Mr. William C. Gould, a former resident of Summerside, was presented with an address and the freedom of the town of Summerside on Friday evening in the Council Chambers.

Mr. Gould, who was formerly on the staff of the Pioneer, when the paper was printed by hand went many years ago to Boston and carried on his printing trade there. He is with a large publishing house and has held the position of foreman for a number of years.

For twenty years Mr. Gould has come every year to spend his vacation in his old home town with his sister, Mrs. Claude Kenny.

In honour of his twentieth visit the Mayor and Councilors hit upon the pleasing thought of making Mr. Gould a freeman of the city. They met in the Council Chamber and the Mayor delivered an appropriate address bidding Mr. Gould welcome at all times to Summerside. He was glad to feel that Mr. Gould was still interested in his old home town, with a few more remarks the Mayor handed Mr. Gould the address signed by himself and all the Councilors, accompanied with a golden key.

Mr. Gould in reply said it gave him great pleasure to feel that he was welcome in his native town. He would always have very happy memories of Summerside and would treasure this evening as one of the most enjoyable he had ever spent. He hoped to be able to return again next year, but was afraid that the town would have grown so large under the capable leadership of Mayor Lidstone that the key which he had been given tonight would not fit.

However, no doubt he would be given a master key which would open the door however large the mansion had grown. He was delighted with the many improvements and especially the paved streets. He had noticed that with pride. Also the many fine residences which are continually being added to the town, and many other improvements. Mr. Gould left Summerside morning on return to Boston well pleased with his visit and promised to return again next year if all went well.—S.

MOUNT REVELSTOKE PARK

Mount Revelstoke National Park, British Columbia, situated above the clouds, is probably the highest park in the world. It covers an area of 100 square miles on the wide plateau which forms the summit of Mount Revelstoke. A new motor road to the top provides one of the most thrilling drives in the mountains. Known as the "Royal Drive" it has been included in the itinerary of every Royal party to tour Canada since the inception of the road. Ascending through heavy forest growth the view provided from the top is most spectacular.
