A CHARISMATIC circle of smart Alexs who reside in a certain Village, in Lot 50, a feature of whose modus operandi is to charge a higher fee to the dweller in the highways and hedges than the denizen of the village, as admission to their masquerades and who have reduced sneaking thieving to a science, will evidently be minus the wedding garments at the first great banquet after the final roll call—Com.

A CORRESPONDENT at Murray Harbor South writes The Guardian saying that the news of the death of the late Ewen Gillies, already referred to at some length in The Guardian, was received at Murray Harbor with profound sorrow and only in the congregation where he labored so zealously for twelve years, but by members of other denominations as well. He had many true friends by whom his memory will be long cherished. His labors in the Murray Harbor congregation were most successful. Two fine churches were erected and a sum provided to build another at Murray Harbor South. There is no doubt that the eulogistic words of the Guardian's correspondent will find a ready echo in many hearts.

At a meeting of Eastern Gem Lodge, I. O. G. T. on Saturday, the 1st inst, the matter of the recent appointment of a prosecutor for this part of the country was taken up. A week's notice had been given so as to give all the members an opportunity to take part in the discussion. A general feeling of unanimity prevailed and the following resolution was passed without dissent. Whereas the untiring efforts of the temperance people of this province for more than half a century, have culminated in the enactment of a prohibitory liquor law. And, Whereas, the enforcement of the said law cannot be successfully carried out without having as prosecutors, men of true temperance principles. And, Whereas, the "powers to be" have, against the expressed wishes of the temperance people appointed for the eastern division of King's County, as prosecutor a person who is not in sympathy with the temperance cause, but who is considered as favoring the liquor interest. Therefore Resolved that Eastern Gem Lodge I. O. G. T. in session assembled protest against the action as an insult to the temperance people and a denial of the rights of the overwhelming majority of electors.

The Guardian's correspondent from the East writes—Our long looked for telephone line is at last a reality, is coming sure, and next we hope for a Railway, long expected, long promised, and long deserved. The broken weather for a week has interfered with both harvesting and fishing. The dog-fish have been more plentiful lately than for some time—a serious matter for our fishermen. Along our northern coasts once the favorite summer resorts of mackerel where Provincial and New England fishermen spent the summer months and where our shore fishermen landed their many catches no fishermen's boat now surfs the waters, no schools rattle their surfboards, no sound of the cooper's adze is heard no more, the boats are rotting on the beach, the fish houses are falling to decay, our once mighty mackerel industry is a thing of the past. The purse seine of Gloucester has done its work. Rev. E. A. McPhee of Dundas spent a few days east recently. Theodore Stewart is prosecuting butchering with his usual energy. Numbers of tourists have utilized our shady roads and beautiful beaches this summer.
