Tom Mix and Tony Jr. Wonder Horse, At The Capitol

"The Rustlers' Roundup," a Universal western picture starring the famous Tom Mix, greatest of the cowboys, which opened at the Capitol Theatre last night, proved to be one of the fastest dramas of its kind this reviewer has ever seen. Furthermore, it contained a remarkable cast and beautiful backgrounds, and sent away everyone with a feeling that he had received more than his money's worth.

Thrilling moments include the stage coach race, giving a whole rodeo as a background, and a vicious hand-to-hand fight between Tom and Douglas Dumbrille, one of the villains. There are other tense moments, in which Tom shows he can use his head as well as he can a revolver.

One of the outstanding features of the picture is the introduction of Noah Beery, Jr., son of Noah Beery and nephew of Wally Beery, who has not been seen in a feature length picture before. The young man gives a surprisingly capable performance and we hope to see him again, perhaps some day a star in his own right.

Diane Sinclair combines beauty and acting ability. Roy Stewart, the veteran "heavy," and Douglas Dumbrille, a comparative new-comer to the screen, although he has had much stage experience, accord themselves admirably. Bill Desmond, another veteran, had all too small a part.

Tony, Jr., appearing in his third picture, is a worthy successor to the beloved Tony.

My advice to lovers of clean, wholesome westerns with plenty of gunplay and fighting and hard riding is not to miss this one.

Y's Men's Club Sponsor "Mary Pickford" At Prince Edward

Mary Pickford's new picture, "Secrets," opened yesterday, in co-operation with the Y. M. C. A. and sponsored by the Y's Men's Club at the Prince Edward before an audience that greeted it with an enthusiasm which plainly indicated that Mary is still "America's Sweetheart" despite the fact that this is her first picture in more than two years.

"Secrets" is one of the most beautiful productions that has yet come out of Hollywood, and the star looks younger and more amazingly pretty than ever. Her performance is excellent, as is the work of all others in the cast especially that of Leslie Howard in the role of a romantic lover.

The story begins in Salem, Mass., travels across the continent to Monterey, Calif., and back again to Washington, D. C., entwining with it the life threads of two people, following their joint careers from youth to old age.

In addition to beauty and romance, there is also plenty of melodrama. While raising cattle in the West, the principals are beleaguered by a band of cattle rustlers in a terrifying night fight which deals death along with justice.

Generally speaking, "Secrets" is the story of the love and devotion of a loyal wife who sees her husband through many trying situations to final wealth and political fame. It presents in a very unusual way the problem of a wife confronted by the fact that her husband has been unfaithful. In these dramatic scenes are disclosed some remarkable work on the part of the star and Leslie Howard.

Anyone who ever doubted that Mary Pickford could act should by all means see this picture. Her performance is greatly heightened, of course, by the work of Leslie Howard, who is superb. Also Mona Maris, in the role of the other woman, gives a most creditable performance. And Aubrey Smith as the crusty New England father, with Blanche Frederici in the role of domineering mother, and Doris Lloyd as the sympathetic aunt who befriends Mary in that gorgeous New England sequence, are entitled to their share of praise.

"Secrets" should certainly be seen during its engagement here, as it is unquestionably one of the great film entertainments of the year.

APPARENTLY FORGOT HER 'ARABIAN NIGHTS'

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18.—"Prince Ali Baba," christened Grant Reid, will be able to test the potency of his "vanishing powder" from the interior of a jail cell.

He sold some of it to Maude Roberts, negro, for $60 to enable her sister, confined in a Washington jail to do a disappearing act. The stuff didn't work and Maude wanted her money back.

The "Prince" refused and was arrested.

ROCK CREEK, B. C., Oct. 18.—It isn't news when it rains here. But it is news when it rains beetles. That's what happened here. There was a "downpour" of tiny brown insects which continued intermittently for nearly three hours. The beetles had wings but seemed unable to use them.

INGQITI CUSTOM KILLS CHILD (Canadian Press)

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa, Oct. 19.—Evidence at the inquest on the death of a native child recently showed that the child's father, Vobe, asked another native, Eiek, to cut off the last joint of the child's left hand. He used an ordinary table knife and, according to the evidence of the District Surgeon, who conducted the post-mortem dressed the finger with cow dung. Three weeks later the child died in hospital from tetanus.

Eiek told the court that he had performed the operation at the request of the child's father. He had previously cut the fingers of several other children, but none had died.

Thomas Zini, court interpreter, stated that the Ingqiti custom of cutting fingers was formerly practiced by the Amaxosas but was now forbidden both by the civil authority and the churches. The custom had become repugnant to Christian and civilized natives and anyone with a cut finger was looked upon as bearing a mark surviving from ancient heathenism.

"Death due to tetanus resulting from the cutting and probably septic bandaging of one of deceased's fingers in carrying out an alleged native custom" was the verdict. The presidency magistrate directed that criminal proceedings be taken against those concerned.

SELLMAN—FURNES

The marriage of Emily Ella Sellman of Southampton, England, to George Winston Churchill Furness of Vernon, P. E. I. took place in St. Paul's Anglican Church on Saturday, Rev. J. M. Crisall officiated, and the wedding music was played by Mr. Mattland Farmer. The bride, who was given in marriage by Mr. C. W. Horton, wore a gown of wine colored crepe. During the signing of the register, Mrs. P. Fobert sang. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Irving, Avenue Road, after which the bride and groom left on an extended motor trip. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Furness will live at 63 Blythwood Road. Mr. Furness is a son of the late Thos. Furness of Vernon.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

WEDDING BELLS

The marriage of Miss Margaret J. Shaw to Mr. Oswald H. Collings, both of New Perth, took place quietly at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. MacLeod, 11 Pleasant Street, Charlottetown, Wednesday evening. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. E. Armstrong. The couple were unattended. The bride wore an ensemble of blue and gray heavy sheer crepe, blue hat to match and pearl jewelry. She was the recipient of beautiful and valuable wedding gifts from friends and relatives at home and abroad. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Collings drove to their home in New Perth. The Guardian joins with many friends in extending hearty felicitations.

NO SUCH THING AS OVER PRODUCTION!

CALGARY, Oct. 19.—(C.P.)—Destruction of livestock and crops in an effort to maintain commodity price levels was an act again God, Walter Nash, member of the New Zealand parliament, told members of the Men's and Women's Canadian Clubs here.

Mr. Nash condemned an economic system which permitted growers to plow up millions of acres of cotton and wheat while thousands of persons in the Orient went without clothing and food.

"There was no such a thing as over-production," he said. The fault lay in the system of distribution. Present economic conditions were attributable to the world war, he declared.

"Do you take me for a fool?" "No. But what's my opinion against thousands?"

Dig Water Serpent Causes Consternation

SEATTLE, Oct. 19.—(A.P.)—The cam-headed sea serpent of Point Cadboro, B. C., started a controversy that raged tonight from the Straits of Juan De Fuca up toward Prince of Wales Archipelago, and it won't be settled unless the monster lays an egg. The egg is to determine the sex of the 80-foot nightmare reported by two score citizens of all degrees, so they can decide on a name.

SEA-SERPENT

"Hiaschuckuk," meaning "big water snake" was the temporary name given the reptile in the States, but Victoria taxpayers, understanding the word as "Hiaschuckuk," which they interpret as "big gamble," said indignantly there was no gambling about the snake, as the great number of eyewitnesses made it a sure thing.

Meanwhile Point Cadboro, B. C., where the camel-headed one was first reported this season dubbed it "Cadborosaurus" or "Caddy" for short, and reserved all rights. Other points said "Cadborosaurus" was merely a generic name, and that the snake should be called "Amy" to distinguish it from Ogopogo, the noted 60-foot sheep-headed water dragon, hundreds claim to have seen in Okanogan Lake, B. C. "It's probably the wife of Ogopogo," said E. J. Da'by, Seattle fish expert and Marine editor, "as it was seen preening its scales on the rocks at Point Cadboro. If it is a giant Conger eel, some of the seven and eight foot eels caught and photographed in this region may be the off-spring."

OBEYING A DARE MAN LOSES LIFE

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 18.—Clyde Ashburn, a young married man of Port Burwell, was killed about 4.30 o'clock this afternoon when his hand came in contact with a live Hydro wire running through the limbs of a tree near his home.

The victim fell from the tree a distance of 15 or 20 feet. Employees of the rural Hydro Department, experienced in resuscitation, worked on the body for an hour. The victim's right hand and one foot were burned. An inquest has not been deemed necessary.

Simple Rules prevent INDIGESTION

East in moderation; work and sleep with windows open; take daily exercise in the fresh air; forgetting recreation. Do not worry. Go to bed in decent time, and enjoy a sparkling glass of Andrew's Liver Salt once or twice each week.

Three simple, sensible rules should keep you free from indigestion and the headaches and body weakness that go hand in hand with this disorder. They will help you to become really healthy and stay healthy, for this very natural reason.

Even though you may be regular in your habits, you may be the unconscious victim of incomplete elimination. Thousands of people suffer from periodic headaches and digestive troubles because they do not realize that regularity alone does not indicate complete functioning of the eliminative organs.

The Andrew's Health Rules do assure this complete functioning. Follow them faithfully. Go to bed early to-night after a refreshing, sparkling glass of Andrew's Liver Salt or take your Andrew's first thing in the morning. Then bid goodbye to recurring indigestion, headaches, and body weakness. For Andrew's helps Nature to purify and invigorate the whole system. All druggists sell Andrew's—35c and 65c in tins—75c for the new, large bottle. Sole Agents: John A. Huston Co., Ltd., Toronto.

London Receives Oxford Groupers With Open Mind

(By Thomas T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Five hundred members of the Oxford Group Movement have opened a campaign in London. Their efforts have received the benediction of the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishop of London. The most severe critic of the movement in England up to the moment has been the Bishop of Durham, the Rt. Rev. Dr. Henson, whose remarks have already been widely published. An interesting contribution concerning the Group Movement appears in the Spectator from Canon R. J. Campbell. Many years ago Canon Campbell, who was then a minister of the Congregational body, attained a considerable measure of notoriety by sermons and addresses on what was called the New Theology. Since then Canon Campbell has taken Holy Orders in the Anglican Church, and is now a prominent worker in the diocese of Chichester.

"My own attitude to the movement may fairly be described as critically sympathetic," writes Canon Campbell. "My first acquaintance with it dates from rather more than two years ago, when I was invited to Oxford to attend a house party organized by the Group. Being favorably impressed by much that I saw and heard there I invited Dr. Buchman to visit Chichester and hold a mission of a similar kind on a smaller scale within the Cathedral precincts. The invitation was accepted, and the leader and a team of about 20 young people came and held a series of meetings from Friday to Tuesday of one week-end in November, 1931. The audiences were mostly composed of invited guests chosen not only from the Cathedral circle but the neighboring clergy and Free Church ministers. The impression made at Oxford was deepened, and the conclusions to which I then came concerning both the worth and the weaknesses of the movement have since been confirmed by continued observation and correspondence.

"There can be no doubt whatever of the reality and spiritual power of the movement and the sincerity of its chief exponents," said Canon Campbell. "Dr. Buchman will forgive the frank confession that some of us do not find his Americanism attractive; it is rather too crude and brusque for our British taste; but we are conscious that this betokens a limitation in ourselves and in any case does not go to the root of the matter.

"It cannot and ought not to be denied that the movement is distinguished by the many radical moral renews it affects, and it is incorrect to say that in most cases these are impermanent. That there are cases of relapse might be taken for granted even if we were not explicitly told so, but these must consist principally of emotional types who are carried away for a time by the infectious enthusiasm of a closely packed assembly and cannot stand alone.

"The movement has its dangers—of course," added Canon Campbell. "What vital religious movement has not? But they are all curable, and it would be a grave blunder on the part of the Church to withhold countenance from a band of earnest Christians because of defects which will probably disappear with time.

"Methodism is respectable enough today but the aberrations of some of its early adherents were worse than anything that has yet been laid to the charge of the Groups. Christianity is much more than a matter of morals, and it would be a revelation to some of the leaders of the movement; themselves if they could acquire a deeper knowledge of what the great masters of the spiritual life have put on record on the subject of the union of the soul with God through Christ. Many of the crudities of 'sharing' would be eliminated at once if this were taken into account. Reiterated dwelling on sins is unhealthy both for those who confess and those who listen, and is a temptation to be less than

IN MEMORIAM

MR. HENRY F. COOMBS

Henry F. Coombs, formerly a well known citizen of Charlottetown passed away at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. G. W. Wightman Smith's Cove, N. S., on Monday at the advanced age of 90.

Mr. Coombs was of English descent a native of Newfoundland, and in his younger days was engaged in business in Charlottetown, principally in the West Indies trade. He owned and operated his own ships. For some time he was in St. John and represented firms throughout the Maritimes. Later he moved to Sydney, where he was in business until his retirement a few years ago.

He is survived by three daughters and four sons. His wife died previously. The daughters are Miss Wightman, Mrs. Charles McMullin of Yarmouth, and Miss Nellie, at Smith's Cove. The sons are F. W. Coombs of St. John, B. F. Coombs of New York, Harry L. Coombs, of Los Angeles and Chester C. Coombs of Wolfville, N. S.

The funeral was held from the residence of his daughter at Smith's Cove yesterday. Interment will be in the Digby Cemetery.

Still Seeking Micmac's Gold

ST. FINTAN'S, Nfld., Oct. 18.—(C.P.)—An Indian's buried hoard, long sought in the interior of Newfoundland, is again the subject of interest in this and neighboring villages.

One party of treasure hunters has returned empty-handed, but tales of hidden riches go on—losing nothing in the telling—and it is probable the search will be continued next summer.

Micmac legends describe the wealthy Indian burying his gold far beneath the soil and leaving a heavy iron kettle to mark the spot. The stories served chiefly for entertainment around the coal stove in the village store, but interest spread rapidly some years ago when Allan McIsaac, well known guide, found a kettle answering the description.

Since then searches have centered around the spot where the guide made his find, but so far no trace of the treasure has been discovered.
