Mrs. Marginson and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil McCullough with whom the young airman visited represented his family. There were many floral tributes, which bear mute testimony of the high esteem and friendship shown by his newly found friends He was known and respected as a boy of a very fine Christian character, a thorough gentleman and soldier. He was very musical and sang in the Anglican Church at Truro and also in St. Mary's Church, S'Side. Further details of his untimely death have been received in S'Side. He was on night duty and was working on one of the planes, standing on a ladder. In some unaccountable way he slipped and fell striking his head on the concrete, causing a fracture of the skull. He died in hospital two hours later. He had been through the evacuation of Dunkirk only to meet his death in Canada. During his sojourn in Summerside he made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Sherman McAssey, who treated him like a son and became deeply attached to him. He was expected to visit them at Easter.

Budget debate Continued in House

The House met yesterday at 11.45 a.m.

A number of bills were read a third time and passed.

On motion of Mr. Saville the House went into committee with Mr. Hughes in the chair on a bill to amend the Act to incorporate the Town of Georgetown.

The bill authorizes the town to impose a tax on bicycles. It was reported agreed to without amendment.

On motion of Premier Campbell the House went into committee with Mr. Baker in the chair on a bill to amend the Prohibition Act. The bill adds to Sec. 130 the following subsection:

"No intoxicating liquor shall be consumed in or about any motor vehicle. Any person contravening the provisions of this Section and any person found intoxicated in any road, street or other public place shall be guilty of an offence and liable on conviction to a penalty not less than ten dollars and not exceeding $30, and in default of pavment to imprisonment for a term not exceeding ten days.

On the suggestion of Mr. Saville the bill was amended to reduce the minimum fine to five dollars. It was then reported agreed to.

On motion of Premier Campbell the House went into committee with Mr. Saville in the chair on an Act to amend the Falconwood Act. The bill transfers the supervision and administration of the Falconwood duck farm from the Board of Trustees to the Minister of Agriculture, subject to the usual departmental control by the Lieutenant Governor in Council and the Treasury Board. It was reported agreed to without amendment.

Mr. J. Walter Jones resumed the debate on the motion to go into supply.

The debate was continued at the afternoon and evening sessions by Hon. J. P. McIntyre, Mr. W. A. Stewart, Mr. George Saville, Mr. George Barbour and Mr. H. F. McPhee. The latter, who spoke only a few minutes, moved the adjournment shortly before 11 o'clock.

The House adjourned until 11 a.m. today.

British, Soviet Navies beat off German attack

London Reports Initial Enemy Assault On Arctic Supply Line Is Failure; More Expected.

By Drew Middleton
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 31—(AP)—The British and Russan navies, fighting together for the first time, have beaten off Germany's initial naval assault on the Allied Arctic supply line to Russia, sunk one German destroyer, damaged another and wrecked three Nazi U-boats, the Admiralty announced today.

The Moscow communique tonight added another Nazi submarine and a transport to the enemy craft destroyed in far northern waters. The scene of these blows was the Barents Sea and might well have been delivered by part of the Soviet naval force taking part with the British forces in the combined attack.

The sleek new 8,000-ton British cruiser Trinidad fired and then destroyed a German destroyer with her six-inch guns. The Trinidad was in turn damaged along with the destroyer Eclipse, but both the British warships reached the shelter of a Russian harbor under their own power and their casualties were few.

The Russian ships participating in the action were believed to be destroyers of the 1,800-ton Stremitelni class, especially built for service in northern waters.

This battle was believed to be only the forerunner of an intense and lengthy naval campaign for the right of way around North Cape and it was considered only a matter of time before Germany sends battleships against the supply line.

In the face of German claims that three transports were sunk and five other merchant ships damaged in the Anglo-American convoy, which was the target of a three-day Nazi attack, the Admiralty communique said unequivocably that all the assaults on the convoy "were beaten off by Russian and British forces."

This indicated that although merchant ships may have been damaged, none was lost. The Germans had claimed specifically the destruction of a 10,000-ton transport from New York, laden with tanks and ammunition for the Russians.

Prof. J. Inch

pointed out that all the students returned to resume classes when the University was again opened.

The Principal of Mount Allison deplored the lack of interest displayed by the majority of students of the present in cultural studies. The tendency in education is towards the pursuit of a course of studies designed to equip the student with the bare essentials for earning a living. The finer subjects such as art, music, theology, etc., were being neglected, he declared. This results in an unbalanced education and does not tend towards the best training in citizenship.

Dr. Trueman referred to conditions which resulted after the last war and pointed out the need for profiting by these mistakes.

Miss Edith Hugh, the retiring president, during the business period, gave a comprehensive review of the various activities of the Alumni during the past year.

Reporting for the membership committee, Mr. Gordon Avard announced that there were 50 members now belonging to the Alumni. Rev. D. C. Boothroyd reported for the vocational guidance and placement committee, and Mr. C. H. Black for the nominating committee.

Other speakers included: Mr. P. W. Turner and Dr. H. H. Shaw, Superintendent of Education.

The musical program consisted of familiar Mount Allison songs with Prof. Inch at the piano; solos by Miss Enid Coffin; violin solo by Mr. Ralph Raynor, Mt. Herbert; solos by Lac. John Mountford, R. A. F.

About 60 were present at the meeting.

GERMAN LOSSES

mans have about 180 divisions (2,700,000 men) on the Russian front apart from the fresh 100 divisions (1,500,000 men) now being moved into position.

The best information, this foreign source said, was that the Germans eventually would be able to put nearly 4,500,000 men into the 1942 Russian campaign against an estimated 7,000,000 Russians.

The report of this mounting German onslaught coincided with a Moscow radio announcement tonight that the Russians had recaptured an important strategic point in the Leningrad area and were holding the initiative in the Smolensk, Vyazma and Kalinin sectors.

London quarters intimated that the recaptured point in the Leningrad region might be Schluesselburg, just east of Leningrad on Lake Ladoga—an important rail connection.

In the south, a Vichy report based on Bucharest information said the Russians launched an offensive today in the Kharkov region from the north, south and east. The attack was preceded by artillery preparation lasting until last midnight.

dent's report, showing that there was apparent neglect on the part of parents and school trustees. The law requires that the district shall provide text books for pupils where parents cannot afford them, but except in the towns and larger districts the law is a dead letter. Dr. MacMillan hoped that the proposed subvention for school books will help to remedy this situation.

Referring to teachers' salary increases, he said there should be some provision for old teachers who have been retired.

Hon. Mr. MacGuigan: "They are under the Superannuation Act."

Dr. MacMillan: "Quite true, but I think we could help them a little more. There are only a few of them."

He referred to a contra account item of the Board of Education, Carnegie Endowment, Interest, $4,500, which is put in as interest every year. "I hope the Minister will remember that this is a trust fund," he said.

He objected to the practice of giving first class licenses to second class teachers simply because they have been teaching for a long period of years. If there is a proper spirit in these teachers, they will qualify themselves. He understood this practice has been stopped, and expressed the hope that the government would not go back to it.

Referring briefly to the high school question, Dr. MacMillan emphasized the value of encouraging such schools. He stressed the shortage of doctors and qualified nurses.

Potato Price Ceiling

The President of the Executive Council had reported progress in connection with the protest against the potato price ceiling. Even if the price ceiling is not properly dealt with, the delegation obtained concessions which will result in bringing several thousands of dollars to the Province. "I submit that the trip was worth while," said Dr. MacMillan. "I couldn't understand the attitude of the Premier the other day, because it seemed to be his intention to block some of the appointments at least. Something happened that is very difficult to explain. I made a motion to include the Deputy Minister of Agriculture in this delegation, and it was passed. I was asked to write the motion, and lo and behold, when the motion was read my hon. friends on the government side voted it down."

Premier Campbell: "We didn't know it was passed."

Dr. MacMillan: "Oh yes you did. You heard the Speaker say it must be put in writing, to have it read; and when I put it in writing you just reversed the vote."

Premier Campbell: "My understanding is that a vote was called on the question and in order to have accuracy Mr. Speaker asked the mover to put his amendment in writing. I don't think there was any vote before that; at least we were not aware of any."

Dr. MacMillan: "I know the motion was put and carried and then the Speaker asked it be put in writing. It is all right; but the whole thing was so suspicious. There was a nigger in the woodpile somewhere. Objection was taken in the first place to the farmers coming to this Legislature. Why shouldn't they come? There was a lot of talk that the proper course was to go direct to the Federal representatives. I am glad that the President of the Executive Council comes back with that splendid report from Colonel Ralston. I say the neglect was not on the part of Col. Ralston; it was on the part of someone else. Who do you think is the most responsible? Who is going to suffer by this action of the ceiling? The potato growers of this Province. And the government of this Province is the guarantor of the Potato Growers Association to the amount of $100,000. Doesn't that link the Government up directly with this question? We should not have waited for any delegation of farmers to come to this Legislature. It was their duty, when they knew the potato growers were going to suffer, to have taken some action."

Dr. MacMillan cited the greatly decreased freight car traffic last February as compared with Feb. 1941, and asked what effect that shortage would have on the potato market.

Premier Campbell: "We didn't have them to move."

Dr. MacMillan: "That is something new."

Mr. Barbour: "Shortage of refrigerator cars."

Dr. MacMillan: "Certainly, what was the effect on the market? Wouldn't it be an increased price? That was the reason why the price ceiling was put on. Prince Edward Island potatoes couldn't move because they couldn't get the cars. You would think that once that price ceiling was put on they couldn't get it touched, but what about the western farmers? All they have to do is go to Mr. Gardiner and he goes down to Ottawa and tells the Government just what they want, and he gets it. He refused to answer a question in the House of Commons the other day, to give a return showing how much the farmers were getting with this wheat bonus. He was frightened. Some farmers received more than ten thousand dollars. Fifty-six received between $5,000 and $10,000. The bonus affected 186,000 farmers altogether. Wouldn't the farmers in this province be glad if under any bonusing plan the Dominion would pay them ten thousand dollars!

Dr MacMillan pointed out that nearly all the Maritime members in the House of Commons were Liberals. They had a splendid chance to obtain their demands if they pressed for them.

Conditions of the farmers in this Province, he declared, are getting worse on account of the enticing wartime remuneration offering in Nova Scotia. He expressed hope that the new War Labor Board would do something to solve our farm labor problem.

The Agricultural Department last year spent $6,000 less than their estimates. $8,000 having been voted for field services and only $2,000 being spent. The speaker asked for an explanation of this. He commended the hog and limestone bonuses. It was strange, however, to see the bonus on hogs put into capital account.

Exhibition Grant

He wished to know the reason why the Government is cutting out the vote for Exhibitions this year. This was not a justifiable policy. "If the educational value of Exhibitions is such as we have been led to believe, then they should not have been cut out this year," he said. "I could point out a dozen places where you could have saved money by other economies in this Government.

Dr. MacMillan wished to know if the Agricultural Products Marketing Act is now in force, or was it declared ultra vires by a court of this Province.

Premier Campbell: "It was referred to the courts. The Act is still in force but the scheme which was presented under the provisions of the Act was found ultra vires.

Mr. Barbour: "That is the compulsory part of it."

Dr. MacMillan: "Under that Act there was provision for appointing a Marketing Board.

Premier Campbell: "That is still valid.

Dr. MacMillan: "What are they doing?

Premier Campbell: "Examining various marketing problems."

Dr. MacMillan: "How many marketing problems have ever been submitted to them? Just two.

Premier Campbell: "More than that."

Dr. MacMillan: "Just two. And they made their recommendations to the Government, whose mouthpiece they were, and the Government decided against them and threw them out. That is all the work they did."

Premier Campbell: "No, no."

Dr. MacMillan: "We had better have a report on the activities of this Board. They are being paid, but I understand they are not doing anything. If you want to save money for Exhibition purposes, you will get $4,000 there."

Premier Campbell maintained that the Board had done a lot of work. They had made regulations for the establishment of a cheese board and had investigated regulations for supply of meats and supplies to the Royal Canadian Air Force. They had also investigated conditions regarding egg grading regulations.

Dr. MacMillan pointed out that while all the Agricultural Dept. estimate was not spent last year, when the Women's Institute made a request for the Department to pay expenses of a delegation to attend a meeting on public health the Department turned it down.

Hon. Mr. Dennis said this was not correct.

Dr. MacMillan: "My hon. friend says that the request for expenses of a delegation from the Women's Institutes to attend an all-Canadian meeting of women on public health matters was not turned down? We will leave it right there Mr. Speaker. One of us will have to furnish the proof as to who is correct or not."

Dr. MacMillan referred in some detail to agricultural short courses, which, by the terms of the agreement with the Dominion Government, must be conducted without political bias. He cited the dismissal of a man employed in the short courses, and charged that there had been political patronage exercised by some of the Ministers.

The Premier had intimated that they were going to put Falconwood Farm under the Administration of the Department of Agriculture, and that they had decided against building a new barn this year. Dr. MacMillan agreed with this decision. The farm was originally intended to provide exercise for some of the male patients. It was not intended to develop a model farm. Consideration will soon have to be given to the question, whether it is advisable to retain that farm at all or not. In the meantime, the speaker drew attention to the need of improving the road facilities.

He cited grand jury reports emphasizing the lack of accommodation both at Falconwood Hospital and the Infirmary. The Government was commended for building a new laundry and recreation hall. "That building," Dr. MacMillan said, "cost $10,950. J. M. Hunter was the architect. He received $655. It reminds me of ten years ago, when my hon. friends used to throw in my face that $35,000 were spent for plans for Falconwood Hospital that were never used, according to their story."

Mr. Jones: "Preliminary plans, too."

Dr. MacMillan: "They were not preliminary plans. And part of the plans were used. It is true they cost $35,000, but what do you think of an architect getting $655 on a ten thousand dollar building. Let them figure that up."

Hon. Mr. McIntyre: "Six per cent."

Dr. MacMillan: "And see what it would cost on a million dollar project that we were figuring on at Falconwood. Six per cent, the Minister says. On a million dollars that would be $60,000. So that our plans cost only $35,000 and according to your figuring now, they should have cost $60,000."

Mr. McIntyre maintained that the architect's fee covered supervision of the building.

Dr. MacMillan cited the Court House building contract and the costs by way of architect's fees and commissions. By their actions the Government has shown that it is more spendthrift in this direction than the Conservatives, he said.

social evening committee. Through the medium of this committee the successful Saturday night dances and annual play were staged. Using the funds raised in this way, the Society increased its relief work and was able to subscribe generously to many worthy causes such the War Services, Red Cross

Air Cadets, Mt. Herbert and St. Vincent Orphanages, Prince Edward Island and City Hospitals, and social service work.

Mr. Kelly went on to say that in addition to the charitable work carried on during the year the society had remembered its members in His Majesty's Service. Each of these were sent 1,000 cigarettes as well as magazines and other comforts from the society.

The financial statement, showing a satisfactory balance on hand, was read by the Treasurer, Mr. John Callaghan.

Reporting for the social evening committee, Mr. Wilfred McKenna said that the annual events were the best in the history of the society.

S'side Pilot Officer missing

Pilot Officer Hubert Hall, 26, is missing, his mother, Mrs. Marion Hall of Summerside was informed. The message said the airman was missing following air operations on Saturday March 28.

Pilot Officer Hall went overseas about a year ago. A brother, Edwin Hall, is training as an observer with the Royal Canadian Air Force at Edmonton.

Pilot Officer Hall is a native of Summerside but resided in Western Canada for several years.

He received his wings at Uplands Airport, near Ottawa in February, 1941, following his enlistment in the summer of 1940. He went overseas a year ago and has been flying Wellington bombers, it was learned.

The airman was educated at Camrose, Alberta and returned to Summerside when he was 19 years old. He was taken West when a small child. When he came back he remained until he enlisted. He worked in the office of the Hall Manufacturing Company at Summerside.

His mother received the cablegram announcing her son was missing in the morning and in the afternoon received two letters from him. One was five weeks enroute to the Province.
