

Come—hash them!

This chilly weather nobody likes a cold dinner—everyone likes a hot, savoury hash made the Edwards' Soup way. This is how to do it:—

First empty Edwards' Soup into a saucepan; let it boil thoroughly for half-an-hour (give it plenty of time), pour the soup over the cold pieces of meat and vegetable; warm up together and—dish up and enjoy. P.S.—Cook enough for second helpings all round.

EDWARDS' SOUPS

But you MUST give them half-an-hour—worth it.

SIR ED. GREY'S PROPOSITION

Suggests Local Control For Ulster

LONDON, Oct. 30. (Special)—Sir Edward Grey, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, in a speech at Warwick explained that what the government was willing to concede to satisfy Ulster, was a sort of home rule, giving Ulster control of her own education, police and matters of that kind.

It would seem clear that in his recent announcement of policy with regard to home rule in Ulster the Premier, Mr. Asquith, had no intention of offering even the temporary exclusion of Ulster from the operation of the home rule bill. The Daily Chronicle says that on the suggestion of an "exalted personage" informal exchanges of views on home rule have occurred between the ministers and the opposition leaders. It adds that hopes of a concordat are very slender.

Sufferers From Piles

ZAM-BUK HAS CURED THESE!

Friction on the hemorrhoid veins that are swollen, inflamed and gorged with blood, is what causes the terrible pain and stinging and smarting of piles. Zam-Buk applied at night will be found to give ease before morning. Thousands of persons have proved this. Why not be guided by the experience of others?

Mr. Thomas Pearson, of Prince Albert, Sask., writes: "I must thank you for the benefit I have received from Zam-Buk. Last summer I suffered greatly from piles. I started to use Zam-Buk and found it gave me relief, so I continued it, and after using three or four boxes I am pleased to say it has effected a complete cure."

Mr. G. A. Dufresne, 183-185 St. Joseph Street, St. Roch, Quebec, P. Q., writes: "I can highly recommend Zam-Buk to everyone who suffers from piles."

Magistrate Sanford, of Weston, King's Co., N. S., says: "I suffered long from itching piles, but Zam-Buk has now cured me."

Mr. William Kenty, of Upper Nine Mile River, Hants Co., N. S., says: "I suffered terribly from piles, the pain at times being almost unbearable. I tried various ointments, but everything I tried failed to do me the slightest good. I was tired of trying various remedies, when I heard of Zam-Buk, and thought as a last resource I would give this balm a trial. After a very short time Zam-Buk effected a complete cure."

Zam-Buk is also a sure cure for skin injuries and diseases, eczema, ulcers, varicose veins, cuts, burns, bruises, chaps, cold sores, etc. 50c. box from all druggists and stores, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse harmful imitations.

L. M. MONTGOMERY STORY WRITER

BY MARJORY MacMURCHY

"The Golden Road," published a few weeks ago, is Miss L. M. Montgomery's sixth book of fiction. By this time we may sum up clearly the qualities of a writer in whose life one of the most influential facts is that she was born in Prince Edward Island. The world that reads her books—for her books are immensely popular, the sales amounting to half a million copies—is a world of good people, everyday and workaday people, who are happy to warm their hearts in the good-will, sunshine and promise-of-good-coming-true which are a great part of the gift of this woman story-writer of Prince Edward Island. We read her stories eagerly because they are true and happy and full of a clear, kind, wholesome northern simplicity. One wonders if other people find in Miss Montgomery's work a certain likeness to the writings of Hans Christian Andersen. He is a northern writer, clear, simple and truth-telling. Miss Montgomery's creative power is less, but in saying so one detracts nothing from the value of her work as it stands. Hans Christian Andersen is a world writer. It is true that by instinct Miss Montgomery is not economical of words as Hans Andersen was. Her "Chronicles of Avonlea" had less of the flowery diction which sometimes threatens her simplicity; but "The Golden Road" has more of it. Pretty strings of words and fanciful names are not to be compared in value with her plain straightforward happy telling of a story. Her knowledge of northern character is worth its weight in gold; and economy in words is much to ask from anyone, since it is one of the final proofs of greatness in a writer.

P. E. ISLAND

To trace the connection between Montgomery's gift as a story-writer and Prince Edward Island is a delightful task. If the fables live anywhere in Canada, it must be in Prince Edward Island, with its red earth, gentle aspects, loveliness of fields and broken belts of wood in darker green, and the blue sea coming up on every side. The people are shrewd, kind, self-respecting, full of character and thrift, fond of themselves, their island and their traditions with a certain degree of passion, and very much disposed to play.

"She said to me to take life easy As the grass grows in the fields." That is Prince Edward Island. It is a dear place. But more to our present purpose, which is tracing the true descent and inheritance of a story-writer, the island is crammed with stories, stories of sailors and great storms, stories of ghosts and the devil, stories of lovers and runaway matches, stories of queer people and witches, stories of the good little people themselves. Even I have seen the silver rim of a water pitcher that was broken one night on the way to the well—but that is another story.

MISS MONTGOMERY'S LIFE

Miss Montgomery was born in Prince Edward Island some time in the seventies or eighties of the nineteenth century. Her mother died when she was very young. Her father went soon to Saskatchewan. The child was given to the care of her mother's father and mother. Her maternal grandfather was postmaster at Cavendish, a circumstance, which later was to mean a great deal to the young story-writer. Every budding genius requires realms of blank paper. The yellow-brown postoffice forms of the Dominion Government were trove to her. She scribbled on their yellow backs to her heart's content. Thus do governments encourage unaware the genius of young citizens. Later, when manuscripts were sent out to editors, Miss Montgomery is herself authority for the statement that being able to recover the rejected MSS. from the postoffice without a soul except herself being the wisest made all the difference in the world. She would never have had the courage to keep on sending if the postoffice had been elsewhere.

Her maternal grandfather's name was Macneil. The Macneills are famous Island people. Also he is recorded, a Scottish poet named Mac-

Reasons why the Ford Car is Best

Number 4—Control

There is no complex shifting of gears to bother the driver in the operation of the Ford car and at no time is it necessary to remove the hands from the steering wheel.

Starting, stopping and reversing are controlled by foot pedals, leaving the hands of the driver free at all times for the more delicate operation of steering the car.

There are three foot-pedal controls, low and high speed, reverse, and emergency brake on left side of car. The spark and throttle is directly under steering wheel. Control of the Ford is the simplest and easiest of any car on the market.
