POSSIBILITIES OF THE AIR OUTLINED

By Sir Samuel Hoare, British Air Minister, Before the Imperial Conference.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—From London to Canada in two and a half days, to India in five days, to Cape Town in six days, to Australia in 11 days, and to New Zealand in 13 days; these are the possibilities of the air which Sir Samuel Hoare, British air minister, submitted to the Imperial Conference today.

There is today no technical or operational reason, Sir Samuel declared, why, by aeroplane or airship, London should not be brought within a fortnight of the farthest cities and territories of the Empire.

Sir Samuel devoted himself to civil aviation and proposed the organization of long-distance empire air routes beginning in the Far East, and from Australia to Cape Town on the Mosata plan. "We must," he said, "each of us insert our particular stone in the design."

Co-operation Involved His proposal, Sir Samuel said, involved no subsidy. It involved nothing more than co-operation between one government and another and between military and service flying.

He held that the airship would carry out the long-distance, non-stop air journeys of the future and indicated that two airships were now being built in England which should, with a normal load of freight and passengers, be able to fly without re-fuelling in good weather a distance of 4,000 miles.

Planes and Airship Useful The aeroplane and airship were really complementary to each other, the British Air Minister said, and it was necessary to organize both along the lines of long-distance flying.

Canada Allows Pacific Cable To Be Landed

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Premier King of Canada called Ottawa today, to permit the landing of the duplicate Pacific cable, for testing purposes only. The ship carrying the cable had arrived off the Pacific coast, but was unable to land the cable owing to the prohibition imposed by the postmaster-general. The power to forbid its landing was Canada's weapon to compel the cable board to recognize the validity of its claims.

After daily conferences with Lieut.-Col. L.C.S. Amery, secretary of the dominions, and Coates of New Zealand, Mr. King decided to permit the landing of the cable, without prejudice to Canada's case. No definite decisions will be reached on this problem by this conference, but Premier King felt that no good could be accomplished by keeping the cable ship at bay, seeing that the cable has been laid.

Into the handle the artistic guardsman had skillfully cut the features of his general with several episodes of the recent battle. CANNOT EXPLAIN LIFE ON MATERIALISTIC GROUNDS

So Asserts Dr. Allan Craig, Associate Director of the American College of Surgeons.

MONTREAL, Nov. 3.—"Despite all our scientific knowledge, life cannot be explained on materialistic grounds," Dr. Allan Craig, associate director of the American College of Surgeons, asserted during the course of a discussion of whether medical science and religion were diametrically opposing forces before the Congress of that body here today.

"Its the spirit within him that makes the man supreme in the world and allows him to control materialistic things. Medical science and religion are complementary to each other. One always feels sorry for an individual who cannot visualize anything in life beyond what he can see in a test tube or under a microscope; who cannot appreciate the spirit within."

Remains of Tropical Forest Found In B. C.

QUESNEL, B. C., Nov. 3.—The central region of British Columbia known as the Cariboo country was once a jungleland of dense tropical forest containing enormous trees comparable in size with the giant sequoias of California. That is the theory of men who have been drilling in the bed of Devil's Canyon Lake, near Barkerville, for gold. A gant of debris under John Rolin, working 100 feet below the lake, came upon the remains of a huge tree. Nels Nelson, one of the partners in the gold mining operation, was formerly a game warden in the Yellowstone National Park, home of the giant California redwood or sequoia, said to be the largest tree in the world, and he states that the tree found in the lake bed is quite as large as any he ever saw in California.

Rains And Floods To Benefit Farm Soils

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 3.—The silver lining of the rain clouds that poured tons of water over each Iowa acre during September will be visible to farmers of the state when next year's crops are harvested. A few weeks ago, flooded streams and inundated lowlands foretold huge crop losses. But cheering statements from experienced observers indicate that this year's scattered losses will be offset by many indirect benefits through the replenishing of the water reservoir. For many years the water reserve has been depleted. Scarcity of top soil water has interfered with crop growth and the gradual lowering of the permanent ground water level has caused shortage of well water.
