PREMIER DRURY OF ONTARIO RECOMMENDS BROADENING

Farmers of Ontario, he said, do Not Want ... Class Legislation and if the Party is to Continue in Office it Must Broaden out To Include other Classes.

(Special to the Guardian.)
CHATHAM, Ont., Dec. 4.—In a speech delivered here last night, Mr. Drury, Premier of Ontario, made plain admission that farmers, members of the Independent Labor party cannot continue as U. F. O. and Labor Government in this Province. Preparation of such a union, he said, is not in line with public opinion. The farmers of Ontario, he declared, did not want class legislation or administration, but did want a fair, honest administration of the affairs of the country in the interests of all the people of the province. "I am going to say something," he declared, "which will not be approved of by all the members of the United Farmers of Ontario but if we are to continue in office and fulfill our greatest mission, the Government of the U. F. O. has got to branch out and broaden out. The old name of the party, if it continues in office, will disappear of necessity and if I were choosing a new name to be adopted, I would christen it not a Farmers Party but 'The People's Progressive Party', to take in everyone. Before long we've have to develop into a real People's Party. Farmers will still have representation in that party and they will stand for the ideals they started out with when they went out to get into power but others will be represented as well and the platform of the party will have to be one which the party desires to see carried out not one to be used merely for the purpose of obtaining office.

FREDERICTON CITIZENS DID NOT LET CRAWFORD SPEAK

(Special to the Guardian.)
FREDERICTON, Dec. 4.—Lindsay Crawford, Toronto, National President of Self Determination for Ireland League was not allowed to speak here last night at a public meeting at St. Dunstan's Hall. He began his address but was interrupted by C.R. Hawkins who stated he had three questions which had been prepared at a public meeting held just previous to Mr. Crawford's meeting, which answers either "Yes" or "no" were requested from him.
The first question was to the effect, whether the separation of Ireland from the British Empire and the establishment of an Irish Republic, was one of the objects of Self Determination of Ireland League. Crawford's answer was "emphatically no."
The second question: Are you or Self Determination of Ireland League associated with De Valera, so-called President of the Irish Republic. Crawford's reply was to the following effect: "Insofar as Self Determination goes, our objects go no further. We are friends of all who sympathize with Irish freedom."
This reply was followed by numerous interruptions and calls that the question be answered yes or no. Hon. P. J. Venoit, chairman of the meeting remarked at this juncture that if those making the demonstration were aware of the resolutions passed at a Dominion convention for Ireland League, they would accept Mr. Crawford's answer. It became returned soldiers, led by those who were not returned men, to attempt to prevent a man from speaking. Hawkins demanded the retraction of the statement that he or any other returned men were led by those who were not returned men.
Mr. Venoit stated his meaning was not that returned men were led in their opinions by those not returned men, but that they had been led to the hall by them. He could give the names if they were required. He would ask the privilege that Mr. Crawford be heard. Singing "Rule Britannia" interrupted him. If this is British Freedom, said Mr. Crawford who was on his feet, there is no wonder that there is an Irish problem. It is a matter of indifference to me whether you give me the right to speak in this city or not. Mr. Venoit said he regretted that in the capital city of New Brunswick it was impossible to find sufficient courtesy to enable Mr. Crawford to be heard. He then closed the meeting and requested the audience to disperse. "God Save the King" was sung by all the audience standing.

Malden, Mass., Dec. 3.—William R. Hanson, a janitor was telling fellow employees at a drug store here today what he would do with the million dollars that Charles Garland, of Buzzard's Bay has refused when a postman gave him a letter stating that he was heir to about a quarter of a million. Between times he intends to smoke good cigars and have an automobile to take him out in the country for week-ends. ## Fitting Tributes to Late Canon Simpson

At St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday morning fitting tribute was paid to the life and work of the late Canon Simpson by the preacher, Archdeacon Watson, taking as the text of his sermon, Luke XIX: 13.—"Occupy Till I Come."
The Archdeacon spoke of life with all its possibilities and powers as a stewardship, a sacred trust, and pointed out that it was required of a steward, that above all things, he be found faithful, and that he would sooner or later be required to give an account of his stewardship.
All the God-given powers of mind and soul are ours, not to be wasted, but cultivated and used in earnest service. The many opportunities of doing good are ours to be improved. The common tasks of every day life are not to be despised, or neglected even through opportunity small and trivial. Often the smallest tasks furnish the truest test of character and may be the means of the highest discipline fitting men for more difficult or higher service.
The great truths of religion, so often questioned or neglected are entrusted to our care, that we may live them and hand them on to others. Ours to defend and guard against attack by foes, or misinterpretation by mistaken friends. The many means of grace, prayer, sacrament, study of the Divine Word the services and discipline of the Church are ours for use; not as ends in themselves, but as spiritual food whereby we may attain to nobler character and become increasingly fit for the service of the Master.
True success in life is faithful-ness to the Divine trust; and the worst failure is that the possibilities of our life should be lost and wasted through our own faithlessness.

LONE PILOT STEERS FLAME SWEEP SHIP

KINGSTON, Ont. Dec. 5.—Emulating the heroic pilot of John Hay's well known poem, Jim Bludso, who, though in imminent peril of his life at the wheel of his burning vessel, declared that "he would hold her nose against the bank till the last gallon was ashore." Captain Thomas Sughrue, pilot of the steamer Schoolcraft, which was destroyed by fire this morning, remained at the wheel of his burning vessel until he had beached her on Wolfe Island.

However, unlike Jim Bludso crew, the crew of the Schoolcraft had taken to the lifeboats before the steamer was run on the beach, and the captain alone stayed with the ship. All but one escaped serious injury, but the fire had made such rapid headway that they were unable to secure any of their belongings. The Schoolcraft was on her way to Kingston from Montreal, where she had delivered a cargo of coal, and was going to the up for the winter, when suddenly and mysteriously flames burst out. The boat was at the lower end of Wolfe Island at the time.

Although the fire was quickly devouring the vessel, Captain Sughrue courageously stuck to his post until he was able to land "rich and dry." His bravery, however, failed to save the ship, which was completely destroyed. The crew, who numbers fourteen, escaped without injury with the exception of Mate Isaac Woolner, of Midland, Ont., who was slightly burned about the face.
