SAVORY BRAISED KIDNEYS

1 beef kidney or 6 lamb kidneys.
Flour
6 slices bacon
2 small onions, chopped
1 green pepper, chopped
1 cup tomato juice
Salt and pepper
1 bay leaf
1 tablespoon flour
Water

Method: Trim the kidney or kidneys and cut into 1-2-inch slices. Dredge with flour. Dice the bacon strips and brown well, then combine with the kidney slices. Add the chopped onion and green pepper. Stir the mixture until the meat is well-browned. Now add the tomato juice to the pan and season with salt and pepper and a bay leaf. Cover the container closely and simmer for about 30 minutes. At the end of this time, moisten the tablespoon flour with water and add to the liquid in the pan, stirring to mix well, and cook until the gravy thickens. This makes an excellent luncheon or supper dish and may be served on hot buttered toast or on a bed of cooked rice.

Despite reports of a slump in women's hairdressing in Britain, West of Scotland war workers are flocking to have their curls and perms set.

"I'm Fine . . . and Safe"

For brief minutes modern science reunited a group of British refugee children in New York with their people in England when the youngsters talked to their parents by short wave. One of the most eager was Anne Khuner, of Greenwich, England, who just celebrated her fifth birthday. She's pictured at the microphone greeting her father, who is in the British Army.

In Memoriam

MRS. E. H. CAMPBELL

Word has recently been received of the death of Mrs. E. H. Campbell at the home of her son in Lad. near B. C.

The deceased, who was in her 74th year, was formerly Miss Ella Bulpitt daughter of late Thomas and Deborah (Smith) Bulpitt, of Roseneath, and was well known on the Island as her husband was one of the leading teachers of fore- w. days, and after their marriage, taught school in Lower Montague Summerside and Charlottetown.

He was also Superintendent of Education for some years, but resigned that office at the outbreak of the Great War, and as Colonel rendered valuable service in recruiting the 105th Battalion and afterwards served overseas till the end of the war.

Mrs. Campbell was always active in church and temperance work, and her charming personality and fine Christian character won for her many friends, who will regret to hear of her passing.

During recent years she and her husband have resided in Victoria, B. C. She has been in failing health the last five years and has been tenderly cared for by her husband and granddaughter, and at the last by her son and his wife (nee Ruby Saunders, of Summerside), who had taken her to their home last August, hoping she might be benefitted by the change. But shortly after, her sickness took a more serious turn, and on Sept. 27th she passed away.

On Sept. 30th, amid a profusion of beautiful floral tributes, the funeral services were conducted by Rev. George Pringle, a close friend of the family, assisted by Rev. Mr. Redman, of Ladner. Among those attending the funeral were her cousin, Brent Lea, formerly of Vernon River, and Horace Gough, of Summerside, who acted as bearers.

Also present were the former Miss Bertha Smith, of Charlottetown, Miss Leticia Bell, of Montague, and the Misses Margaret and Lurie Harrie, of Roseneath, all of whom are now married and living in the vicinity of Vancouver.

Surviving are her husband two sons and four daughters—G. H. Campbell, principal of Ladner High School; Ruth, Mrs. Wallace Wigginton, of Alberta; Dorothy, Mrs. R. Baker; Lorna, Mrs. E. Proffitt, and Enid, Mrs. N. Carey, of Powell River, and Ernest, now training with the R. C. A. F. in Regina; also two sisters and two brothers, Mrs. Cyrus Moore, Victoria Cross; Mrs. A. G. Crawford and Edward Bulpitt, of Roseneath, and Roy Bulpitt, of Beaves Bank, N. S. besides many friends and relatives who will lovingly cherish her memory.

New Touches

Changes in dress this autumn will mainly consist of those "touches" which give a new look to clothes, but styles generally will not greatly alter.

Among hats, "Robin Hood" designs, highest in the crown with a leather or other trimmings are popular. Stuffed velvet hats are another vogue while turban styles continue to be much worn. The prospect of autumn winds will increase the advantages of "the turban," and they are likely to remain "put" for many months to come. Many people make their own either in knitting or crochet-work. Crochet-work lends itself to the making of attractive shapes and with these you can make use of wire brims.

Felt hats are coming in with higher crowns and many are trimmed with long coloured quills. One of the latest hats has a concertina crown.

Hats that match handbag and gloves produce smart effects. Suede gloves are dear and the less expensive way is to replace old ones with the smart new fabric styles, or knit gloves to tone with your suit or winter coat.

Skirts will continue to be short, and there is a tendency for many to be less full than the flared styles worn during the summer.

New among skirts is what is called "side saddle." This is a slim-fitting style with a side drape. It is a pleasing variety but, of course should be avoided if the hips are on the big side.

Contrasting Colours

A first choice for tweed suits are greys and herringbone tweeds in neutral tones. A smart tweed suit seen the other day had a stripe of soft blue running through the tweed. This same blue was used for

Advisory Committee to Rule War Industry

PHILIP A. CHESTER MAJOR-GENERAL CRERAR GRAHAM TOWERS R. A. C. HENRY

Prime Minister King, in the House of Commons, intimated the government was considering the establishment of a wartime requirements board to see that the industrial and manpower capacity of the Dominion are developed to the fullest extent. The board would represent the department of national war services. Shown here are four men whose names are mentioned in Ottawa as possible members. Mr. Towers would represent the Bank of Canada, Mr. Henry the munitions department, Major-Gen. Crerar and Mr. Chester the national defence department.
