Christianity In The Changing World

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire)

TRURO, N. S. Feb. 4.—Society today was such that one could not lead a Christian life, Rev. J. King Gordon of Toronto told an audience in the first United Church here. He was speaking on "Christianity in the changing world."

Urging the church to act quickly to make society an environment where one could follow the teachings of Christ, he stated Norway and Denmark were more advanced socially than America.

Referring to unemployment, the speaker said it was not altogether a product of the depression but had been in existence before 1929, as were poor housing conditions and under-nourishment.

ESKIMOS START LONG CHESS TILT

KING ISLAND, Alaska, Feb. 3.—Eskimos of King Island, where an all-night session would last four months, were launched on their annual chess tournament today. They play through most of the four months of darkness.

The Eskimo version of chess, said to have been introduced by Explorer Vjaldermer Stefansen, replaces the king with a sea lion, the bishop with a walrus, the knight with a bear and the castle with an igloo. The chess-men are carved from walrus ivory.

Looking For Relatives Of Great War Vet.

(P. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—The body of William Duane, described as an artist and member of the Black Watch during the Great War, lay in the Morgue here today while the British War Veterans Association attempted to find relatives believed resident in Canada.

Three Buried In Single Grave

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) THREE RIVERS, Que., Feb. 4.—A single grave in the English cemetery today received the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis Thompson and their three-year-old daughter Patricia, burned to death there Saturday.

D. S. Baxter, druggist and father of Mrs. Thompson, was still in hospital with injuries received during the fire that destroyed his home and killed his daughter, son-in-law and granddaughter.

Among the large group attending the funeral were Chief Gariepy of Parliament for Three Rivers, Mayor G. H. Robichon and Aldermen Robert Ryan, Joseph Guay and Herve Turcotte.

Chief mourner was Archibald Thompson, father of Jarvis Thompson. Rev. W. G. Jones of St. Andrew's Church conducted the ceremony. Canon G. H. A. Murray also attended.

RUSH LOBSTERS TO MARKETS

YARMOUTH, N. S. Feb. 3.—The advent of another lobster season finds local and south shore fish dealers planning for speedier delivery of lobsters to the Boston market.

Through co-operative efforts of shore fishermen a collection boat, picking up lobsters from Clark's Harbour, Tusket Island and inter-lake, will leave here for Boston each afternoon, delivery being scheduled for the following morning.

12 RIOTERS BANISHED AT KINGSTOWN

Sequel To October Disorders On Island Of St. Vincent, B.W.I.

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) KINGSTOWN, St. Vincent, Feb. 3.—(C. P. Cable)—Lifting of a rigid government censorship tonight disclosed that 12 of 26 persons convicted of participating in the fatal October riots had been banished to the nearby island of Grenada.

A state of emergency, declared in the colony while the prisoners were tried before Judge G. C. Williams, whose car had been smashed by the rioters, was continued tonight as groups of natives discussed the sentences.

No outbreaks of violence occurred, however, and the police did not anticipate any serious trouble.

Starting in Kingston, Oct. 21, when the rioters surrounded Governor Sir Selwyn Grier in front of the courthouse, the disorders continued for three days, spreading over the island.

Police bullets killed three rioters and wounded eight others in Kingston the first night. The arrival of H. M. S. Challenger to enforce martial law brought comparative quiet to the capital but raiding and looting continued in nearby settlements.

Communication between Kingston and the rest of the island was cut off after the rioters tore down the Camden Park Bridge, leading to the Leeward district and blocked an underground passage to the Windward district, besides disrupting telephone lines.

Governor Grier, who had come from Grenada on an official visit, was not molested after he had promised to receive a delegation to discuss workers' problems, but Hon. A. F. Grimble, administrative and colonial secretary, was slightly injured during the disturbances.

The chief of police, six of his officers and one prison warden were injured in the clashes which brought death to three of the rioters.

Cars owned by the Administrator, Judge Williams and other government officials were wrecked, and the homes of Attorney-General C. C. Ross and Hon. F. A. Corea were robbed.

Reports of occurrences after the first outbreak were more due to a censorship on all newspapers published in or exported from the island, with the Administrator as press censor.

The Administrator, Hon. Mr. Grimble, leaves St. Vincent March 3 to take a post in the Seychelle Islands, and it is unofficially reported here that he will be succeeded by a son of Sir John Davidson.

It is also reported Sir Selwyn Grier, Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the Windward Islands with headquarters in Grenada, will retire soon because of eye trouble.

Because of lack of evidence both 29 were held for trial before Judge Williams. Meanwhile Governor Grier's anti-rioting bill was passed by the St. Vincent legislative council and became law Nov. 16. The bill prohibited (1) false statements or misstatements of facts tended to arouse excitement or dislike or discontent with the government, (2) the excitement of persons or class of persons to procure alteration of any law by otherwise than lawful means; (3) the teaching or advocating of opposition to organized government by "writing, printing, composing, making or possessing publications deemed seditious."

Penalty of $5,000 fine and two years in jail was provided for any infractions and police were authorized to enter any buildings under warrant and use any force necessary to search for prohibited publications.

One of the most sensational cases arising out of the October riots involved the arrest of George A. McIntosh, Kingston druggist, who was twice chairman of the town board and formerly a member of the electricity supply authority, on charges of treason and felony. After a five-day trial that ended in acquittal of the accused hundreds of negroes paraded the streets of the capital.

During the trial armed police attended court, and rifles were stacked in the magistrate's office.

Indian, Now 109, Recalls Fights For Good Queen

(By The Canadian Press) NORTH BAY, Ont. Feb. 3.—Semo Commanda of the Beauséjour Indian Reserve, booked for his 109th birthday Feb. 4 next, has lived in the reign of five Great White Path-ners beginning with George IV and that of the Great White Mother, Queen Victoria. He proudly remembers he fought for the "Good Queen" in the suppression of 1870.

Even at that Semo does not claim to be the oldest man in the North Bay district. For instance, there is John Birch who will be 113 if he lives to his next birthday—June 4. John was born in Sebasteopol, Russia, in 1823. His fellow centenarians first saw the light in 1827, a paucity in an Indian settlement on the St. Lawrence River, below the city of Quebec.

Three years later the Commanda family, connected with the Ottawa tribe of Iroquois, migrated to this district, making the trip by canoe, via the mighty St. Lawrence and the Ottawa and at that time they could not paddle. Semo has acknowledged many chiefs of the Ottawa during his 109 years. He was himself a chief on the Nipissing Indian reserve for 20 years.

The centenarian red man recalls the great attraction of any country to the people of his youth was the plenteousness of fish and game. The Ottawa found this in their new northland. They little thought, now would they have cared to know, that the rocky hunting grounds over which they roved were billions rich in the gold, silver and nickel so precious to the oncoming white man.

Despite his years Semo is in many ways bright and alert. Mentally clear he can tell you there were no Indian wars in the Nipissing in his time and the only offence he bore arms was in defence of the white man's government in the Canadian north-west. He recalls various steps in the development of Northern Ontario from the arrival of the lumbermen about 1860, the coming of the "iron horse" opening up with the country in the 80s, the great mining rushes to these parts starting with the present century.

Not so active physically as he used to be, Semo Commanda depends quite a bit on his wife, aged 70, to help him around. From his two marriages there have been a number of children—the wife says eight.

The aged Indian enjoys his smoke. His close companion is a briar pipe. He has used tobacco as long as he can remember.

Mrs. Guzler—The friend who gave me the recipe for this soup is in great trouble.

Mr. Guzler—Then, out of respect, let's drink it in silence.

Persian Balm is the one true family aid for skin health and beauty. Aids the mother in additional loveliness. Protects the tender skin of the child. Delights the father as a hair fixative or cooling shaving lotion. No matter to what use it is put, it is always beneficial to the skin. Every woman should use it. Persian Balm cools and caresses the skin and creates complexities of surpassing loveliness.

Air-conditioning For Canadian Railways

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 3.—Canadian railways are making arrangements to introduce air-conditioning into their train services. This was announced today in a joint statement issued by the management of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways, and the coming summer will see several trains so equipped on the more heavily travelled lines of both companies. The work of air conditioning present equipment will be undertaken gradually so that the types of air-conditioning devices used will be the best and latest obtainable.

The air-conditioning equipment will be operated throughout the year, adding to the comfort of passengers during both winter and summer. The object is to have the air in passenger cars clean and pure at all times and the temperature agreeable, irrespective of the winter or mid-summer temperatures which may exist outside of the cars. It is the aim to eliminate dirt and dust entirely and reduce noise to a minimum. Committees of mechanical and train officers of the two Canadian railway systems have been quietly but thoroughly making investigations of air-conditioning devices for passenger equipment for a considerable time, studying in particular the success obtained with the various types which have been used, determining their relative efficiency, economy, etc.

The railroad officers state that they early recognized that air-conditioning will eventually be in common use, and their researches have been made with a view to ensuring for travellers in Canada air-conditioning which would embody all the known improvements. After being cleaned, cooled or heated to the desired temperature, the air is released into the cars through special ducts to avoid drafts, and ventilators pass out the used air. Air-tight windows and doors are necessary in successful air-conditioning and also to eliminate dirt and reduce noise.

The work of installing the air-conditioning equipment on Canadian National and Canadian Pacific cars is now going forward. The question of what class of cars will first receive the new type of equipment is also being considered. For the present year it is likely to be confined to sleeping, parlour and observation cars. It is anticipated, however, that the air-conditioning will be gradually extended to practically all important main-line trains.

French Bank Head For Stabilization

PARIS, Feb. 3.—Stabilization of currencies of principal countries of the world, with subsequent re-estimation of international trade, was urged by Jean Tannery, governor of the Bank of France, as a method to return "universal prosperity."

Trade restrictions, monetary instability and exchange regulations, he said in his annual report to stockholders, "only delay the return of prosperity."

Two drives against the French franc—in May and November, 1935—had been influenced of a "purely psychological order" rather than essential weakness of his Government's currency.

Mining & Power Development

OTTAWA, Feb. 3.—Increased activity in the mining industry in 1935 was responsible for new hydro-electric installations in many parts of Canada according to the recent statement on water power development in the Dominion issued by Honourable T. A. Crerar, Minister of the Interior. Of the total new installations the principal additions served the mining industry in the Yukon Territory and in the provinces of British Columbia, Manitoba, and Ontario.

In Yukon Territory, the Yukon Consolidated Gold Corporation completed the installation of a 5,000-horse-power turbine in its plant on the north fork of the Klondike river, 26 miles from Dawson. This unit is similar to two units previously installed in the plant. The output is used in connection with the company's gold-dredging operations in the Klondike river and vicinity.

New water-power installations in British Columbia during the year were confined to two, both in connection with the mining industry. Bullion Mines Limited completed and put into operation a 500-h.p. placer gold operations at the Bullion mine near Hydraulic, B. C. The company also has under contemplation the construction of a hydro pumping plant to use the waters of the south fork of the Bulkley river. Pioneer Gold Mines installed a 380-h.p. water-wheel in place of the former wheel of 100 h.p. A number of other new installations are in contemplation in British Columbia, those growing out of the development of mining including a proposed addition by the British Columbia Nickel Mines of another 2,000-h.p. to its plant by developing Emory creek, and the Bayonne Consolidated Mines' contemplated construction of a power project of 75 h.p. on Summit creek near Tye, B.C.

In Manitoba, the Gods Lake Mining Company completed and placed in operation a 1,000-h.p. hydro-electric plant at Kanuchuan rapids on Island Lake river. The power is carried to the company's mine over a 41-mile transmission line. The Mining Corporation of Canada which operates the Laguna Mines at Herb Lake, installed two Diesel

France Seeks To Strengthen Fortifications

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK (C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) PARIS, Feb. 4.—Unwritten agreements were sought by France in further diplomatic conversations today to aid in keeping German's reinforced army from stepping over the frontiers, particularly toward Austria.

Pierre-Etienne Flaudin, foreign minister, talked to King Boris of Bulgaria and the foreign ministers of Turkey, Lithuania and Albania. Prince Paul, recent of Yugoslavia, and Vice-Chancellor Ernst Von Starbemburg of Austria are on his calling list tomorrow.

Economic reinforcement of Balkan and Danubian countries to keep them politically stable against Nazi influence apparently is an important item in the talks of the diplomat, although a definite plan of action is lacking.

Turkey, informed quarters said, has dropped the idea of fortifying the Dardanelles, which would constitute a treaty violation, to avoid setting a precedent for Germany's rumored ambition to re-occupy the Rhineland.

King Boris was understood to have assured Flaudin that Bulgaria will follow the league in whatever it does to protect its members.

The question of defining "collective security" obligations by fixing sanctions procedure for the future in the light of the League's experience with Italy was said to have been raised in the talks but with little likelihood of its advancing.

A promised Danubian pact, it was reliably reported, was shelved again until Italy, one of the key nations in its framework, can turn her attention from the Ethiopian war back to Europe.

Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet Commissioner for Foreign Affairs, is said to have balked at the idea of Russia replacing Italy in a promise to fight off Nazi ambitions in Austria. He is believed to have told Flaudin that the Soviets consider league obligation of joint action aggressors to be as far as they can go.

Italy Is Buying Much Petroleum

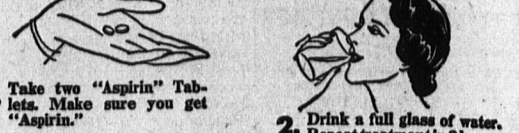

GENEVA, Feb. 3.—Reports were current in League of Nations circles that Premier Mussolini, getting ready for a possible shortage of oil, is steadily purchasing huge quantities of petroleum and its by-products from oil-producing countries.

The reports apparently were based on the fact that trade statistics of various countries dealing with Italy have shown heavy increases in the shipment of oil to the Fascist state in recent weeks. Rumania was mentioned as one of the sources of Italian supply.

League officials said there was no reason why sanctioning countries should cut off their oil sales to Italy.

2 Things That Combat Colds Like Magic!

Ask Any Doctor . . . Then Follow Simple Directions Pictured Below. Quickest, Simplest Way

1. Take two "Aspirin" Tablets. Make sure you get "Aspirin". 2. Drink a full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours. Instead of using fancy priced "cold remedies" try the new-day cold treatment pictured here. Your own doctor will approve it. It will start easing the average cold or sore throat almost as fast as you can get it. The "Aspirin" you take will start combating your cold internally at once; if throat is sore, crush and stir 3 "Aspirin" Tablets in a third of a glass of water; gargle twice. Do not rinse mouth. "Aspirin" Tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trade-mark of the Bayer Company, Limited. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

Veterans Recall Egyptian Battle

(By The Canadian Press) EDMONTON, Feb. 3.—Three veterans met here in mid-January and recalled the part they took 51 years ago in the battle at Abu Klea, Egyptian Sudan, when 1500 Britishers fought off 5,000 fanatical followers of the Mahdi.

"That was one of the hottest days of my life," said Major J. B. Claxton, "plenty of action and the heat turned on right proper."

Claxton, with George Keeley and George Stainsby, of Edmonton, were members of the Camel Corps which took a decisive part in the battle. The trio, members of cavalry units transformed into the newly organized Camel Corps, were with the Mahdi in the desert, when the Mahdi hurled his followers into the compound. The British troops hastily threw themselves into square formation, and resisted every onslaught.

Efforts of the relief column to reach the beleaguered General Gordon in Khartoum led to the battle. To avoid a large loop in the Nile, the only means of communication, the Camel Corps was dispatched across the desert by Lord Wolseley. At Abu Klea, a group of wells near Metemneh, it was attacked by the followers of the Mad Mullah. Under the brilliant leadership of Sir Herbert Stewart the column extricated itself from a dangerous position, but two days later at Abu Kru another attack saw the British leader mortally wounded.

"We could have done with a little snow then," the veterans recalled, "and we'd have made a fortune if we had this weather on tap."

Although the column fought its way almost to within sight of Khartoum, it was too late to save General Gordon, who had already fallen under the spears of the religion-crazed natives.
