

YES

Dodge Brothers Standard Six is the fastest car, with the fastest pick-up in its price class.

HOWEVER

That is only HALF the story. The IMPORTANT point is that this exceptional speed is made practical by Dodge ruggedness of chassis and body construction.

OTHERS

Might succeed in building a car at this price with equal SPEED, but to do so successfully they would also have to build a car with equal STURDINESS

AND

That is where Dodge Brothers, with years of experience in building a dependable low-cost product, are years ahead of the field.

YOU

Can buy the Standard Six knowing that it is not only the fastest car in its class but the sturdiest—and the one is every bit as important as the other

Here is the largest delegation of Rotarians ever to leave Europe for the North American continent and who choose to travel by the St. Lawrence route and through Canada to attend the 19th Rotary International convention at Minneapolis. There was 250 in the party and they represented 14 nations. Inset is Capt. E. F. Summers, commander of the White Star liner Albertic holding a China Rotary wheels presented to him by Rotarians from Czecho-Slovakia as a memento of the voyage. The photograph was taken on the Albertic on which the delegates travelled.

FOR THE WOMAN READER BY FLORENCE RIDDICK BOYS

THE GUEST ROOM

A clean, cheery and dainty colored room should be the guest room. It should also contain every thing which will make your guest comfortable. The room should be airy, especially for summer visitors, and should be well screened so that guests may open the windows top and bottom.

Choose a color scheme, green or blue, with an accompanying color to harmonize or subdue it, such as gray; and dress the room up in this from woodwork and curtains to small accessories. Such a room will charm your guest, upon first arrival and continue a source of joy until departure, and very likely he, or she, will close his, or her eyes many times during the months to come and picture the gentle restfulness and sweet hospitality of that little room.

Have plenty of empty dressed drawers and closet room with ample hangers. The bed should be soft and immaculately clean. It may have a spread of the prevailing color, and a soft quilt, of the same color, may be rolled up at the foot for chilly nights. Some hostesses prefer a wool blanket for the extra cover as it is more possible to keep clean.

Have convenient lights, a desk stocked with writing materials, book ends between which are some good short stories, a novel, a book of poems, and a dictionary. A fresh magazine introduces a touch of cheer and ties one up with the world outside. An easy chair should allure to rest. A rack for the bestowal of baggage is a convenience and saves the guest from stooping over every time he would get something out of his travelling bag.

Joy is the key-note of the guest room. If it is a rather gloomy room with a north exposure, dress it up in warmer colors. Rugs, dresser scarfs, lamp shades and all accessories should contribute to the color scheme. The equipping of the guest room does not need to be expensive. Gay calicos, painted furniture and very simple accessories may yield that "come hither" look.

TRAVEL LIGHT

Our grandmothers used to drag trunks around with them when they make a tour. Now their granddaughters take a trip to Europe, with only a suitcase to hold all their needs. It is not considered smart to have too much baggage.

The ideal travel outfit is light-weight and uncrushable, the soft silk or wool things which may be rolled up in a bag and then shaken out at the end of the journey and left to hang a day, when they will be unwrinkled. Do not take clothing of too light nor too conspicuous color. Match your clothes, choosing a neutral color, as beige, dark grey, or navy blue, as a base. With such a basic color, all your clothes may seem to go together and be a part of an ensemble. It will not be necessary then to have separate hats, shoes, gloves and wraps for each custom.

Clothes of too light color soil easily with the grime of travel and soon look unattractive. Better the darker shades for the road. Dark blue or black lace dresses and uncrushable chiffons, which fold into almost no space, may be easily pressed, are good choices for evening gowns when on a trip. If the dresses follow the same general color, one underslip and few stockings will be all it will be necessary to take.

If you use a satchel instead of a suitcase, do not try to fold your dresses to pack into it, but roll them up. First fold lightly together a bunch of tissue paper. Slip a rubber band over each end of this to make a roll. Lay your dresses flat upon the bed, and roll them lightly about this tissue paper roll, one dress over the other. But do not make the roll tight. When you unroll them you will be surprised at their unwrinkled state. The resiliency of the tissue paper roll has broken the force of the pressure against them. In packing dresses and coats flat, put a crushed bit of tissue paper under the sleeves and in each fold to relieve the pressure.

THE PORCH RUG

If the porch rug becomes faded, remove the dust from it carefully with a stiff broom, then freshen it with a coat of dye. Add a package of dye to three quarts of boiling water, and drop into it a handful of salt. Spread the rug on a dry, flat surface, such as the driveway to the garage, and paint the dye preparation in. When this has dried, reverse the rug and paint the other side in the same way.

SUMMER EATS

Plenty of vitamins and not too much hearty food will keep the family from summer ennui. Serve raw vegetables as frequently as possible. To have them cold and served in dainty fashion will help to make them appeal to the appetite. There is all the difference in the world between wilted, soggy, lukewarm rhubarb sauce or prunes, and the same article chilled and served in a dainty dish. Lettuce, radishes, water crisp, celery, green onions should be crisp and cold.

Even the despoiled and healthful prunes can be made delectable if stuffed with cheese or nut meats and served on a lettuce leaf with a little mayonnaise over them. Berries should not be wilted nor withered. Keep them cold. If a little pineapple juice is left from your can, save it until the next meal, then add it to a tart lemonade, serve in small glasses and see how the family will relish it.

Plenty of vitamins, plenty of mineral salts will help to keep the body fit. But do not handicap it by too much proteins and starches, too much meat and potatoes and heavy desserts.

WINDOW CURTAINS.

Glass curtains, which have traditionally been white or ecru, are now assuming the gay colors so popular. We find in the shops dainty marquisette nets in shades of blue, peach, gold and green. These may be used instead of the white lacy curtain, with or without the over-drapes.

A novel way to make these curtains is to have a sash curtain for the lower half of the window, with the drapes and valance often used for the top and sides. If desired the valance may be long enough to cover the top sash. From the outside it will look like one curtain, but the divided curtain will seem more dainty and cool looking from the inside and either half may be drawn, leaving the rest of the window covered.

Cretonnes have always been popular for summer curtains and drapes. A new fabric is the figured rayon which is sunny-looking with its small flowers. It is used for the breakfast nook, the sun room and bed rooms.

OLD FURNITURE

In this day of lovely paints, old furniture is an asset because you dare do such interesting things with it. A friend had an odd assortment of cheap pieces of old furniture and she made them into such a beautiful outfit for her guest room that they quite rivalled in charm the more expensive sets in the homes of her more monied but less ingenious friends.

She used a gloss paint, not enamel and not lacquer, both of which have a high and hard finish, but a soft, lavender gloss paint. She painted the bed, an old dresser and an arm chair the same soft lavender. The color is delicate but this paint is washable. She upholstered the chair in a black and lavender cretonne and put hangings at the window to match. The accessories in the room carried out the same color scheme.

TO KEEP MEAT.

In hot weather, it is sometimes a problem to keep meat. When it comes from the market, remove it immediately from its wrappings and wrap it in waxed paper and place it in the ice-box. Use the bread wrappers for this use. The wrap prevents it from mingling odors and flavors with the rest of the contents of the ice-box.

If the meat is to be kept for a long time, it is a good plan to sear it. Rub flour over it and brown it well on both sides. When cool, place in the ice-box. To marinate meat helps to preserve it and also adds to its flavor. A good marinade dressing consists of one part fat and two parts acid. The fat may be olive oil, or any other fat, and the acid may be vinegar or lemon juice. Cooked meats may be marinated as an additional protection against spoilage.

MRS. SOLOMAN SAYS:
Discontent and dissatisfaction write in ugly lines on your face. Interest and a cheerful philosophy inscribe sweetness there.

SMILES

Teacher: "What is the Matter-horn?"
Johnnie: "It's a horn which blows when there is something the matter."

A freshman, who did not make the grade, wired home to his brother: "Failed in all five subjects. Prepare Father."
The brother wired back: "Father is prepared. Prepare yourself."

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. GREGORY HIGGINS.

On Tuesday morning June 26th, the spirit of Mrs. Gregory Higgins Kensington, passed to its eternal reward. The deceased lady who had reached the advanced age of 90 years was the last of the pioneers of "Paddy's Land" (as that portion of the Malpeque Road Settlement immediately north of Kensington was called in early days). Her husband predeceased her some years ago at the age of 96 years. She always deported herself with charity and good will to everybody, and bore the crosses of this life and her last illness with Christian resignation to the Divine will. She leaves to mourn a family of five sons and five daughters, who will cherish her memory. The sons are William and Joseph, Kensington; James, Seattle Wash; George, Latouche Alaska; Stephen, Vancouver B. C. (John of Bangor Me. deceased). The daughters are Mrs. Thomas McLaughlin, St. John; Mrs. Emma Mullally, Kensington; Mrs. Angus Wilson, Seattle Wash; Mrs. J. J. Gillis, Boston and Miss Lily at home.

Her remains were interred at St. Mary's cemetery, Indian River. Her pastor Rev. Mgr. D. J. Gillis attended her spiritually during her illness, and performed the funeral obsequies. The pall bearers were W. B. McArthur, Daniel Goodwin, Harold Mullally, J. J. Gillis, Edward Pendergast, Thomas Garman, K.
