Colonel Hughes And Canadian Steel

only. Since the beginning of the business, the Canadian Shell Committee has turned out 22,000,000 shells, the representatives at the present time are capable and ready for any undertaking. As I have said, at the outbreak of war, Canadian financial and industrial life was paralyzed. After making due allowance for the imported products which went into the shells made in Canada, there has been added to the wealth of Canada, through the action of the Shell Committee, $250,000,000; or $30 each for every man, woman, and child in the country.

Mr. MACDONALD: Would the minister be good enough to say why there was a change from the old Shell Committee to the Imperial Munitions Board?

Sir SAM HUGHES: The early part of the work was what I might call scientific. I chose the very best men I could get who would do the work. Bertram, Carnegie, Cantley and the others were all experts. I also picked the very best military men I could get, such as Col. Lafferty. I don't remember the names of the others, but they were men who had been accustomed for years to this highly technical work. Before the Shell Committee was dissolved there were in the factories of Montreal and Toronto and the other big cities of the Dominion, a hundred men who were just as expert as these men were at the beginning of the war. A commission was appointed to look into the question of the steel production of this country, and to look after the best interests of the steel work, for steel is the basis of this industry. I think that should be a satisfactory answer to my hon. friend.

Mr. MACDONALD: Why were the services of these men dismissed with and new men who knew nothing about the business taken on to purchase shells?

Sir SAM HUGHES: I am not aware that there has been any purchase of shells. Orders have been placed with certain firms. Before the Munitions Board was formed the arrangement was that a certain number of shells would come in automatically from month to month.

EAT AN ACTIVE FOOD.

To avoid indigestion and constipation, eat less of the highly refined fancy cereals and starchy foods. What the stomach, liver and bowels require is an unrefined, active cereal to keep them working right. Dr. Jackson's Roman Meal has more active, stimulating power than any other breakfast cereals. It contains whole berries of wheat, whole berries of rye, deodorized flaxseed and bran. Makes delicious porridge and all baked products.

At all grocers, 10 cents and 25 cents.

I have not had the privilege, since the war began, of addressing the House on the question of the formation of the Canadian force. I would ask the indulgence of the House for a moment while I do something with regard to the subject. On August 4, 1914, war was declared; on August 7, the Canadian division was authorized, the offer of the Prime Minister having been accepted. That was on Friday. On Saturday, the 8th, Valcartier was taken over, and on Monday the 10th ranges and target buildings were begun. By the 20th three and a half miles of ranges were completed, and 1,500 targets were put in position. Up to the same date 12 miles of watermain laid in, and 15 miles drains, open and covered, had been located. Army Service Corps and Ordnance buildings were constructed, railway sidings laid in, fences removed, crops harvested, ground cleared streets made, upwards of 200 baths for the men put in, water chlorinated, electric light and telephones installed, wool made into cloth, clothing and uniforms, leather into boots, equipment provided, supplies collected, transport of all kinds purchased, and 35,000 men got under canvas in less than three weeks from the acceptance of the call.

The men were trained in marching, manoeuvring, and shooting. The men would fire three or four rounds at the targets from five hundred yards, then they would run to the next range and fire three or four more rounds, and so on to the next range, and down to one hundred yards. The result was that the men were trained to handle a rifle as no men had ever handled it before.

Canada has developed confidence in her manhood, and confidence in her womanhood. The women of this country have performed noble service, perhaps even better than the men, and they continue to give great encouragement to the work that is going on. We have turned out 250,000,000 shells which we have already made a record in the world, and 100,000 skilled mechanics; and our manufacturers at the present time are capable and ready for any undertaking. As I have said, at the outbreak of war, Canadian financial and industrial life was paralyzed. After making due allowance for the imported products which went into the shells made in Canada, there has been added to the wealth of Canada, through the action of the Shell Committee, $250,000,000; or $30 each for every man, woman, and child in the country.

I should not be lacking in justice if, before concluding, I did not express my appreciation and sense of gratitude to the press of this country. Let me give just an instance of how matters were managed with regard to the Ottawa papers, and the same procedure was carried on throughout the length and breadth of Canada. In Ottawa there are the local papers and the representatives of the great dailies of both political parties. I say "political parties," but I hope that party politics is ancient history now, and that there is no such thing in the country today. I called the representatives of these papers together and explained the position. I said that if there was any item of news that we could legitimately give them for publication we would do it, and they agreed with me that anything which was not in the interests of the Empire and the service to publish should be withheld. I explained to them that occasionally a newspaper got hold of an item of news in some back-handed fashion and published it, and very often such an item would do harm. I gave them everything that could be legitimately published. We let them know about the movements of troops and transports, to, on the understanding that such items were not to be published, and in not a single instance has any of those newspaper men violated my confidence. Their conduct has been simply perfect.

I trust that no one will suggest that there has been anything so party political in the Militia Department. Whenever I found them, I took the sons of our best men on the other side of the House out of the ranks and put them where they belonged. For instance, I knew that the son of the late Finance Minister of Canada (Mr. Fielding) who is a very excellent young man and a splendid fellow, was serving in a subordinate capacity at the front, when he was capable of filling a superior position, and without any suggestion whatever from his father, I placed him where he belonged. When I was in France I found among the fifteen men of the original Princess Patricia's who had fought right through from the beginning of the war, the son of the hon. member for Red Deer (Mr. Michael Clark). I took him out of the ranks and I was proud to do it, and I have done the same with others. I have already pointed out that the women of the country have helped us in every imaginable way, and so have the clergy. Hundreds of them are at the front today, and many of them are going as chaplains. They are showing a splendid spirit. Members of all churches are actively working for the cause in every part of the country. I had the honour recently of standing on the same platform with the Roman Catholic Bishop of Peterborough, and it was a most enjoyable sight to see the orange and the green standing shoulder to shoulder. I enjoyed it, as no doubt did His Lordship. In the trenches today French, English, Scotch and Irish soldiers are standing shoulder to shoulder, all doing their duty fearlessly and well; and let me say to the credit of the German-Canadians, that many of them have already given up their lives for the cause, and they are doing their duty just as well as the other boys.

TO SAVE EYES

Is the Object of This Free Prescription—Try It If Your Eyes Give You Trouble.

Thousands of people suffer from eye troubles because they do not know what to do. They know some good home remedy for every other minor ailment, but none for their eye troubles. They neglect their eyes, because the trouble is not sufficient to drive them to an eye specialist, who would, anyway, charge them a heavy fee. As a last resort, they get an optician or to the five and ten-cent stores, and oftentimes get glasses that last a few months, do their eyes more violence than good.

Here is a simple prescription that every one should use: 5 grains Bon-Opto dissolved in 1/2 glass of water. Use three or four times a day to bathe the eyes. This prescription and the simple Bon-Opto system keeps the eyes clean, sharp, clear and quickly overcomes inflammation and irritation. Many other similar troubles are greatly benefited and often cured by eyes and other ailments show that wearers of glasses have discarded them after a few weeks' use.

It is good for the eyes, and contains no ingredient which would injure the most sensitive eyes of an infant or the aged. Your own druggist can fill this prescription, or the Valmas Drug Co. of Toronto will fill it for you by mail. Try it, and know for once what real eye comfort is.

A prominent City Physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Bon-Opto is a very remarkable remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is one of the very few preparations, I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family."
