

AUDITORS WANTED

Office of the Auditor General of Canada

AUDIT ACCOUNTANTS, OTTAWA, GRADE 2—$3240 PER ANNUM—COMPETITION NO. 25-1860

QUALIFICATIONS REQUIRED: Professional auditing and senior accounting experience.

CANDIDATES MAY ALSO BE CONSIDERED FOR POTENTIAL VACANCIES IN OTHER GOVERNMENT DEPARTMENTS

Separate Applications forms quoting competition number, must be filed for each grade or which a candidate may wish to qualify.

Applications, obtainable at Post Offices, or from the Civil Service Commission, Ottawa, NOT LATER THAN DECEMBER 8, 1942.

Applications will not be transferred.

THIS ADVERTISEMENT IS AUTHORIZED BY THE DIRECTOR OF NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE

STOCK QUOTATIONS

New York Stock Exchange

Table with columns: Stocks (Canadian Press), Close, Am Tel & Tel, Anaconda, Baldwin Loco, etc.

MONTREAL STOCK EXCHANGE

Table with columns: Stocks (Canadian Press), Close, Bell Tel, Brazilian, Can Car Pfd, etc.

Banks

Table with columns: Stocks (Canadian Press), Close, Commerce, Nova Scotia, Montreal, Royal

Markets At A Glance

Toronto — Gold and industrial stocks lower; base metal and junior oil issues higher.

MINING

TORONTO, Nov. 30—Close

Table with columns: Stocks, Close, Ajax, Aldermac, Ang Can, etc.

Montreal Curb

Table with columns: Stocks (Canadian Press), Close, Abitibi Com, Abitibi Pfd, Asbestos, etc.

UNLISTED

Table with columns: Foothill, Oskalo, Pend Ore

Carleton and Vicinity

The Cape Traverse Women's Missionary Society met at the home of Mrs. Ernest Harper on Thursday afternoon, November 5th.

WANTED

New Goose and Duck feathers — not mixed, clear of quills.

Call and see our latest designs, Cretonnes and Damasks. Exclusive patterns.

We move, crate and pack furniture, also pack china. Work done by experienced men.

Henry MacFarlane & Company

In Memoriam

MR. ABNER J. HOWATT

The death, occurred of Abner J. Howatt, the morning of November 29th.

Mr. Howatt was in failing health for some months. In his passing, the community loses one of its most prominent citizens.

He was engaged in the packing business for many years, which he carried on very successfully.

A life-long Conservative, although never taking an active part, his wise counsel and mature judgment, will be a distinct loss to the party in the years that lie ahead.

He leaves to mourn a sorrowing widow, a half brother in Maine, one son, William, and one daughter, Elsie, Mrs. Vern MacLeod.

The funeral directors were, Percy Davidson and Son; interment in the Anglican Cemetery, Ottawa.

The pall bearers were: Miner MacNevin, James Knox, Harry O'Brien, Henry Robertson, Louis N. Howatt and Donald MacLeod.

socials in the school, an ice cream social, a tea party, also by an autograph quilt. The following donations were received for the Soldiers Christmas Boxes: — Mrs. O'Brien, 5 cans of chicken, Mrs. Leigh Lowther, $1.00, Mrs. J. Williams, 50 cents, the balance in collections.

The expenditures were: Christmas tree, $10.00, for school and shut-ins, $5.68, for funds, $6.00, Quilt material, $18.36, Presents, $12.00, Ice cream freezer, $12.00, $100.00, Christmas boxes, 17.36.

With the outbreak of war, Brown went to France with his Blenheim Bomber squadron and saw action throughout the entire evacuation period, leaving that country on May 19, 1940.

The wingco has so imbued his squadron with the faith and clan displayed by him throughout his service in this war, that the Demons are known far and wide for their exploits.

In 1936, he married Miss Ena May Stacey, a Scottish girl, and she has since accompanied him to Canada when the outbreak of war intervened. They are still working forward to the trip for Mrs. Brown has never seen her husband's native land. W/C Brown

During the actual evacuation of Dunkirk, Brown, with the rest of his squadron, was landing aerial support to the ground and naval forces when he ran into a heavy barrage of "flak" dodging and twisting to avoid the concentrated fire, he was obliged to make a forced landing on the Goodwin Sands, a large sand bank in the English Channel.

Completing his training and conferring his rank of a newly formed army co-operation squadron and the following year became a flight commander with the rank of flight lieutenant.

With the outbreak of war, Brown went to France with his Blenheim Bomber squadron and saw action throughout the entire evacuation period, leaving that country on May 19, 1940.

During the actual evacuation of Dunkirk, Brown, with the rest of his squadron, was landing aerial support to the ground and naval forces when he ran into a heavy barrage of "flak" dodging and twisting to avoid the concentrated fire, he was obliged to make a forced landing on the Goodwin Sands, a large sand bank in the English Channel.

Completing his training and conferring his rank of a newly formed army co-operation squadron and the following year became a flight commander with the rank of flight lieutenant.

With the outbreak of war, Brown went to France with his Blenheim Bomber squadron and saw action throughout the entire evacuation period, leaving that country on May 19, 1940.

During the actual evacuation of Dunkirk, Brown, with the rest of his squadron, was landing aerial support to the ground and naval forces when he ran into a heavy barrage of "flak" dodging and twisting to avoid the concentrated fire, he was obliged to make a forced landing on the Goodwin Sands, a large sand bank in the English Channel.

Completing his training and conferring his rank of a newly formed army co-operation squadron and the following year became a flight commander with the rank of flight lieutenant.

With the outbreak of war, Brown went to France with his Blenheim Bomber squadron and saw action throughout the entire evacuation period, leaving that country on May 19, 1940.

During the actual evacuation of Dunkirk, Brown, with the rest of his squadron, was landing aerial support to the ground and naval forces when he ran into a heavy barrage of "flak" dodging and twisting to avoid the concentrated fire, he was obliged to make a forced landing on the Goodwin Sands, a large sand bank in the English Channel.

Quiet Leader of RCAF "Demons" Won D.F.C. Before Dunkirk

W/C A. Coatsworth Brown Started Flying Career With RAF In '34 — Heads RCAF Dare-Devils.

Wing Commander A. Coatsworth Brown, D.F.C., of Winnipeg, Commander of R.C.A.F. Coastal Comm and "Demon" Squadron.

When a young civil engineer left Canada in 1934, to follow his profession in England, he little thought that eight years later he would find himself commander of a Coastal Command Squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Such is the record of Wing Commander A. Coatsworth Brown, D.F.C., commanding officer of the famous Canadian "Demon" Squadron. A calm, quiet-spoken man, W/C Brown is the fearless leader of a dare-devil squadron which has distinguished itself by its heroism of enemy tonnage since beginning operations about a year ago.

A Wizard Pilot It is extremely difficult to get this quiet ace pilot to talk about himself, although his boys, go overboard in praise of their "wingco". Not a man in the squadron hesitates to inform all and sundry that their commander is a wizard pilot, "absolutely fearless," a damn good man to work for — and "win."

Born in Winnipeg, son of the late E. C. Brown, of Richmond, Yorkshire, and the former Mary Coatsworth, of Barnard Castle, Durham, W/C Brown studied at Kelvin Technical High School in his home town before attending the University of Manitoba, graduating in 1934 with a B.Sc. degree, the young civil engineer sailed almost immediately for England where he expected to begin his life work.

But, within a few months young Brown put all thoughts of engineering behind him and accepted an acting pilot officer's commission in the Royal Air Force and began his flying career.

Completing his training and conferring his rank of a newly formed army co-operation squadron and the following year became a flight commander with the rank of flight lieutenant.

With the outbreak of war, Brown went to France with his Blenheim Bomber squadron and saw action throughout the entire evacuation period, leaving that country on May 19, 1940.

During the actual evacuation of Dunkirk, Brown, with the rest of his squadron, was landing aerial support to the ground and naval forces when he ran into a heavy barrage of "flak" dodging and twisting to avoid the concentrated fire, he was obliged to make a forced landing on the Goodwin Sands, a large sand bank in the English Channel.

Completing his training and conferring his rank of a newly formed army co-operation squadron and the following year became a flight commander with the rank of flight lieutenant.

With the outbreak of war, Brown went to France with his Blenheim Bomber squadron and saw action throughout the entire evacuation period, leaving that country on May 19, 1940.

During the actual evacuation of Dunkirk, Brown, with the rest of his squadron, was landing aerial support to the ground and naval forces when he ran into a heavy barrage of "flak" dodging and twisting to avoid the concentrated fire, he was obliged to make a forced landing on the Goodwin Sands, a large sand bank in the English Channel.

Completing his training and conferring his rank of a newly formed army co-operation squadron and the following year became a flight commander with the rank of flight lieutenant.

With the outbreak of war, Brown went to France with his Blenheim Bomber squadron and saw action throughout the entire evacuation period, leaving that country on May 19, 1940.

During the actual evacuation of Dunkirk, Brown, with the rest of his squadron, was landing aerial support to the ground and naval forces when he ran into a heavy barrage of "flak" dodging and twisting to avoid the concentrated fire, he was obliged to make a forced landing on the Goodwin Sands, a large sand bank in the English Channel.

Completing his training and conferring his rank of a newly formed army co-operation squadron and the following year became a flight commander with the rank of flight lieutenant.

With the outbreak of war, Brown went to France with his Blenheim Bomber squadron and saw action throughout the entire evacuation period, leaving that country on May 19, 1940.

During the actual evacuation of Dunkirk, Brown, with the rest of his squadron, was landing aerial support to the ground and naval forces when he ran into a heavy barrage of "flak" dodging and twisting to avoid the concentrated fire, he was obliged to make a forced landing on the Goodwin Sands, a large sand bank in the English Channel.

Completing his training and conferring his rank of a newly formed army co-operation squadron and the following year became a flight commander with the rank of flight lieutenant.

With the outbreak of war, Brown went to France with his Blenheim Bomber squadron and saw action throughout the entire evacuation period, leaving that country on May 19, 1940.

During the actual evacuation of Dunkirk, Brown, with the rest of his squadron, was landing aerial support to the ground and naval forces when he ran into a heavy barrage of "flak" dodging and twisting to avoid the concentrated fire, he was obliged to make a forced landing on the Goodwin Sands, a large sand bank in the English Channel.

Completing his training and conferring his rank of a newly formed army co-operation squadron and the following year became a flight commander with the rank of flight lieutenant.

forces when he ran into a heavy barrage of "flak" dodging and twisting to avoid the concentrated fire, he was obliged to make a forced landing on the Goodwin Sands, a large sand bank in the English Channel.

Completing his training and conferring his rank of a newly formed army co-operation squadron and the following year became a flight commander with the rank of flight lieutenant.

With the outbreak of war, Brown went to France with his Blenheim Bomber squadron and saw action throughout the entire evacuation period, leaving that country on May 19, 1940.

During the actual evacuation of Dunkirk, Brown, with the rest of his squadron, was landing aerial support to the ground and naval forces when he ran into a heavy barrage of "flak" dodging and twisting to avoid the concentrated fire, he was obliged to make a forced landing on the Goodwin Sands, a large sand bank in the English Channel.

Completing his training and conferring his rank of a newly formed army co-operation squadron and the following year became a flight commander with the rank of flight lieutenant.

With the outbreak of war, Brown went to France with his Blenheim Bomber squadron and saw action throughout the entire evacuation period, leaving that country on May 19, 1940.

During the actual evacuation of Dunkirk, Brown, with the rest of his squadron, was landing aerial support to the ground and naval forces when he ran into a heavy barrage of "flak" dodging and twisting to avoid the concentrated fire, he was obliged to make a forced landing on the Goodwin Sands, a large sand bank in the English Channel.

Completing his training and conferring his rank of a newly formed army co-operation squadron and the following year became a flight commander with the rank of flight lieutenant.

With the outbreak of war, Brown went to France with his Blenheim Bomber squadron and saw action throughout the entire evacuation period, leaving that country on May 19, 1940.

During the actual evacuation of Dunkirk, Brown, with the rest of his squadron, was landing aerial support to the ground and naval forces when he ran into a heavy barrage of "flak" dodging and twisting to avoid the concentrated fire, he was obliged to make a forced landing on the Goodwin Sands, a large sand bank in the English Channel.

Completing his training and conferring his rank of a newly formed army co-operation squadron and the following year became a flight commander with the rank of flight lieutenant.

With the outbreak of war, Brown went to France with his Blenheim Bomber squadron and saw action throughout the entire evacuation period, leaving that country on May 19, 1940.

During the actual evacuation of Dunkirk, Brown, with the rest of his squadron, was landing aerial support to the ground and naval forces when he ran into a heavy barrage of "flak" dodging and twisting to avoid the concentrated fire, he was obliged to make a forced landing on the Goodwin Sands, a large sand bank in the English Channel.

Completing his training and conferring his rank of a newly formed army co-operation squadron and the following year became a flight commander with the rank of flight lieutenant.

With the outbreak of war, Brown went to France with his Blenheim Bomber squadron and saw action throughout the entire evacuation period, leaving that country on May 19, 1940.

During the actual evacuation of Dunkirk, Brown, with the rest of his squadron, was landing aerial support to the ground and naval forces when he ran into a heavy barrage of "flak" dodging and twisting to avoid the concentrated fire, he was obliged to make a forced landing on the Goodwin Sands, a large sand bank in the English Channel.

Completing his training and conferring his rank of a newly formed army co-operation squadron and the following year became a flight commander with the rank of flight lieutenant.

Auction Sale

—AT THE— AUCTION WAREHOUSE, Grafton Street THURSDAY, DECEMBER 3rd, at 2 p.m.

I am instructed to sell by Public Auction the household effects of the late Mrs. W. H. Kent including drop-table, Governor Winthrop Desk, Chesterfield, tilt arm chair with foot stool, occasional chairs, floor lamp, table lamps, 2 rugs, curtains complete with rods, vanity dressing table, six piece dinette suite, cutlery, complete kitchen equipment including enamel pots and pans and DELUX LENORD FRIGIDAIRE. All the above articles have been purchased recently.

For further particulars apply EASTERN TRUST COMPANY or W. H. BEATON Auctioneer.

'Help Wanted' Advertisements

Under the new government regulations which became effective on September 4, it is still preferable to publish over an advertiser's own name "Help Wanted" advertisements for fishing and trapping help, and for students employed after school.

All other "Help Wanted" advertisements, however, must be submitted by the advertiser to the National Selective Service Officer, Unemployment Insurance Commission, 1, O. O. F. Hall, Richmond Street, and on receiving the officer's approval the advertisements can then be inserted in The Charlottetown Guardian.

Advertising Rates - Payable in Advance

Minimum Charge for Any Advertisements 25 Cents Central Guardian locals, 50 per word; Western and Eastern locals, 75 per word; Announcements and Coming Events 50 per word; Classified 50 per word; In Memoriam Notices 70c per inch; Letters of Condolence 70c per inch; Wedding engagements 40 words for $1.00 and 10 cents for every additional 3 words. Notices of Thanks 40 cents per inch. Address and Presentation $1.00. Other rates on application.

For Sale

FOR SALE—TWIN CARRIAGE and stroller combined in good condition. Apply 11 King St. 11-28-31

FOR SALE OR TRADE 2 STRIPPER cows, George MacDonald, Mermaid. 12-1-11

Boards Wanted

WANTED—BOARDS MEN OR married couple, 291 Kent. 11-30-11.

Miscellaneous

SPECIALS — MRS. JOHNSTON'S Beauty Salon. 11-24-71

CEILING PRICES PAID FOR Service and Fir Logs. Length 7 ft and 9 ft 6 inches. Montague Furnishing Co., Ltd. Montague. 11-28-12

Wanted

WANTED SKATES AND BOOTS all sizes Exchange Store, 109 Richmond St. Phone 859. 12-1-31

TO LET

142 Great George St. Next to Checker Taxi Suitable for business stand. PHONE 598-J

Auction Sale

at SIMON MCKINNON'S Bangor WEDNESDAY, DEC. 9 at one o'clock consisting of 6 high class horses, cows, sheep, and poultry, also a quantity of hay. Reason for selling. — No help. Terms made known at sale.

Articles Wanted

BAND AND ORCHESTRA INSTRUMENTS not in use may be turned into ready cash. Send full particulars to Whaley, Royce & Company, 310 Yonge Street, Toronto, Ontario. 12-1-31

Female Help Wanted

WANTED GIRL FOR HOUSE-work Apply between 7 and 8 — 321 Euston St. 12-1-21

To Let

TO LET THREE ADJOINING rooms, 202 Sydney St. 12-1-11

Male Help Wanted

WANTED SINGLE MAN OR BOY to work on farm. Apply Everett N. Boyer, Ch. Town, R. R. 5. 12-1-21

NORWAY'S NEWSPRINT

Nearly 100 newspapers in Norway have been obliged to suspend since 1940 because of the shortage of newsprint.

Use Minard's for sprains.

POULTRY

We require a very large quantity of chicken and fowl during December and January. As some of the trucks will not be on their regular routes we suggest you send your poultry by express. Prompt returns daily at full market value.

THE Royal Packing Co.

J. D. JENKINS Prop.

WANTED

New Goose and Duck feathers — not mixed, clear of quills.

Call and see our latest designs, Cretonnes and Damasks. Exclusive patterns.

We move, crate and pack furniture, also pack china. Work done by experienced men.

Henry MacFarlane & Company

HOUSE FOR HOUSE

LONDON —(CP)— House swapping is the latest development in problems in Britain. Big families with small houses are exchanging with small families who have big houses. In this manner more than 2,000 families have exchanged houses in Sheffield alone in the past 12 months.

The first stripe—indicating that the Canadian soldier has become a lance-corporal or in the case of the artillery lancebombardier is the object of great pride for the men who make their first step up on the military ladder. Top left shows a member of a Scottish unit imploving the regimental tailor to hurry up the sewing on of the broad V-shaped patch; upper right shows the pride of a "one-hook" wearer while the lower picture depicts a proud lance-corporal cook.

