FEDERAL VOTE UNLIKELY BEFORE 1935

Rumors of Election This Year Are Not Substantiated.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Montreal Star writes as follows:

A general election in Canada "about October of next year" was forecast in high circles here today as the political prospect.

Considering the prodigious program of legislation being undertaken this session, and particularly the proposed amendments to the Elections Act, many had come to the conclusion that dissolution this year is more than probable. Such is not the official calculations. It is understood that the Prime Minister adheres to the idea expressed weeks ago, that the business interests are opposed to recovery being arrested by the turmoil of an election this year.

The proposed change in the election law relates to the preparation of voters lists rather than overhauling the machinery in general.

Reduces Campaigns

At present between dissolution and polling it takes practically 60 days, which is found to be both a physical and financial strain. The long period is due to the fact that the preparation of lists starts only after dissolution. By the proposed amendment, a basic list would be made each year by commissioners. This can be corrected after the election date is announced, but it will be possible to have the voting in 28 days.

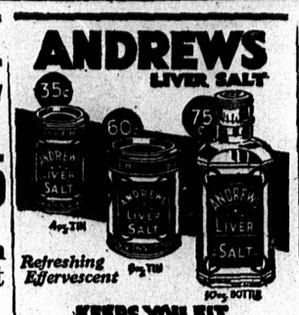
Of the legislation yet to be brought down, these amendments to the Elections Act and the Farm Credit Bill are most important, though several amendments to the Criminal Code will be made. The latter will likely call for registration by those in possession of firearms, and will enlarge the discretionary powers of magistrates in dealing with certain offenders.

Question of "Informers"

Whether the much protested clause about "common informers" will be eliminated will depend upon the character of the discussion on the Sweepstakes Bill, perhaps this week.

One of the provisions of the Farm Credits Bill will be to facilitate compromise with creditors. This bill may be delayed until the Supreme Court gives judgment on the validity of the existing act respecting commercial compromises.

The Stevens committee is far from through, nor is the end in sight. After the tobacco inquiry is finished canning will probably be probed, then the meat packers, chain and department stores, furniture, women's wear, rubber, gasoline, and fish. In fact, the material is so extensive as to suggest doubt that it can all be tackled this year save in the nature of the "once over."



TOTTENHAM REJOICES AS WEE TOT GROWS

LONDON, May 10. — Tottenham will rejoice when the vicar of Christ church, West Green Rd., baptizes the tiny auburn-haired Joan, child of a coffee shop keeper's wife.

Tottenham knows Joan as the baby reared in a home-made incubator whom nobody expected to live. Now she is a bonny infant of three and a half months.

Joan came into the worlc nearly three months before she was expected.

"Of course, the child can't possibly live," said the sympathizing Tottenham people when they heard of hte tiny human miracle, swathed in cotton wool in the incubator which its father had made with electric lamps.

But they did not know Joan's mother — reckoned without a woman's indomitable will to rear the child that nearly cost her own life.

Joan's head was smaller than the electric light bulbs of her incubator. She was fed with a pipette—an instrument like a fountain pen filler. It took an hour to give her a meal. She then slept an hour, woke up, had another hour's feeding, and so on.

Now the incubator has been cast aside and Joan has taken possession of a wicker cot.

KING TO INSPECT VETERANS' CORPS

(By The Canadian Press)

LONDON, May 10—Inspection of the Corps of Commissionaires by the King at Buckingham Paace on June 10 will be only the second instance since the annual inspections were begun in 1868, that the reigning monarch has honored the Corps in this way. King Edward VII carried out the inspection in 1907.

The present King, when Prince of Wales, was the inspecting officer two years later, however, and various members of the Royal Family have performed the ceremony.

Their interest in the Corps is an acknowledgment of the fine record of the organization, founded in 1859 by the late Captain Sir Edward Walter, with the intention of providing suitable employment for wounded pensioners of the Army and Navy. Then as now, every member must deposit a minimum sum on joining, and subsequently a minimum sum yearly, in the Corps saving bank. In return, the Corps guarantees his fidelity to his employer.

PIUSVILLE INSTITUTE

Mrs. Maxim Gallant entertained the members and friends of the Piusville Women's Institute at her home on Tuesday evening, April 24. The President, Mrs. Amb. Corcoran, conducted the meeting, which opened by repeating the Hail Mary in unison. Sixteen members responded to the roll call, which was answered by "Ways that women can save money." The minutes of the previous meeting were read, adopted and signed.

The treasurer reported that expenses for the month of April amounted to $5.72 and that there is a balance of $1.54 on hand. The school commitee reported there was nothing needed for the school.

The Institute recently purchased a beautiful large picture of the Sacred Heart, on which are inscribed the names of the members, and had it framed and placed in the school. The sick committee reported that they visited and distributed fruit to two acting persons.

The following committees were then appointed for next month: Sick, Mrs. Octave Blanchard and Mrs. Henry L. Gallant; School, Mrs. Nelson Gallant and Miss Henrietta Gallant; Program, Misses Emily M. Gallant and Bertha Gallant.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Archie Gallant and the roll call will be answered by "A weed I will pull each time I see it." There will also be a grab bag for the purpose of raising funds.

A very interesting discussion then took place, namely, "How we can make the District Convention more beneficial." Plans were then discussed in regard to making a quilt for a needy family in the district. The President then suggested that the meetings open at 8 o'clock, instead of 7.30, during the summer months. This was moved and carried. Mrs. Amb. Corcoran then read a letter of appreciation from Dr. Creelman. An abundance of merriment was derived from the "Treasure Cake," which was cut into squares and sold. Mrs. Frank P. Gallant was the lucky winner of the sum of money contained therein.

The program consisted of two contests, namely, "Missing Word Contest," and "Flower Contest" prizes being won by Miss Bertha Gallant and Miss Emily M. Gallant respectively. Also a solo, "Sing Me To Sleep," by Mrs. Wm. Gallant, accompanied by Mrs. John J. Corcoran. The meeting then adjourned by singing, "Mary, We Crown Thee With Blossoms Today." Proceeds for the evening were $4.75.

PLAY GIVEN IN SIGN LANGUAGE

(By The Canadian Press)

SASKATOON, May 9—Sign language was used by members of the Western Canada Association of the Deaf as the medium of presentation at a unique concert here. A short play, given by school pupils, depicted early education of the deaf in this country. In addition "O Canada" was rendered orally in the sign language.

Quaker State Motor Oil Meets New Requirement

Dominion motorists who demand high quality lubrication for their cars are welcoming distribution of oil in cans by the Quaker State Oil Refining Company of Canada, Ltd., according to Howard M. Morton of Toronto, manager of the Company.

The trend toward "canned" motor oils, in the opinion of Mr. Morton, brings distinct advantages to both consumer and producer of quality lubricants. Distribution of oil in sealed cans protects the car owner who knows the value of paying for premium quality, protects the refiner from possible contamination, and provides a new merchandising idea for dealers.

"The use of the canned oil is creating a wider consumer demand," says Mr. Morton, "and I am sure it will continue to increase as more and more car owners are learning the sure economy of high quality lubrication.

"The canned oil gives assurance that the oil which the motorist buys goes directly into the car without possibility of contamination or adulteration. This is no reflection on the dealer, as car owners are naturally accustomed to canned products through long experience with foods distributed in that manner."

Mr. Morton stated that Quaker State motor oil is available for the consumer in two sizes: the single quart container which is useful for replenishing the crank case lubricant, and the one gallon size can which provides a complete change of oil for many cars.

"The actual operation of opening the can and delivery of oil to the motor is simple, quick and easy," said Mr. Morton, "and there is no waste and the can drains clean. We have already observed that the purchase of oil in cans appeals strongly to women drivers who have enthusiastically praised the idea. For that reason alone it would seem that the so-called 'packaged' oil is here to stay.

"With the general improvement in business conditions, car owners are turning to quality oils as they find that the highest grade lubrication is the most economical in the long run. Many motorists learned that cheap oils were not the cheapest after all, and soon discovered that their savings were more than used up by the necessity of using more oil."

The Quaker State Oil Refining Company of Canada, Ltd., has rapidly grown to be one of the leading distributors of motor oils in the Dominion. As there are more than one million cars registered in the Canadian provinces today, the business of supplying lubrication to automobile owners is an exacting one.

The Quaker State plant is located near the waterfront in Toronto, and distributors for the company are active in all parts of the Dominion. Quaker State motor oil has long been popular with motorists and especially with those who have more than the layman's appreciation of mechanical phases of car operation.

Quaker State motor oil is noted as the oil "with an extra quart of lubrication in every gallon," a statement derived from the unusual method of super-refining it undergoes. The "light-ends" and other non-lubricating properties are taken out at the refinery, and replaced with rich, pure lubricant.

As Mr. Morton points out, this method of super-refining not only gives the car owner real lubrication for his money, but the advantage, in service, of an extra quart . . . the quart which in ordinary oils would have vaporized and burned up, in a hundred miles or so of driving.

Leader Advises Against Strikes

(By The Canadian Press)

NORTH SYDNEY, N. S., May 10—Peter French crossed the Atlantic years ago in search of fortune. He found it here in this Cape Breton town and is now on his way back to Scotland with his wife and family to retire on the old homestead.

Fortune to him meant a fair living, friends, and an opportunity to play his part in a community. When he decided to return to his native land the townspeople paid tribute to him as a leading figure in labor circles and as a citizen, and Mayor F. L. Kelley presented him with a gift on behalf of the town.

In accepting it French left this message with his fellow workers:

"There is nothing to be gained by strikes and trouble, and workers can secure more benefits and accomplish greater progress by co-operative methods of bartering."

Fishing Season Gets Under Way Early This Year

(By The Canadian Press)

HALIFAX, May 10—It is time to get out your old rubber-boots and fishing gear. Fresh water fishing throughout Nova Scotia has started in earnest.

Trout fishing opened in Halifax County AApril 15, but the lakes still had ice in them so it was almost impossible to do much fishing. Other counties in the province opened the season April 1 but it did not do them much good.

Now that the weather will permit one to hold a rod in his hands without wearing gloves or freezing his hands, and the ice and snow have disappeared, there is a regular torrent of people heading for the open country.

It is a little early for the "May fly" so on the war along the fishermen must stop and buy some minnows or perhops some others will dig worms in the backyard before leaving home.

Some fishermen prefer to use artificial flies but in the early spring the fish, as a rule, frequent the deeper water, which is always warmer than the water nearer the surface in the springtime.

Soon the "May fly" will come out in their countless millions and every fisherman will enjoy what is considered the best fresh-water fishing sport there is.

It takes a real expert man to keep the May fly dry when you finally get it on the small "midge" hook. But what is an even harder task is, when you have a "big fellow" hooked, to keep him on the line. And this is no easy task. Many fishermen will tell you ofo how he lost his biggest fish because his 'midge hook was not strong enough or because the barb, with which you hook the fish, did not prove to be strong enough to get a good grip on the "big one's" mouth.

Big Napoleon Of The Desert

LONDON, May 10—The "big Napoleon of the Desert" —white-robed Ibn Saud—appeared today to have completed his conquest of Arabia—to have gone as far as he can without coming into conflict with European powers.

The conquest of Yemen, ruled by his sole rival for pre-eminence in the peninsular, gives him possession of all the Red Sea coast of Arabia except that held by Great Britain.

Ibn Saud, King of Saudi Arabia, stands out in his personality and career as the most spectacular figure produced in Arabia since the days of the Prophet Mahomet.

He is a towering figure, six feet four inches tall, and at the age of 54 has been fighting for some 35 years.

In contrast to other Arabian tribal chieftains, notably the Imam Yahya of Yemen, reported to have been assassinated with the fall of his country, Ibn Saud has been a free spender and a patron of modern inventions.

The warlike ruler is said to have married 100 or more wives during the past 10 years and to have divorced most of them, sending them back to their home tribes to find other husbands.

Strangely enough, this marrying and divorcing was for the purpose of cementing loyalty and unity among the tribes under his domination. To an Arab no dishonor is cast upon a woman by divorcing her, rather the ex-wives became goodwill ambassadors of the king in their home towns.

In these methods of courting popularity—free spending and tribal inter-marriage—Ibn Saud stood in strong contrast to his rival the Imam Yaha. The latter seized one child of each chief under his dominion and held them as hostages, threatening to put them to death in case of revolt.

Instead of spending his money the Yemen ruler is reputed to have accumulated some $50,000,000 in the royal treasury, in addition to an immense personal fortune.

Modernized equipment for his army made easier the ever-widening conquests which started when Ibn Sud was barely 20 years old. As a minor chieftain he led a raid which captured the historic home of his ancestors in Nejd from a rival dynasty.

Under cover of conducting a great Wahabi revival (the Wahabis are a fundamental sect of Mohammedans) he organized the unsettled Bedouins in civic communities, and was able by 1913 to drive the Turks out of Eastern Arabia.

After gaining complete control over the tribes of Nejd he captured Hedjaz, of which sacred Mecca is the capital, in 1924. The next year he was proclaimed king of Nejd and Hedjaz. The name of the country was changed just last year to Saudi-Arabia.

WEAKENED ARCHES CAUSE FOOT ACHES

A nurse visited me one day in some distress, writes a doctor. Her feet had begun to trouble her, causing her great pain at night. Sometimes when walking in the street, her instep seemed to give way and it was agony to put her foot to the ground.

On getting her to stand in her bare feet it was obvious that the arches of the right foot were stretched and weakened as the foot was everted and completely flat on the ground. The left foot was not so badly affected.

She was shown how to do simple heel and toe exercises, also how to walk about her room on the outside edge of her feet. Arch supports were ordered for the right foot, but we hoped that well fitting and suitable exercises would get the arches of the left foot perfectly strong again.

LOWER FREETOWN W. I.

The April meeting of Lower Freetown Women's Institute was held at Mrs. Scott Jardine's. The meeting was opened with the Ode and Creed. Twelve members and two visitors were present. At the conclusion of business, several questionnaires were dealt with. A programme of readings, vocal solo and contests was much enjoyed. Work was then resumed on the Institute quilt. A social hour was much enjoyed, during which the hostess and her daughters served refreshments.

The next meeting is to be at Mr. Gordon Burns, May 16th, roll call to be answered by "How we are benefitted by meeting together."

BERMUDIAN YACHTS LEAD

(C.P. Cable By Guardian's Special Wire)

HAMILTON, Bermuda, May 9 — E. H. Trimingham's fleet Viking tonight had a two-point lead over her nearest contender in the six-metre yacht races between United States and Bermudian craft for the Prince of Wales trophy.

The Bermuda yacht went into the lead today when she was awarded first place in the third race of the series. Lloyd Jone's Sea Venture, also from Bermuda Royal Yacht Club, crossed the finish line first but was disqualified because she failed to pick up a sailor who fell overboard.

Today's racing increased the Viking's score to 16 1-4 and left J. E. Pearman's Achiles two points behind with 14 1-4. Achilles, another Bermuda boat, placed fourth today.

The Sea Venture's total remained at 13 1-4, ahead of Briggs Cunningham's Lucille, an American craft. The Lucille placed third today to bring her points up to 12. The two oother United States yachts remained in fifth and sixth positions, Seward Johnson's Jack with six and Clarence Smith's Anis with three.

Anis finished in fifth position today, and Jack trailed the squadron home.

Tomorrow's race will conclude the series.

THAT "LIKE THE DICKENS" FEELING IS LIVER

Wake Up Your Liver Bile. Feel Fit. You Needn't use Calomel To Do It.

It's your liver, failing to pour out the vital two pounds of bile, daily, into your bowels, that makes you feel so off-colour.

Lack of bile means poor digestion. Food stays too long in your bowels and decays. Your system is poisoned. You go through the misery of gas, bloating, pain, heartburn. You have a dark brown abominable taste in your mouth and bad breath. Your skin's unhealthy and often your head aches. Your whole system seems out of kilter.

How can you reasonably expect to clear up a condition like this by merely taking salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum, or roughage? These only move the bowels, and that's not enough. You must wake up your liver bile.

Avoid calomel (mercury). Take Carter's Little Liver Pills. They're purely vegetable, gentle, sure and safe. They'll make you feel a hundred per cent better in a very short time.

Don't waste your money on substitutes. Be definite. Ask for Carter's by name—and get them! Look for the name, Carter's, on the red label. 25c. at all druggists. 49
