A New York Varsity On Down Grade

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Deputy Mayor Henry H. Curran's "Varsity" has fallen upon evil days. In fact it appeared yesterday that the founder, dean and faculty of the now studentless university has reached the point where he has expressed a willingness, even eagerness, to enroll his disciples by winning football wagers. Originally Dean Curran established his school to teach grammar to legislators. His star pupil, admitted to the varsity, was a President of the University of Fordham who defeated the University of Pittsburgh football team this Saturday. The course offered to Mr. Scully was in the statement of "smoke" insurances. Mr. Lyons explained that his alma mater already gave courses in "pure English, burglar alarms, down parks and cockroaches." Not only that, continued Mr. Lyons, but

Eastern Guardian In Memoriam

MR. HUGH JOHN MURRAY

A telegram was received yesterday by Mrs. Chester E. Shaw, stating that her son-in-law, Hugh John Murray, had died suddenly in Three Hills, Alberta. Mr. Murray was about 56 years of age, had charge of the elevator for the United Grain Growers at Three Hills. He was born at Clyde River, a son of the late John Murray, former going west, he and his partner, Ira Birt had rented the farm of the late Franklin Boyer at Banbury, where they carried on strawberry growing and other activities. Mr. Murray was also employed for a time by Gavin Harding at his farm at Graham's Bend. He leaves to mourn a widow, Mrs. Alberta Beer, sister of Mrs. Chester E. Shaw, two sons and two daughters, Randolph and a young son, and Edith and Dorothy at Three Hills, Alberta. Mrs. Fred Ince, at Hampton, is a sister of the late Mr. Murray.

FALL IS RIGHT TIME TO CHECK FURNACE

With winter close at hand, the attention of homeowners is directed to that all-important feature of the dwelling, the heating plant. Boiler and heating pipes should be put into first-class condition for the winter. Repairs and alterations should be made in the fall without inconvenience to household routine. The type of servicing which a heating plant needs in the fall depends upon the type of furnace. Despit the advances in automatic heating, the great majority of home heating plants are still fired by hand. The inspection of a hand-fired heating plant should start with the grates. Broken or warped grates which permit unburned coal to drop into the ashes should be replaced. The condition of the firebox, the draft mechanism, the smoke-pipe, and chimney should be checked.

Missionary Arrives

REVEREND ALAN D. GREENE, Superintendent of the Columbia Coast Mission of the Anglican Church, will arrive in Charlottetown today and tonight, tomorrow and Thursday will tell the interesting story of his work. He will be in St. Mark's Hall, in St. Paul's Hall in Charlottetown. The following from the columns of the Canadian Churchman, from Kingstons, Ontario correspondent, indicates something of the quality of his lecture. The Rev. Alan D. Greene, superintendent of the Columbia Coast Mission, delivered a magnificent address before an audience at St. George's Hall, on Thursday night, October 13th. The beautiful motion picture which accompanied the descriptive address were most vivid and enlightening giving all present an insight into the important work being done on Canada's coast.

BURDETT-LEARD WEDDING

On September 21st, at six o'clock p.m., the United Church, St. John's, was the scene of a very pretty wedding when Helen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Burdett, Straehone, became the bride of Joseph Leard, son of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Leard, Lorne Valley, the officiating clergyman being Rev. S. J. Boyce. The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March played by Miss Eleanor Douglas, cousin of the groom, looked charming in a gown of white satin with rhinestone trimming fashioned on princess lines. She wore a full length veil consisting of snapdragons and sweet peas with ferns. The bridegroom wore a tuxedo with a white shirt and a white bow tie. The groom was supported by Ralph Burdett, brother of the bride. During the signing of the register, the solo "O Perfect Love" was beautifully rendered by Walter Burdett, father of the bride. The church, which was artistically decorated for the occasion with potted plants and garden flowers, was filled to capacity with friends and relatives who came from far and near. After the ceremony the bridal party motored to the home of the groom where a wedding supper was served to upwards of two hundred guests. The home was nicely decorated with pink and white. After the wedding supper, the remainder of the evening was spent

Grace Moore at Prince Edward

Mark up another great singing triumph for golden-voiced Grace Moore. Sponsored by the Catholic Women's League. "I'll Take Romance," opened yesterday at the Prince Edward Theatre and is revealed as the most important screen musical to come out of Hollywood since Grace Moore made "Olympic Love." Here is musical entertainment to whet the most avid appetites. Here is a picture that scales the musical walls from "She'll Be Comin' Round the Mountain When She Comes" to four arias from the most celebrated operas. "I'll Take Romance" is a rollicking story in the humorous vein of Miss Moore's recent "When You're in Love." A delightful tongue-in-cheek tale, it tells of an opera singer, completely dominated by a roomer, who plots to break a contract to sing in Buenos Aires in order to accept one to appear in Paris. Jim Guthrie, a transplanted American, comes from the Argentine with his benchwarmer, Pancho Brownelles (born in Brooklyn), and things begin to happen. Melvyn Douglas plays Guthrie and as usual proves himself the master of light comedy. Stuart Erwin was never funnier than as Pancho Brownelles. Helen Westley is the impetuous ex-opera singer and Margaret Hamilton does a fine comedy job with the role of Margot, Miss Terry's maid. Others in the excellent cast are Richard C. Estlin, Muir, Ferdinand Gottschalk and Walter Kinsley. Among the operatic numbers Miss Moore sings in "I'll Take Romance" are the Drinking Song from "Traviata," the finale of the third act from "Martha," the Gavotte from "Manon" and the duet from "Madame Butterfly." In which Frank Forest does an excellent singing job as Pinkerton. The theme number of the picture, "I'll Take Romance" written by Ben Oakland and Oscar Hammerstein II, will be heard for months on the air waves and elsewhere. It is a beautiful waltz song, that should rival in popularity the unforgettable "One Night of Love."

"Main Street" with the lid off forms the exciting and humorous setting for "Scandal Street," the new Paramount picture which opens today at the Capitol Theatre with Lew Ayres and Louise Campbell topping an all-star cast. Rescue Karna, Porter Hall, Edgar Kennedy and Elizabeth Patterson are seen in this story of how jealousy traps a beautiful young girl in a murder scandal. Louise Campbell is the girl in the case, those alarming accidents and charm upset the ordinary quiet and security of "Midburg." Alarmed at having such an attractive stranger brought into daily contact with their susceptible husbands, the resourceful wives of the community keep their minds alert and their tongues active about the comings and goings of the beautiful stranger. When circumstantial evidence points to the girl as the guilty party to a mysterious murder, and all their worst suspicions are confirmed and she is charged with convicting her before her trial. It takes more than ordinary proof of innocence to break down this prejudice. Ayres plays the bell's display of fighting spirit winds up the picture with a whirlwind climax. Lew Ayres plays Miss Campbell's loyal fiancé, who rescues her from the clutches of scandal and intrigue with the help of impish little Virginia Weldler, another member of the unusually well-chosen cast.

SAY WOMEN LACK MUSCLE BALANCE LONDON, Oct. 31.—(CP)—To be perfectly certain the new fashion will be properly displayed by the British public, the Chartered Society of Massage and Medical Gymnastics members held a congress and discussed such subjects as posture and balance. The consensus appeared to be that most women do not know how to walk or sit properly. That six of 10 lack "muscle-balance" so they "flap" most ungracefully. It was remarked that the experts of massage and medical gymnastics, the name given to muscular exercises in the treatment of specific complaints, were for the most part middle-aged women with calm eyes, soothing manners and capable-looking hands.
