NOVA SCOTIA APPLE CROP NOT HURT BY STORM.

HALIFAX, July 24—The wind and rain storm which raged in Halifax so freely, it was feared would have had a disastrous effect in the fruit region of Nova Scotia. This was not the case, however. C. R. H. Starr of Wolfville, informed The Halifax Herald.

Mr. Starr says that the Annapolis valley had no high wind in the storm but the rain was very heavy, causing some damage on the roads and elsewhere. It washed off some of the small fruit from the trees, but was a benefit rather than a hurt, for the elimination of this poorer fruit will help the good that remains.

Speaking of the crop, Mr. Starr says it will be about half that of last year, and will be more even. There is a little black spot but with the exception of one or two days favorable to this pest, the weather has been favorable to clean fruit. Warm damp days are bad.

Even at half the crop of last year the yield this season will be large, something like 800,000 barrels.

James P. Concannon, the crossing policeman, jumped for the bridge, missed it, was knocked to one side, but escaped unhurt. The runaway kept on down Washington street a few blocks, swerved to a sidewalk and plunged through a plate-glass window at Goldsmith's cigar store. There it stopped. The bakery outfit is owned by Anestias Brothers.

Yesterday a Guardian representative had the pleasure of again greeting Fred Cameron, the little Amherst wonder. Bright, genial and goodnatured as ever, Freddy's personality impresses one as much as his track progress and his unassuming disposition improves and renders the more valuable either a chance acquaintance or an intimate friendship. Since his last visit here he has seen much of the world and has had a great deal of experience in the running game. His reminiscences of those great struggles on the track, all of which are well known to sport lovers here are interesting in the extreme. Freddy will be warmly welcomed in Charlottetown on every occasion in which he favors the city with a visit.

MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE OF YOUNG GIRL

NEW YORK, July 23—A fruitless search of the morgues and hospitals in three cities for Miss Dorcas Lyams Snodgrass, a beautiful girl whose disappearance without apparent cause Wednesday morning resembles the Dorothy Arnold case, ended today, leaving the detectives engaged as far from solving the mystery as when they were called in.

Like Miss Arnold, she was engaged to be married shortly. On the morning of her disappearance two friends saw and spoke to her, receiving a nod as she hurried by. This was in the Grand Central Station.

Miss Snodgrass stepped from a train which rolled into the Grand Central Station and all trace of her has since been lost. Since she came from Mount Vernon, N. Y., five years ago she has made her home at Mount Vernon with her sister, Mrs. John L. O'Neil, whose husband is chief engineer of the newly completed Boston, Westchester & Mount Vernon Railroad.

On her twenty-fifth birthday, last October, she entered the training school for nurses in Mt. Vernon hospital. She became a nurse not from want of money, for she was comfortably situated, but from sheer love of nursing and a desire to know something of medicine. Her success was marked.

ROYALIST UPRISING A COMPLETE FAILURE.

LONDON, July 23—A correspondent of the Times, telegraphing from Verin, Spain, says: "The Royalist raid in Portugal seems already to have spent its force. The invaders were in sufficient strength to strike a very severe blow, and if active sympathy had been forthcoming in Portugal itself their attempt to restore the monarchy might well have succeeded, but their friends in Portugal never went beyond extending passive sympathy. "The Royalists planned to cross the frontier at Valencia and Chaves and after seizing these positions to wait a sympathetic rising from within. Both attempts miscarried.

render marriage less stable socially and produce an evil which the law desired to remedy.

Lord Atkinson—The question seems to me to be this: Is a person married according to the rules of the locality where the ceremony takes place or according to the rules of his own church. The act says a marriage duly performed according to the local law.

Lord Halsbury—You say that on a true right given to the Dominion over legislation referring to marriage and divorce include the particular subject matter of the solemnization of marriage in a province? Why do you say that?

Mr. Smith submitted that the particular subject matter being invested exclusively in the provinces by the act of 1868 brought this about.

SUFFRAGETTE MOVEMENT BECOMING CRIMINAL.

LONDON, July 22—The suffragette movement is becoming purely a criminal one, and as such it will, of course, perish of its own perversity, but it is time to ask who is paying for this campaign of outrage and who organized it. The foregoing extract from an article in The Nation is based on the outrage of which Premier and Mrs. Asquith were the subjects on their arrival in Dublin, when a hat-box was thrown at their carriage.

The task of guarding the Premier and Cabinet ministers has become a serious question for Scotland Yard. Not since the days of the Fenian outrages have so many detectives been required to shadow political personages, and according to a Conservative paper, it is common knowledge that these incessant attacks and the police surveillance that is necessary, are seriously affecting the nerves of the members of the Cabinet.

RUSSIA HAD MURDER DEN.

WARSAW, July 23—A veritable murder den has been discovered in the village of Kurdio, in the Novaya Ladoga government. It was remarkable that a large number of men who visited a house in the outskirts of the village tenanted by a peasant woman named Ivanova Tamara and her seventeen-year-old daughter Olga, not one was seen to return, and the discovery of corpses mutilated beyond recognition in a neighboring wood led to the house being surrounded by a force of gendarmes under Colonel Vassiliev.

The woman and her daughter were secured after a violent resistance and a search of the house resulted in the gruesome discovery of twenty-seven corpses in a storehouse, as well as a great number of watches, purses and other articles of value, and a quantity of male garments.

The eating room of the house was furnished with a trap door, through which the victims were precipitated into the cellar. In the latter murderous instruments and letters of all sorts were found.

The woman confessed to being at the head of a band which, during recent months had robbed and murdered forty men who had been decoyed to the house by Olga. She mentioned thirty other persons belonging to the band who were also arrested. Nine others escaped.
