

Here is the Most Attractive Fox Ranching Proposition Open to the Investors Of Prince Edward Island Today

The Melrose Black Fox Co. Ltd.

Authorized Capital $150,000.00

Stock Issued $85,000.00

Have secured five pairs of the best pure bred Black Foxes in the world, whose pedigrees trace back to the Foxes whose pelts produced the world's price record on the London Market. They are also the descendants of foxes noted for their prolificness, which fact should not be overlooked by intending investors. At present it is proposed to issue stock to the amount of $85,000.00 divided into 850 shares of $100.00 each par value, being a sum sufficient to complete the purchase of the five pairs of foxes and pay all necessary organization expenses.

The Ranch

Is located at Marshfield six miles from Charlottetown on the farm of Peter McN. Robertson. It is built in an ideal grove of fir and birch, sheltered in winter and cool and shady in summer. It is built within a stone's throw of Mr. Robertson's dwelling, who is care taker, and who has had a most successful experience in caring for foxes, both old and young. The ranch is one mile from the public highway, thus securing the greatest possible freedom from noise or other distractions so injurious to a fox ranch.

Cost of Ranching

The owners of the ranch will supply the pens, food, keeper, watchmen, attendance of a veterinary surgeon and everything necessary for the health, comfort and safety of the animals, the ranch retaining 15 p. c. of the offspring.

Capitalization

It will be seen by the figures that the foxes are capitalized at $17,000.00 a pair which is the lowest capitalization on guaranteed stock of the Dalton, Oulton, Gordon and Tupin strains on the market today, and as the percentage of dividends depends on the capitalization, you will readily see by comparing this proposition with any other now on the market, that this is the only company worthy of consideration of the careful and conservative investor.

This is Your Opportunity

The cost of foxes is advancing year by year. The sooner you get into the business the sooner your wealth begins to accumulate. From five pairs there should be at least 15 pups which at present prices would net the shareholders 95 to 100 p. c.

Without Fear of Contradiction

We state, that the surest method for an investor to make money in the fox industry, is to place his money in a ranch that is stocked with the best foxes that the world has ever produced, capitalized at a figure which will insure the largest possible percentage of profits.

It is beyond question that the Melrose Black Fox Co. Ltd. is destined to become one of the greatest Fox companies in existence, and whether the investor buys stock in this company as a permanent investment or as a speculation, a good return is absolutely assured, as the promoters fully believe that inside of six months the stock of this company will be worth at least $125.00 a share.

It is estimated that there are over $7,000,000.00 invested in the Fox industry in this Province and it is the opinion of calculating business men that it is only in its infancy. Large amounts of money have been made are now being made and shall continue to be made for many years to come.

CHEERED THROUGH SUFFERING.

This would be a cheerless world if it were not for sorrow and suffering. It is easy to forget this when the suffering bears in hard upon us. And it is also easy to forget it when we are enjoying the blessings of health and happiness. For, as has been well said, "The greatest blessing in the world is health—except sickness." With the world as it is, we need the experience of weakness in order that God's Power may be made perfect in us. And our sympathy for others would it is to be feared, be a light and superficial thing if it sprang only from our understanding of ease and happiness, and never from the deeper places of weakness and pain. Often God can reveal his love to us through and experience of suffering as through no other way; an often we can reveal our love to others after we have suffered as we never could have done otherwise. So let us count it all joy when we are blessed through pain, and let us gladly claim the greater riches that God would give us. Better still, let us see to it that others shall be blessed because we have suffered.

The great Physician now is near. The sympathizing Jesus; He speaks, the drooping heart to cheer, Oh, hear the voice of Jesus! Sweetest note in seraph song, Sweetest name on mortal tongue, Sweetest carol ever sung: Jesus! blessed Jesus!

MRS. C. GORDON.

A funeral service, in connection with the death of Mrs. Christiana Gordon widow of Mr. Archibald Gordon, of Huntley, brother of the "Mar-tyned Gordon of Beromango, New He-brides, eldest daughter of Mr. James G. Montgomery of Malpeque, and sister of Mr. Donald Montgomery agent P. E. I. railway, Georgetown, and Mr. George R. Montgomery, Montague, Mr. Ritchie of Malden, Mass., and Mr. Miss Annie Montgomery, B. C. and of missionary of Persia Mrs. Gordon is survived by two sons, one of them is married to Governor Roger's daughter. Her death occurred in Malden three weeks ago, where she was very highly respected. The funeral took place on Sunday from the church, and was very largely attended. At the close of appropriate Scrip-ture readings, Rev. Henry J. Kil-bourne read from Bunyon's "Pil-grim's Progress" as follows: "Now while they lay here and wait-ed for the good hour, there was a noise in the town that a post was come from the Celestial City with matters of great importance to one to be with God. The power of the endless life and now she has dipped her feet in the River Jordan and has passed and the house was found out where she was, so the post presented to her a letter. The contents were: "Hail, good woman, I bring thee good tidings that the Master calleth for thee and expecteth that thou shouldst stand within His Presence in cloths of im-mortality within these ten days." Then she called her children and gave them her blessing and told them that she had read with comfort the mark that was set in their foreheads, and was glad to see them with her there and that they had kept their gar-ments so white. Lastly she bequeath-ed to the poor what little she had, and commanded her sons and daugh-ters to be ready when the messen-ger should come for them." Then followed the hymn. Rev. Henry J. Kilbourne delivered a following address: There is an inscription which we love to have men read concerning this little temple of God, "Stranger and Traveller, this is your Father's House." We desire to share its Peace and Strength with you." This after-noon we have desired to have its peace and strength shared not with a stran-ger, but with a fellow-traveller to-ward the great peace of God. It has always seemed to me that this is the place where we may most fittingly bring our loved ones, or rather I should say, bring their sleeping forms when they themselves have gone forth to be with God. The power of the endless life and now she has dipped her feet in the River Jordan and has passed er is all about us filling the air to-day. Those of us who had the privi-lege of going to visit and speak with our friend and sister in her home have realized that she was a part of the endless life, that she had some-thing to give to us. She certainly has been an inspiration and a help to all of us who have been there by her side and have read the Scriptures with her and prayed with her, and many of you friends (turning to the choir) who have sung with her in her home. It is just like a family gathering here this afternoon, with her former beloved pastor and friend here with us; we are all here together with God, and that peace which is so greatly her portion today, stretches out its arms to receive our souls al-so. I have never forgotten the first mo-ments of my acquaintance with her; when I found that her name was Christiana, for I always loved her the second half of Bunyon's "Pil-grim's Progress." It was to the glory with the portrayal of Christiana's shall bring the summons to each of us. I bring a great hope, and some-thing to anticipate as you journey to-ward the Celestial City, for "There are the loved and best. Those whom we loved most and best. Grant us with them to rest: Heaven is our Home." Rev. Charles Homer Percival spok as follows: The other night when the tidings Divine Influence was the one thing to found a rest from the sufferings in us except in a religious light, and had which we have known her, and as I no friendship that did not find a cen- tre in the life of God. And so to us today, for she does not need many words, comes the old precious truth that "Love is as strong as Death." For what can Love do? Love can make her life a present and an immortal possession; Love can make her mind and heart an im-mortal challenge to us. Love takes now her motherhood and makes her an immortal mother, takes her sister-hood and locates that in Heaven, (Continued on page sixteen)
