OTTAWA, March 24 (CP)—J. G. Macphail, 68, director of marine services and a public servant for more than 40 years, has gone on leave prior to retirement at his own request, it was announced Saturday.

A native of Prince Edward Island and graduate of Queen's University, he joined the department as a civil engineer in 1906, soon winning promotion to an administrative post as commissioner of lights.

In 1936 the announcement said Mr. Macphail's responsibilities were greatly increased when the Department of Railways and Canals and the Marine Department were amalgamated to form the Department of Transport. As chief of aids to navigation his duties included not only the lighthouse service but also supervision of seven harbor commissions, 300 public harbors and 2,000 government wharves.

It was largely due to his initiative and untiring energy that the Canadian Lighthouse Service is today recognized as one of the most efficient and well organized services in the world, the announcement added.

He was appointed director of marine services in 1940 and his war duties included requisitioning several Mrs. Gudmors' boats and other services. He also served on a number of war committees and boards.

In the 1943 King's birthday honours list he was made a companion of the Imperial Service Order (I.S.O.).

Mr. Macphail is the author of one book, "St. Andrew's Church Ottawa. The First Hundred Years."

He was married to Mrs. M. J. Macphail and has two children, a son and a daughter.

He was born in Prince Edward Island and spent his early years in that province.

He was educated at Queen's University and the University of Toronto.

He was a member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and the Royal Canadian Air Force.

He was a member of the Order of the British Empire and the Order of the Companions of the Order of St. Michael and St. George.

He was a member of the Order of the Companions of the Order of St. John and the Order of the Companions of the Order of St. Elizabeth.

He was a member of the Order of the Companions of the Order of St. George and the Order of the Companions of the Order of St. Andrew.

He was a member of the Order of the Companions of the Order of St. Peter and the Order of the Companions of the Order of St. Paul.

He was a member of the Order of the Companions of the Order of St. Nicholas and the Order of the Companions of the Order of St. Basil.

He was a member of the Order of the Companions of the Order of St. John the Baptist and the Order of the Companions of the Order of St. John the Evangelist.

He was a member of the Order of the Companions of the Order of St. John the Apostle and the Order of the Companions of the Order of St. John the Virgin.

He was a member of the Order of the Companions of the Order of St. John the Evangelist and the Order of the Companions of the Order of St. John the Baptist.

The death occurred in the Prince Edward Island Hospital Saturday night of Mrs. T. Roy Gudmors after an illness of several months, in her 44th year of age.

Mrs. Gudmors was Marion, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cobb Eastbrook of Boston, Mass., U.S.A. Early in life she moved with her family to make her home in this province.

Mrs. Gudmors attended Prince Street School and then pursued a business course in college here. A life long member of Trinity United Church, Mrs. Gudmors took a prominent part in church affairs, particularly those associated with the choir and young people, and for several years was a leader in youth organizations including Scouts and Cubs. Athletically inclined Mrs. Gudmors took an active part in sports, notably golf, bowling and badminton. In the latter sport she shared at one time the provincial ladies doubles championship.

During the war years Mrs. Gudmors actively gave of her time and efforts in promoting welfare work and assisting in the entertaining of overseas and other personnel of the armed services training here, particularly members of the Royal Air Force. She helped organize "house parties" at the Y.M.C.A. at which hundreds of airmen and their families were entertained and headed the knitting club which periodically visited the air station, and became known as "Mother Corner." Her activities along this line drew the commendation and praise of the commanding officer of the air station.

Mrs. Gudmors' unusual interest in the young brought her in close association with the Y.M.C.A. and for several years she was president of the Ladies' Auxiliary of that association.

She possessed a charming personality and a gifted singer. Mrs. Gudmors was well-known in musical circles and was particularly noted for her talent in this direction and her voice was heard on more than one occasion in the churches throughout the city and country.

No appeal for her services was made in vain. Mrs. Gudmors never failed to mourn her loss and her two young sons, Brian and Gordon, and one sister, Mrs. Harriett Farr, of Boston, Mass., who was present during her illness.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon from Trinity United Church, services starting at 2:30. Interment will be in the People's Cemetery.

Mrs. Gudmors is resting at her late home 224 Fowling Street.

OTTAWA, Ont., Mar. 24 (Special)—Dropping the easy-going tempo of the last 10 days, the House of Commons and Senate this week are getting down to business and adding special committee work to their duties in both houses.

In the House of Commons, W. Chester MacDermid, Progressive Conservative member for Queen's, has been named to the select committee to investigate war expenditures and the operation of the war assets corporation, and J. Watson MacNaughton, Liberal member for St. John's, has been appointed to the committee of standing orders of the Senate and to the Senate committee on the joint committee of both houses.

OTTAWA, March 24 (CP)—Canada's espionage investigation is expected within the next seven days to see at least two major steps, one of which may give the country its first all-round view of the case as it will unfold in the courts.

One step is appearance of the three interim reports of the Royal Commission that has been probing the ramifications of a network of Russian-directed agents for the better part of two months.

The second step hinges on the opening here of the preliminary hearing of Capt. Gordon Luman, 30, Ottawa, on seven charges of conspiracy to gather and communicate secret and confidential information to Russia. Behind him, the Crown is ready to proceed with hearings of six others—four men and two women—linked with the same network.

Luman's appearance will open a third court front. One is in London where Dr. David Nunn, a British scientist recently returned from Canada, is on trial. The other is in Montreal where preliminary hearings against Fred Rose, Labor Progressive M.P., has begun.

Action against Igor Kouzenko, former cipher clerk in the Russian Embassy, in revealing dozens of names, added to the charges, in a testimony taken at Montreal has opened the possibility of further arrests. However, none had been reported today. Fifteen persons now have been detained.

Two of the men Kouzenko named—Eric of the Adams and James Scott Luman—were among the five still held without charge and expected to be named in the third interim report, it was learned on high authority.
