Thalia Maasie. Co-defendants with Maasie are Mrs. Granville Fortescue, his mother-in-law and E. J.
Lord and Albert O. Jones, enlisted men.

The prosecution already has entered the testimony of two allien-ists, Dr. Paul Bowers of Los Angeles and Dr. Robert Faus, city and county physician here.

Dr. Bowers said he believed the whole affair premeditated. Dr. Faus said he believed Maasie never was insane.

Completion of testimony in the case of the four defendants, who are charged with second degree murder, was postponed yesterday until tomorrow to permit Catton to finish his study of the testimony to date.

Previously Clarence Darrow, chief of defence counsel introduced two California allienists for the defense.
They were Dr. J. Thomas Orblson and Dr. Edward Huntington Williams. Both testified a "mental bomb" went off in the mind of Maasie when Kanahawai confessed he attacked Mrs. Maasie.

pleasant social hour spent by the members and their guests.

KING & QUEEN
SEE CUP GAME

LONDON, April 24—(Canadian Press Cable)—Although Newcastle United, who won the English Football Association's cup Saturday at Wembley Stadium, beating Arsenal in the final of the competition by two goals to one, had the better of the struggle the London club certainly was dead of luck. In addition to a rearranged side due to injury to James, their play making wizard, the first Newcastle goal was a gift according to all critics.
The ball went over the goal line before it was centred by Boyd for Allen to net. The Arsenalites obviously were so convinced it was a goalkick that they hardly attempted to intercept the pass. The crowd behind the Arsenal goal were staggered to see the ball in the net and the referee directing the players to the centre for a kick-off.
The Arsenal took the decision with admirable sportsmanship, but they were undoubtedly put off their game. Allen had equalized the score, John having scored for Arsenal earlier. Allen got the goal late in the second half which gave Newcastle victory.

King George and Queen Mary watched play with a crowd of 92-000 fans, many of whom had journeyed from the north of England for the match.

HITLER SOCIALISTS

000; State's Party, 291,000; Economic, 179,000; smaller parties 270-000.

The final returns distributed the votes in other states as follows:
Wurttemberg—National Socialists,
328,000; Social Democrats, 206,000;
Centrists, 254,000; Communists, 116-
000; German Nationals, 254,000.
Bavaria—Bavarian People's Party, 1,272,000; National Socialists, 1-271,000; Social Democrats, 604,000; Communists, 259,000; Bavarian Farmers, 253,000; German Nationals, 128,000; smaller parties, 122,000.
Hamburg—National Socialists,
234,000; Social Democrats, 226,000;
Communists, 119,000; State's Party, 84,000; German Nationals, 32,000;
People's Party, 24,000; Centrists, 10,000; Economic Party, 5,000; Christian Social, 8,000.
Anhalt—National Socialists, 90-
000; Social Democrats, 75,000; Communists, 20,000; German Nationals, 13,000; People's Party, 8,000; Real Estate Owners' Party, 6,000; Centrists, 3,000; State's Party, 3,000; Socialist Labor, 1,000.

Seats in the various diets were allotted as follows:
Prussia—National Socialists, 159; Social Democrats, 91; Centrists, 67;
Communists, 56; German Nationals, 30; State's Centrists, 67; Communists, 56; German Nationals, 30; State's Party, 6; People's Party, 6; Christian Social, 4; Economic Party, 3; Farmers, 3.
Bavaria—Bavarian People's Party, 45; National Socialists, 43; Social Democrats, 20; Farmers, 9; Communists, 8; German Nationals, 3.
Wurttemberg—National Socialists,
23; centrist, 17; Social Democrats, 14; Farmers, 9; Communists, 7; State's Party, 4; German Nationals, 3; Christian People's Party, 3.
Hamburg—National Socialists, 51;
Social Democrats, 7; People's Party, 5; Centrists, 2; Economic Party, 1; Christian Social, 1.
Anhalt—National Socialists, 15;
Social Democrats, 12; Communists, 3; German Nationals, 2; People's Party, 2; Centrists, 1.
As a result of their gain of 14 seats in the Anhalt diet, where before they had only one, the National Socialists were expected to form a State Government with the Nationalists and People's Party.
Another coalition Government in Wurttemberg, with the Nazis in control, was a strong likelihood if the Centrists were at least neutral, but on the other hand the Centrists, Socialists and Democrats might form a Cabinet if the Communists were neutral.
In Bavaria, however, the Hitlerites held exactly the same strength they had in the Presidential election two weeks ago and there all the other parties are bitterly opposed to them. Therefore, some form of coalition excluding the National Socialists seemed most likely.
In Hamburg, the present minority government of Socialists and Democrats is likely to continue in office.
The Prussian Government is a coalition of Socialists, Centrists and Democrats, which together polled 7,783,000 votes today for a total of 164 seats in the Diet against the Nazis' 159.

LATER
BERLIN, April 24—(A.P.)—Tentative final returns from the state diet election in Prussia today, out of a total of 20,238,000 ballots, gave the National Socialists 7,444,000; Social Democrats, 4,261,000; Centrists, 3,241,000; Communists, 2,620,000; German Nationals, 1,427,000; People's Party, 325,000; State's Party, 291,000; Economic, 179,000; small parties together, 279,000.

IN BAVARIA
BERLIN, April 24—(A.P.)—Tentative final returns from the state diet election in Bavaria today, out of a total of 3,900,000 votes, gave the Bavarian People's Party 1,272-000; National Socialists, 1,271,000;
Social Democrats, 604,000; Communists, 259,000; German Nationals, 128-000; smaller parties, 122,000.
BERLIN, April 24—(A.P.)— Strong gains by the National Socialists of Adolf Hitler in Wurttemberg indicated that the present coalition there of Centrists, German Nationals, Democrats and People's Party had lost control of the state diet in today's election.
BERLIN, April 24—(A.P.)—The preliminary allotment of seats in the Prussian Diet on the basis of today's election gave the National Socialists 159; Social Democrats, 90; Centrists, 67; Communists, 54;
German Nationals, 30; State's Party, 6; People's, 6; Christian Social,

THE BAPTIST CHURCH

Continuing an interesting series of sermons on the "Seven Churches," the Rev. A. C. Vincent yesterday morning took as the theme of his discourse Pergamos, the Church, which was the champion of the gospel of Christ in the midst of paganism, "the church of God beside the synagogue of Satan." Wealthy, beautiful, cultured, the seat of Government, the seat of pagan learning and intellectual life, the lovely city of Pergamos formed difficult soil for the growth of apostolic Christianity. "I know where thou dwel-lest . . . thou holdest fast." In the face of difficulty, of powerful adverse influences, of corrupt surroundings the little church had in the main fought the good fight and kept the faith. Christ judges mercifully, intention, effort, difficulty all are considered in the accounting.
There is commendation and praise for the fighting church. The problems of Pergamos was the old and ever new problem of christian living amidst worldly influences, and the danger to Pergamos to a great degree the danger of the church today. "But I have a few things against thee." The church moving she is safe in daily danger of the insidious power of worldly surroundings. Compromise of standards cripples christians, the dangers of Pergamos are our perils, the commendation of Pergamos is our condemnation. Repent. The evil of the few is the responsibility of the whole. By example, teaching, watchfulness and prayer must the evil be removed if the church is to carry out its mission. "To him that overcometh." To the conqueror in the face of such foes shall be granted the insignia of Heaven, the Heavenly name, the Heavenly sustenance.
The evening sermon "Who is your enemy?" was heard attentively by a large congregation, a discourse suggesting much thought, delivered with power and eloquence.
The music of the day included Hopkins' "Lift up your heads," Gounod's "O Divine Redeemer," Mendelssohn's "But the Lord is mindful of His own," presented by a large choir under the leadership of Mrs. G. Elliott Full.
The Sunday School had another successful day with an attendance far in advance of the corresponding day of last year. The successful formation of a young people's society was announced, a large gathering being in attendance at the organization meeting.

Y. M. C. A. SERVICE OF SONG

The regular weekly after-church young people's service was held in Trinity United Church with some 600 people in attendance. Dr. G. M.
Ross of Homan, China, was the special speaker of the evening, and took as his subject "The Reform Movement of China." After centuries of Dynasty rule China is changing from her old self-satisfied, conservative rule to now follow Western methods. China, with its 475 millions of people, one quarter of the population of the world, no longer despises the Western people, nor does she love them. China is looking to the West for help in her present problems.
Dr. Ross stated that there were three conflicts which have brought China to her present frame of mind.
1895—Japan and China go to war.

3,400 CANDIDATES

average of nearly 13 candidates for every vacancy. And the parties and groups are as many colored as "Joseph's Coat." Moderate Republicans are split all ways. Fifty Independent Republicans will run in Paris with 10 Independents, 10 Republican and Social Unionists, 15 Entente Republicans, 10 Left Republicans, 20 Republican Socialists, thirty Republican Feminists will run cheek by jowl with a Republican Reformist, a Republican Centrist, a Republican Syndicalist, a Republican Anti-Collectivist, and a Republican Revisionist. There are Independent Democrats, Left Democrats and Popular Democrats, three candidates for the Democratic interest.

The Radical Socialists are running 20 candidates in Paris, the Leon Blum Socialists 40, the Communists 50, the Proletarian Unionists 20 and the Anarchist Unionists 15.
There are a Royalist, a French Imperialist, a Pacific Syndicalist, a Federationist, an Idealist and a Realist.
For lack of funds one candidate in Montmartre has written his posters by hand. Another has taken his stand on a programme calling for reduction in electricity rates. The Anarchist Union urges the electors to cast blank ballots, holding that to cast a vote is sanctioning slavery. In one of the most thickly populated city districts one candidate has promised to protect the rural interests of his constituency.
Another is pleading for what he described as an "empire of the mind." But even Paris is capped by a candidate campaigning among the apple orchards of Normandy who has promised the electors a "terrestrial paradise."

Amid all this bewildering conflict of candidatures the Moderate Republicans are renewing their efforts to attain something that will approach a common front. At Bordeaux today Pierre Etienne Francine, Minister of Finance, urgently pleaded the need for a Republican Union. "The suffering world anxiously waits while we offer to our adversaries the hope of our divisions," he said.
Edouard Herriot, Radical Socialist leader, however, still holds aloof.
His comment that "one does not quarrel at the bedside of a sick mother" is running the rounds of the platforms. But Herriot declines to go further. He refuses, in his own words, to be the last link in a chain that begins on the right.
He argues that a gulf of secular-ists lies between the right and the left. "We cannot agree with Tartuffe," Herriot ironically exclaims as he tours the old cities of the provinces.
In his own constituency of Belfort, near the Swiss border, Premier Andre Tardieu today faced a lively crowd which heckled him to a point where he finally abandoned the meeting.

Canada Increases
Exports Of Pulp-
Wood To Japan

OTTAWA, April 24—(By the Canadian Press)—Canada continues to be the largest supplier of pulp to the Japanese market, and imports from the Dominion in 1931 increased by almost 6,000 short tons over those for the previous year, although the value decreased, writes Richard Grew, Canadian Trade Commissioner at Tokyo, in the forthcoming issue of the Commercial Intelligence Journal. Supplies from Norway were cut off for a part of the year owing to strikes in that country, and this fact enabled Canada to secure a larger portion of the total trade than in any previous year—49 per cent as compared with 45 per cent in 1930 and 43 per cent in 1929. The other principal supplying countries, the United States and Sweden, also increased their shipments in 1931—Imports of zinc from Canada in 1931 increased slightly in quantity from 8,792 short tons in 1930 to 10,074. Canada held the leading position among sources of supply both as regards quantity and value, followed by Australia with 9,464 tons as against 9,882 tons in 1930. Shipments from these two countries constitute about 80 per cent of the trade, and shipments from the United States about 10 per cent.
A considerable reduction took place in the value of wood and lumber imported into Japan during 1931, and as compared with 1929 the value is less than half. Over this three-year period, however, supplies from Canada have shown a large increase—from $2,555,077 (approximately) in 1929 to $3,365,898 in 1930, and to $3,884,474 in 1931.
The other principal supplying countries—the United States and Asiatic Russia—have registered substantial declines. Japan also imports quantities of wood and lumber from other countries such as Siam, India and China, but they do not enter into competition with Canadian lumber.
