FRENCH APPROACH LAON.

Strike Vital Blows at the Hindenburg Line.

PARIS, Sept. 16.—Marshal Foch, pursuing his policy of giving the Germans never a minute's rest, followed up the incisive stroke of the Americans, which wiped out the St. Mihiel salient in two days, by launching an offensive Saturday morning on the French front along the bend in the line around Laon.

The blow took immediate effect on the German lines, pushing them back from one to two miles at points in this important sector, where it is well-nigh vital for Germans to hold fast if they hope to retain control of any considerable part of Northern France during the coming winter. Mont des Singes, village of Allement and the Moulin Laffaux were occupied and 3,500 prisoners captured.

Every yard gained by Petain's troops on the Ailette-Aisne front is extremely valuable, as the German positions along the Aisne and the Vesle to the east have been under an increasing threat for some time by the French advance on their left flank.

The advance will not have to be pressed much further before a German retreat on a wide front in this sector will be compelled.

By driving in sharply in his present move Marshal Foch probably intends to make untenable the Chemin des Dames, the former German holding ground north of the Aisne. He has made a marked progress in this, already taking Mont des Singes. It is only a short distance thence to the Anazy-Pinson line, the capture of which by Petain last fall compelled the German Crown Prince to fall back from the Chemin des Dames to the Ailette line to the north.

French progress here likewise represents a renewal of the drive at the St. Gobain massif, and therefore at the citadel of Laon, which that bastion defends. Moving directly into the massif further north, above the Ailette, the French are reported to be progressing satisfactorily.

Along the Aisne the advance has taken the French farther east and they were reported early to have reached Vailly on the north bank from the river as they advanced.

GALWAY CASTLE SUNK.

Pirates Drown Many Women and Children.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—The British steamer Galway Castle, of 7,988 tons gross, was torpedoed and sunk Friday morning. She had 749 persons on board. One hundred and twenty passengers are missing.

The passengers included 300 women and children. The bodies of three of the children, who had died, were brought ashore. The captain and several of the officers are reported to have been still on board the ship when she was last seen and sinking.

The missing from the torpedoed Galway Castle number 189. They include 120 passengers, 36 naval and military officers and men, and 33 of the crew.

Ninety third-class passengers lost were, without exception, women and children.

The liner floated for two days in charge of the captain and volunteers. The Galway Castle left port for South Africa on Tuesday last and was torpedoed on Thursday in a stormy sea.

The Central News account of the sinking says that one of the lifeboats was driven by a stormy sea against the ship's propeller and smashed. One of the steamer's passengers, the account adds, was Henry Burton, Minister of Railways of the Union of South Africa, who was saved, and Major Rabuntine, a member of the South African Parliament, who is missing.

The Galway Castle was built at Belfast in 1911. London was her port of registry. She was owned by the Union Castle Mail Ship Co.

METZ NOW UNDER FIRE.

General Pershing's Army is Making Fine Progress.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—Gen. Pershing's army, according to Sunday's news, is making fine progress. Since Saturday afternoon it has advanced from two to three miles on a 33-mile front, and the fortress guns of Metz have come into action against it.

The American new positions are being consolidated and their rear areas improved. Roads are being built across what formerly was No Man's Land.

The American army began this week a preliminary offensive, the ultimate object of which is the invasion of Germany. For the first time since the first battle of the Marne, the war is peremptorily knocking at the Kaiser's door.

The Americans have brought Metz definitely within range of Marshal Foch's strategic observations. Major preparations for its protection must be begun at once by Hindenburg.

When the St. Mihiel operations began there were from 90,000 to 100,000 Germans inside the salient. They escaped at the rate of 1,000 hourly, but the pincers closed and trapped many thousands.

The total captured are officially announced as 15,000.

Prisoners taken were from seven divisions, namely, the 13th Landwehr, the 35th Austro-Hungarian, the 10th, the 132nd, the 77th, the 255th and the 307th, while there were also some from Landsturm units. Approximately 155 square miles of territory were reclaimed.
