MAKES MAJOR

"We mean to get the people free, so far as possible and as soon as possible, from wrong-headed planning and from official interference with our daily life and work," he said.

"Our Tory (Conservative) faith is that the gifts and genius of our men and women, if released, will not be found unequal to the first task and duty of every community, namely to earn its daily bread."

The crowd that jammed the stadium gave Churchill a hearty reception. He waved his high-crowned derby and, with his inevitable cigar jutting from his lips, gave the V-for-Victory sign.

A Costly Fallacy

Churchill said Socialism is a costly fallacy and "the most direct expression, nationalization, is a failure."

The Socialists "have brought Great Britain low alike in prosperity and reputation, both at home and abroad," he said.

"They have squandered the reserves and resources which had been gathered in the past and have darkened and narrowed the future of every man, woman and child in this famous island."

"It is all the more amazing that they should have brought us down like this and given us such hard times during four years when they have not only been eating up our savings but have enjoyed the enormous advantage of outside help on a

Believe Dog Walked 2,000 Miles To Master

SEATTLE, July 23 (AP)—Schultz, a German shepherd dog apparently hooped it some 2,000 miles from Wakarusa, Ind., to Seattle to be with his owner, Pte Richard B. Anthony.

Anthony shipped the dog to his mother in Wakarusa three weeks ago, because Schultz couldn't get along with "Blackie" the mascot dog at the United States marine base where Anthony is stationed.

His mother wrote him that Schultz escaped about July 1. The marine recruiting office said Schultz served with the marines in China. He wears an identification card bearing his own picture and serial number.

Schultz was in good shape on arrival here, except that his toenails were worn down.

scale never known in the history of any country in times of peace.

"The United States and the Dominion of Canada together have given to us subsidies which amount to nearly $2,000,000,000 ($1,750,000,000 and $250,000,000) over to this island by loan or gift from these two great capitalist countries, who also have their own troubles and burdens to bear."

"Our Socialists spendthrifts and muddlers have dissipated every overseas asset they could lay their hands on and, in addition, have exacted and extracted from our people a higher rate of taxation than was required at the very height of the war."

Churchill said the sterling area's gold and dollar holdings of $1,624,000,000 (as of June 30) "are the last reserves that stand between us and insolvency."

"The present Government," he said, "have obviously no effective plan for dealing with this imminent peril."

Britain Lags

Churchill said the greatest help Britain can give the world "is to stand erect in her native strength."

Every country west of the Iron Curtain had made a better post-war comeback than Britain, even defeated Italy and Germany.

The Conservative leader charged that "nationalization spells the doom of trade unionism" and that the workers themselves in nationalized industries are far from content because of the wage freeze, rising costs and loss of freedom of bargaining power by union leaders.

Labor unions form the backbone of the Labor Party.

"It is impossible to undo the harm that has been done by nationalization," he said, but a Conservative Government would decentralize the management of industries already under state control, such as coal and railways, and stop further steps in the same

Anniversary Services At Zion Church

By Douglas How
OTTAWA, July 24 (CP)—There is one man you're going to hear more of in this Parliament than in the last one. He's that emancipated man, the Liberal backbencher, the so-called private member.

He'll take a more prominent role for two reasons—there are more of him and the pressure of the last four years is off. Further, sheer statistics place on him a responsibility for criticism that was lacking before.

Of the 193 Liberals who take their places for the first session of the new Commons in September at least 150 will not have the elevated status of a Cabinet Minister, Parliamentary Assistant, Speaker, or Whip.

A few will come into lesser honors such as chairing committees or the party caucus, but there will still be scores who have no duty other than looking after their ridings and saying their piece.

In the last Parliament it was a matter of Cabinet pride that the average Liberal talked considerably less than the average opposition member. But there were reasons for that which sometimes rankled the Liberal backbencher whose eulogy was being sung.

Because the Party's overall majority was so slim—six at the end—it just didn't do for him to go exploring all over the place.

The result was that he listened to his Opposition counterpart fashion a reputation for eloquence or zeal that was denied him.

How, however, the situation is different. The old Liberal backbencher was a man of considerable backroom influence and muted public eloquence. Higher war pensions and slashed taxes are monuments to his fears and insistence. But not one of his number achieved much fame for debate.

The new version will have no great personal influence. His single vote will count for little when the Government could conceivably suffer the disaffection of dozens of supporters and still rule.

This will give both great power and great responsibility to the Cabinet. But the backbencher will be able to get up and talk and, sometimes, say just what he thinks, and the folks back home will hear what he has to say.

direction.

"We intend to humanize rather than nationalize industry," Churchill said. "We believe in collective bargaining and the right to strike. We believe in independence of the trade union movement from Government policy."

Thinking. They will embody both British and American ideas, fitted to Canadian requirements, and they will have both British asdic and American radar equipment to help hunt the new type of subs.

Faster Than 20 Knots. Their speed will be "considerably in excess" of the frigate's 20 knots, in speed in maneuverability, weapons and what the navy calls "habitability" they will fill all the requirements of their class for modern sea warfare.

The only argument not designed for sub-hunting will be two turrets equipped with rapid-firing anti-aircraft rifles. They will be compartmented in such a way that two torpedo hits will not sink them unless they reach the magazine.

Like the earliest destroyers, they will be flush-decked, that is, the hull will flow in an unbroken line from end to end.

Resuscitators at Strategic Points in the National Park

Life Guard Resuscitation Shelter—in the above picture—is practicing the use of a resuscitator on Life Guard William MacDonald. This demonstration was carried out under the direction of Dr. L. E. Frowse at the Red Cross Swimming and Water Safety Instructors' School. Mr. Atkinson, Superintendent of the National Parks reports that three of those resuscitator-inhalator machines have been purchased by the Department of Mines and Resources for use along the North Shore Beaches. One is placed at Dalvoy, one at Brackley and the third at Cavendish Beach.

The Life Guards have been trained in the use of this equipment and are ready to administer treatment in any emergency. Besides the instruction in operation of the resuscitators all the Life Guards are well trained in the skill of artificial respiration.

is located just above deck level, on the low, streamlined aluminum superstructure.

Aluminum will be used on a larger scale than ever before in a fighting ship. Elaborate masts have been abolished in favor of a streamlined aluminum tube, which will support radar and wireless antenna and needs no bracing.

One of the basic ideas in building the new craft was to produce a vessel that could be turned out on a mass-production basis in the event of an emergency, as corvettes and frigates were in the Second World War.

The crew will sleep in American-style bunks, marking abandonment for the first time by the R. C. N. of British-style hammocks. Messing will be cafeteria-style. The ship will be equipped with built-in cinema projection unit and all working and living quarters will be air-conditioned.

In testifying before the committee earlier this month, Attorney General Tom Clark disclosed that more than a score of U. N. employees are being investigated by the Justice Department.

The House of Representatives committee on un-American affairs also has indicated it will broaden its anti-Communist investigations to discover whether spies are using the U. N. as an avenue of entry into the United States.

Husband Takes Life As Wife, Son Wait

NORANDA, Que., July 24—(CP)—While his wife and 20-month-old son awaited him in Thorburn, N.S., Angus McEachern, 38-year-old miner of this Quebec northwestern mining district town, built a scaffold and hanged himself.

The body was discovered during the week-end by Loridan Chouinard, 14-year-old telegraph messenger who noticed a note he left at McEachern's door the previous day was still there. He was delivering a telegram from Mrs. McEachern asking her husband to join her in Thorburn as soon as possible.

Calls Conservative

Prime Minister said: "The Conservative Party has never been able to put forward a real alternative policy to that of the Labor Party. I shudder to think what would have happened had they been in control."

Speaking at the same meeting, Herbert Morrison, Deputy Prime Minister and chief Labor Party organizer, refused to give any hint of the date of the next general election.

"I can only tell you that it is bound to be sometime between now and August, 1950" when the Government's term of office expires, he said.

Attlee had a special thrust for Winston Churchill, the Conservative Party leader.

"The strength of Churchill's language is in inverse ratio to his knowledge of the subject," the Prime Minister said. "It is unfortunate that his words are taken at their face value in other countries. They just don't realize it is just Winnie's sentiments."

The last four years, since Labor came into office, had been years of great difficulty and great achievement.
