So we will see what will happen.

Suppose the winter racing season is on now, and I would sure like to be able to attend a spectator. What are you doing time at this winter? You know the list of questions I would ask, so take them for granted and write all the news.

Very kind regards to your mother, Dad and sisters. Mrs. Found and Ruth are fine and like it but have a soft spot for P. E. I.

Yours always,
WALTER.—K.

SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE

The following letter was received by Mrs. John H. MacLennan, Murray River, from their son now in France:

January 10th, 1917.
Dear Father and Mother and all the rest—I now sit down to write you those few lines to let you know that I am still living and well and hope this may find you all the same. I received your letter the other day and was glad to hear from you. I suppose you have lots of snow and frosty weather home now. We had no snow or frost here yet but lots of rain. We had a slick Christmas and a Happy New Year and I hope you had the same. I like this country and we are having a fine time. Was awful glad to hear you were all sending me a parcel but didn't receive it yet although I want it badly especially my socks. As it is getting late and I am getting sleepy I will have to close this time. Be sure and write soon and tell me all the news.

Your loving son,
JACK.

ANOTHER LETTER FROM ENGLAND

Mrs. J. L. Stevenson, Clyde Cott, New Glasgow, P. E. I. received the following letter from her eldest son Sergeant Major Elmore E. Stevenson, No. 8 Siege Battery of Halifax, who as will be seen is now overseas.

Sergeant Major Stevenson is well qualified to give an opinion on military matters having been twelve years in the service and being in many parts of the Empire on duty including Malta.

Lydd, Kent,
Jan. 23rd, 1917.
Dear Mother— It must be a very long time since I wrote to you, so that you can see I am keeping up my reputation as a poor correspondent very well.

I think but am not sure that my last letter was written from Eushot. It was a nice quiet place and we stayed there from Oct. 25th until Dec. 15th, when we moved to North Camp Aldershot, where we were until last Saturday, Jan. 20th.

We shall be here at least 3 weeks and after leaving here I am unable to say further. At any rate, if all goes well the middle of February should find us in France.

I received the parcel about a fortnight ago and am extremely grateful for your kindness and thoughtfulness. Miller has been to see me once. He came over while we were at Aldershot, and is looking fine and healthy and apparently the climate agrees with him very well. I was not able to get down to Whitby to see him though I would have liked to. You see all our officers and a good many of the N.C.O.'s go away on courses, as soon as we get settled down in England and the poor, Sgt.-Major has to remain at his post and see that everything is kept going.

So that I have been kept rather busy and have to be on the job all the time even when there is very little to do. We have been very fortunate since coming to England, as regards illness among the troops. Many have had colds, and as a matter of fact it is almost impossible to avoid them at this season, but outside of one case of tuberculosis which originated in Canada and was aggravated here, we have had no serious sickness of any kind.

I have a troublesome cough myself but it has not prevented me from being on duty continuously since our arrival so that it is nothing to trouble about.

I have not been able to get away on leave yet, but hope to get a few days when our training is over.

Shall try and get up to London and see some of the sights. Met some very nice people while we were at Eushot and used to spend my Sunday evenings with them. They were most kind to me and helped a great deal to make me feel welcome in a strange land.

Since my last letter events in the war have had a different turn and to an outsider it would appear that our position had not improved very much during the past year. Rumania has been overrun by the Kaiser's armies and has shared the fate of all small nations that have so far arranged themselves against Germany.

But a careful study of the situation will prove that it was imperative that Germany should make a strong effort in this direction, even though it should use up her last reserves, which it has done. To have dabbled with the situation in Rumania would have meant the assistance of Rumania would gradually have driven a wedge between the Central Powers and their allies. Bulgaria and Turkey and ended forever the Kaiser's dream of a German eastern capital at Bagdad; in this direction lie his fondest hopes. Answer was then wavering and with her eastern and southern borders open to the enemy, would have used for a separate peace before Christmas.

It was necessary, then, to subdue Rumania before the Russians could bolster up her armies, and to occupy the Quinine, That Does Not Affect Head

Because of its tonic and laxative effect, Laxative Bromo Quinine can be taken by anyone without causing nervousness nor ringing in the head. There is only one "Bromo Quinine." E. W. GROVES' signature is on box 25c.

Our lot then is far from unhappy and things have gone very smoothly with us so far.

A good many men in the service get into difficulties through their own neglect, and then blame those above them for their misfortune. I am glad to be able to say that we have had no trouble worth speaking of, and hope that things will continue to be so.

This is a very cold and disagreeable place. It is very near the Channel, being only 7 miles from the Light-house at Hungeness which is the extreme southeast corner of England.

Low and level, the ground is mainly shingle and sand, so that there is a pleasing absence of mud, which seems to be the especial curse in most training camps in England. A desolate section of country, sparsely inhabited, the fertile ground given over to the most part to large flocks of sheep who manage somehow to get a living from the grass that grows here and there.

Well mother, I have written a great deal about something or other and trust that my letter will not bore you utterly. I send my best wishes to all at home, and hope to have the pleasure of seeing them again some day.

God knows, may stop on this side of the great Atlantic. If I do remember that the spirit of adventure did not bring me there, but a stern sense of my duty to the country which has given me so many privileges and opportunities.

A soldier first and last, with a soldier's faults and shortcomings, I send you my love, and ask you to give my regards to all.

I am your son,
ELLMORE.

No one in this country has any doubt regarding the eventual outcome of the war. Preparations are even now being made for after the war conditions and problems. The nation is resolved to have, at the end of hostilities, sufficient reserve power to be able to make its voice heard above all others when the plans of peace are drawn up, so that the principles for which we have fought, shall not be put aside when the final reckoning comes.

I could wish that our Canada might take a little more serious view of things. They have done much out there, no doubt, but there are so many who have made the war an opportunity to line their pockets and no more. There must be some way of reaching these people and we are old soon be found if our politicians were not so absolutely rotten and self centered. A clean sweep of the old system of handing down political jobs from father to son and the abolition of cliques would do a wonderful lot of good in Canada.

We read from time to time in almost any newspaper published in Canada complaints regarding the treatment accorded to troops in this and that station. Many of these complaints are well founded and are caused principally by the inefficiency of those in authority.

But I cannot help thinking that the great majority are too quick to air their grievances in the public press, for in almost all cases that have come under my personal notice, a properly worded communication to the right quarter has almost always had satisfactory results for those concerned.

As to the circumstances in which we find ourselves on commencing training in England, I know that we are immeasurably better off than the English Tommy in every respect.

Siege Batteries, however, being small units, have less trouble with internal affairs than large bodies such as a battalion and it is true that, as a Battery commander is usually a much more brash man than a Battalion C. O., and has only about one eighth of the number of men to think for, we are therefore in a much more enviable position.

Our lot then is far from unhappy and things have gone very smoothly with us so far.

A good many men in the service get into difficulties through their own neglect, and then blame those above them for their misfortune. I am glad to be able to say that we have had no trouble worth speaking of, and hope that things will continue to be so.
