N. S. Minister Says Misquoted On Rates Story

HALIFAX, Sept. 11—(CP)—Agricultural Ministers of the three Maritime Provinces, as well as farmers associations, have been making every effort to obtain a reduction in freight rates on Western Canadian feed grains for the seaside provinces, Hon. John A. McDonald, provincial Minister of Agriculture, said here today.

The Minister said he was misquoted in The Canadian Press report of his address to a field day of the Nova Scotia Holstein Association at Truro last night, when he was quoted as saying the reduction in freight rates had been obtained. This was not so, but strenuous efforts along this line were being made.

Eels have scales, imbedded in the skin, which cannot be seen by the casual observer.

may break at any time," he said.

Britain's navy is ready and the R.A.F. strong, and in addition the nation's regular army, home defence troops are "determined to fight for every inch of the ground in every village and in every street," he continued.

"This wicked man, the embodiment of many forms of hatred, this monstrous product of former wrongs and shame, is now resolved to try to break our famous island race by a process of indiscriminate slaughter and destruction," said the Prime Minister.

"What he has done is to kindle a fire in British hearts, here and all over the world, which will glow long after all traces of the conflagration he has caused in London have been removed.

"He has lighted a fire which will burn with a steady and consuming flame until the last vestiges of the Nazi tyranny have been burnt out of Europe, and until the old world and the new can join hands to rebuild the temples of man's freedom and man's honor upon foundations which will not soon or easily be overthrown."

The Prime Minister called the bombings "cruel, wanton and barbarous," and said German daylight attacks on Britain "had failed conspicuously" with the R. A. F. taking a 3-to-1 toll in the air fighting.

"This effort of the Germans to secure daylight mastery of the air over England is of course the crux of the whole war so far, and it has failed conspicuously," he said.

"There is no doubt that Herr Hitler is using up his fighter force at a very high rate, and that if he goes on for many more weeks he will wear down and ruin a vital part of his air force.

"That will give us a very great advantage."

After describing the imminent possibility of invasion he said:—

"Therefore we must regard the next week or so as a very important week for us in our history, as great as the days when the Spanish Armada was approaching the Channel, and Drake was finishing his game of bowls, or when Nelson stepped between us and Napoleon's grand army at Boulogne."

Mr. Churchill then enumerated Britain's strength at the present time:—

Britain's shores are well-fortified and strongly manned.

Behind them there is a "far larger and better equipped mobile army than we have ever had before."

Besides, more than 1,500,000 men of the Home Guard stand prepared, "just as much soldiers of the regular army in status as the Grenadier Guards."

The fleets, "powerful and numerous," are ready.

"Our air force is at the highest it has ever reached and it is conscious of its proved superiority."

KING, QUEEN

the wreckage of their subjects' dwellings knowing that the time-fused missle in the grounds of the century-old palace would explode at any minute.

On tour today they paused between "take cover" and "all clear" in a southeast London air raid shelter, and then continued their tour.

The bomb buried itself in the earth about 10 paces from the glass-enclosed swimming pool in a wing 80 feet long, 40 feet wide and one story high. A conservatory in Queen Victoria's time, it was converted into a pool in 1936 and was one of the favorite playrooms of the Princesses.

Half of the stone and glass walls of the pool was demolished. Remnants of its glass skylight remained suspended crazily; the metal diving tower was a twisted mass of grotesque wreckage.

A palace spokesman said: "There was very little damage inside the palace; it was mostly from flying glass and soot from chimneys. Paintings and other art objects were removed long ago."

Their Majesties, who had viewed the ruins of various parts of London, in due course came to inspect the ruined part of their own residence, amid the quiet and beauty of St. James's Park.

Their Majesties continued their work today as if nothing had happened.

While the sirens howled the King and Queen left their automobile and walked downstairs under a police station and for more than 10 minutes they were among their subjects, waiting for the Nazi raiders to pass.

In the bleak half-light of the cavern Their Majesties sat on hard wooden chairs in the centre of the room, ringed by a company of 30 which included overalled air raid precautions workers smeared with the dust of a shattered courthouse next door, policemen, court officials and white-garbed women of the police canteen.

The Royal tour continued. The Queen talked sympathetically with bereaved women. Dust gathered on her shoes and stockings as she clambered over piles of rubbish.

A crowd pressed around the couple, singing, "There'll Always Be An England!"

Murray-Gallant Nuptials

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Annes Church, Lot 65 on Wednesday, Aug. 7, when Mary Evelyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Gallant, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Lawrence Ignatius son of Mrs. Laura M. Murray of the same place. The ceremony was performed and the Nuptial Mass celebrated by the pastor Reverend Leo Herrell.

The bride looked charming in a gown of royal blue velvet, with hat to match, and wore a corsage of pink roses and baby's breath. She was attended by her sister Agnes who was dressed in dusty pink and deep purple. The groom was ably supported by his brother Leo of Charlottetown.

Miss Mary E. McElroy organist played the Wedding March and accompanied the choir which rendered appropriate hymns during the ceremony; a large group of friends witnessed the marriage of the popular young couple. Following the ceremony a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents to the friends and relatives of the contracting parties including Reverend Leo Herrell and Reverend Clarence Pitre.

After a most enjoyable day the happy couple left on a honeymoon tour to the mainland.

Upon their arrival home the groom's mother was hostess at a large reception tendered to the newly weds.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray will reside in their new home at Lot 65 to enjoy the many and beautiful gifts received at both the wedding and previous shower.

SIX FRENCH

that "early yesterday morning, July 3, after all preparations had been made, we took the greater part of the French fleet under our control or else called upon them with an adequate force to comply with our requirements."

It was never known how many French naval vessels remained in French harbors, but there were some particularly at Toulon.

French vessels in British harbors were boarded for the most part without incident also on July 3. Some of the French seamen expressed a desire to fight on with Britain and were allowed to do so.

The battle of the North African coast was fought mainly at Oran Algeria.

Before France's capitulation the republic had nine capital ships built or building; of this number two were taken over in British ports, one joined the fleet at Alexandria, one was sunk, one was beached and one was damaged. One was badly damaged but escaped.

France also had in active service at the war's start one aircraft carrier, seven heavy cruisers, 12 other cruisers, 59 destroyers, and 78 submarines.

Known to have escaped from the battle of Oran in addition to the damaged Strasbourg were five flotilla leaders and destroyers, with some submarines and torpedo boats

WARNS OF PROPAGANDA

STRATFORD, Ont., Sept. 9—(CP)—Canon L. A. Dixon, general secretary of the Missionary Society of the Church of England in Canada, said at General Synod sessions here today that care must be taken to protect Indians in north and south America from the dangers of enemy propaganda.

He said there was a danger such propaganda might cause unrest and trouble among the Indian populations of certain American countries.

Canon Dixon urged "closer unification of the Indian work (in Canada), at present scattered from James Bay to the Pacific coast, and from southern Alberta to the Yukon and distributed over 15 dioceses." There is "a need for dealing with the problem as a whole."

SCOTTISH GROUSE INTRIGUE GOTHAM

Even with War On New York's Fancy Eaters get English Pheasants, Too

NEW YORK, Sept. 10—(CP) — The Nazi "Total Blockade" of the British Isles hasn't made any appreciable change in the menus at Twenty One Club, sometimes known as Jack and Charlie's, where Manhattan's gourmets don't mind paying fancy prices for imported delicacies such as Scottish grouse, English sole and pheasants.

Jack Kriendler, on of the partners in the West 52nd Street hangout for cafe society, said he has been receiving shipment of pheasant and sole quite regularly and has been notified that a shipment of 500 brace of grouse is en route. Due to the secrecy surrounding ship movements, he was not certain when they would arrive.

Last fall Jack and Charlie's sold 650 brace fo grouse to their patrons, the price to customers being about $5 a bird. Import prices are lower this season, due to exchange and the fact that the demand is slower in the United Kingdom and other markets.

WHEN YOU BAKE A CAKE

Flavoring may be put into a cake as the last ingredient. Or, it may be added to the creamed sugar - and - shortening mixture, since a few more stirs of the mixture are fine for good cake texture.

Be sure to spread the batter well into th corners of the pan, with a slight depression in the centre. Then the cake will rise evenly during the baking. In spit of temptation, it is wise to keep the oven door closed for 15 or 20 minutes after a cake has started to bake. Cakes, like human beings, do not welcome sudden draughts of cold air.

With the aid of a flat knife or spatula, remove a baked cake from the pan a few minutes after it comes out of the oven. Place it, right side up on a cake rack or folded clean towel to cool.
